London Expelling 90 Soviet Aides On Spy Charges

LONDON (UPI)—The British government announced today it was expelling 90 Soviet officials on spy charges and said it acted on information supplied by a high ranking Soviet KGB (Secret Police) official who defected to Britain.

It said another 15 Russians would be banned from reentering this country and that all 105 "have been confirmed in intelligence activities" by the KGB defector. The Foreign Office said the extent and nature of Soviet espionage in Britain was provided by the KGB agent.

The story broke earlier today when the newspaper Evening News said a highranking KGB official defected three months ago in what it called a triumph for the British Intelligence Service.

It said the suggestion was that the Russian was persuaded by British blandishments to come to London, that "interrogation of the defector has produced material of high importance" and that Britain had been in touch with the American CIA.

The Foreign Office declined comment at first today and then made the wholesale espionage announcement, attributing its information to the defector.

"This man, an officer of the KGB, brought with him certain information and documents including plans for infiltration of agents for the purpose of sabotage," the statement said.

British officials said the Soviet Union has a total of 550 officials attached to diplomatic, trade and other missions in Britain.

The Foreign Office said the British government acted only after lengthy discussions with the Soviets and after Moscow denied that it was engaged in intelligence activity on the scale alleged by Britain.

The statement said that on the instructions of British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home, the permanent undersecretary of state, Sir Dennis Greenhill, asked Soviet charge d'affaires Ivan Ippolitov to call at the foreign office today and handed him an aide memoire setting out the British decision.

Britain asked the Soviet Embassy to arrange for a number of Soviet officials "all of whom have been concerned in intelligence activities to leave the country within two weeks."

The Foreign Office statement said Britain has decided to limit in future the number of Soviet officials who will be permitted in the country after those expelled have left.

This level will be further reduced if a Soviet official is in future required to leave the country as a result of involvement in intelligence activity, the statement said.

The statement said "the number of Soviet officials in Britain and the proportion of them engaged in intelligence work has been causing grave concern for some time."

The statement said that in the last 12 months several Soviet officials have been withdrawn at the request of the Foreign Office after being detected in intelligence activities while others left the country of their own accord after being detected.

Puzzling Crash Is Fatal To Two

An auto-truck collision killed two persons and seriously injured two others on Highway 37 east of the Marin County line at 4:30 p.m. yesterday, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Investigators today were still puzzling over the cause of the crash.

Dead were Sylvester Beard, 46, resident of a hotel at 825 Fourth Street, San Rafael, and Douglas R. Quinn, 15, of Sonoma. Both were passengers in a sedan driven by Don Robert Hurd, 22, of Vallejo, who was reported in serious condition today at Marin General Hospital. Also in serious condition at the hospital was Gina Elizabeth Waldron, 47, of Vallejo, another passenger.

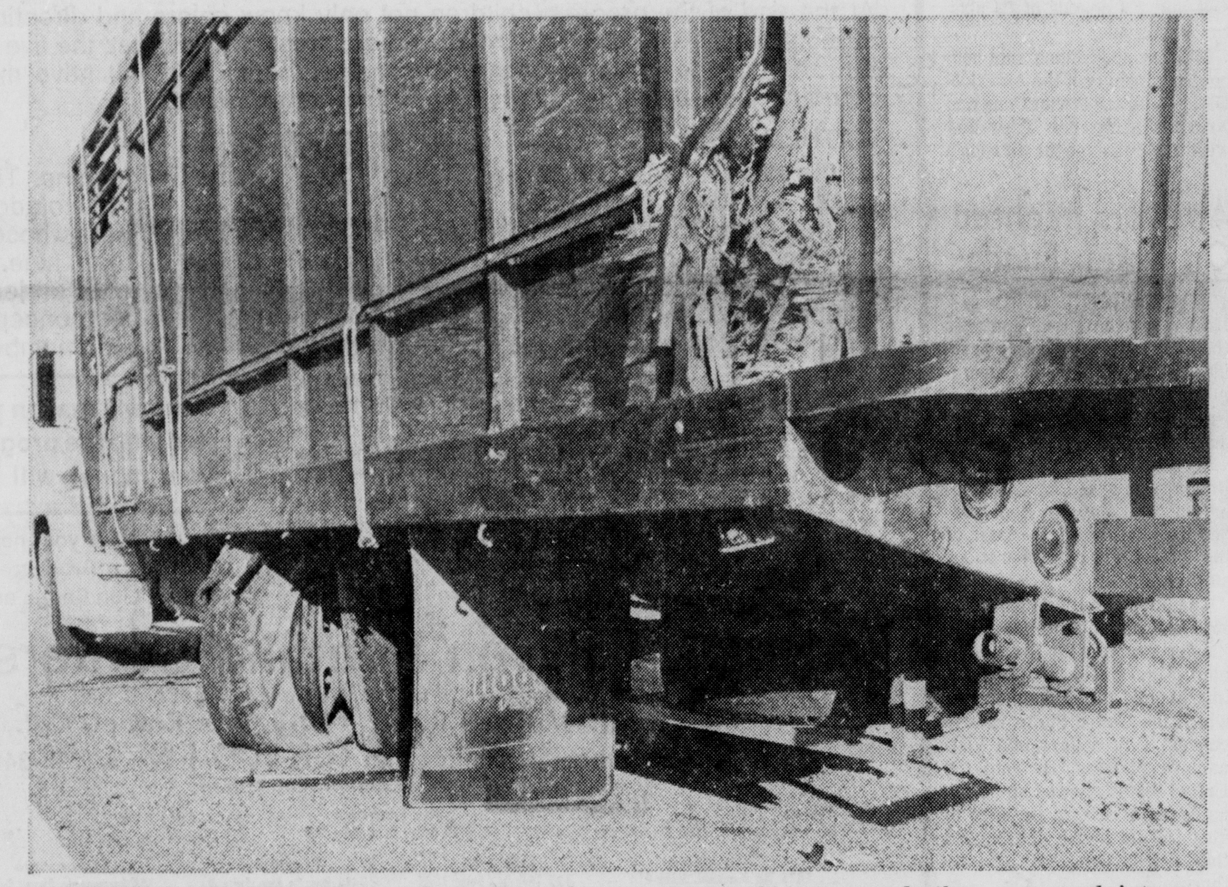
Patrol officers said the heavy flatbed truck driven by Arthur C. Williams, 29 of Santa Rosa, was parked, disabled on the southerly shoulder of the eastbound lanes of Highway 37, when Hurd's auto plowed under the truck's left rear end, swerved into the highway again, then through a fence and into the field past the truck.

The accident happened just east of the intersection of Highway 37 and Lakeville Road, in completely clear, dry conditions, investigators said.

Hurd's auto was demolished. Williams was not injured.

The Marin County coroner's office said Beard was sitting in the right-hand passenger's seat in front, and Quinn in the rear seat. Quinn reportedly was a hitchhiker, the coroner's office said.

The deaths were the 25th and 26th traffic fatalities within the jurisdiction of Marin's CHP office this year, compared to 23 on the same date last year.



GRINDING CRASH — Battered wheels and crushed siding on a parked truck bear mute witness to the violence of a crash in which two persons died. California Highway Patrol officers said a passenger truck drove under the truck's rear end, then careened into a field off Highway 37 east of Black Point yesterday. The truck belonged to the Ash Bag Co. of Petaluma.

Student Slaps Willy Brandt In The Face

MUNICH, Germany (UPI)—A 23-year-old German political science student slapped Chancellor Willy Brandt in the face on a downtown Munich sidewalk today as a protest against Brandt's conciliatory East European policies, police said.

Munich police Chief Manfred Schreiber identified the attacker at a news conference as Viktor Gislo, 23, a student who recently ran unsuccessfully as a candidate of the extreme rightwing National Democratic Party (NDP) for the Bavarian state parliament.

Mandatory Smog Controls Are Hinted

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area smog officials conceded yesterday that their first alert last week had been ignored by most motorists, and cautioned that mandatory controls on driving may replace appeals to cut driving voluntarily. (Another smog control story, page 5.)

The three-day alert during last week's record hot spell apparently was ignored by the public, with only industry cutting back production voluntarily, according to the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District's air pollution control officer, D.J. Callaghan.

"We were very pleasantly surprised by the voluntary compliance by industry," he told district directors. He had no data to back his claim, but said information backing it will be released when complete.

The district's authority to impose mandatory controls on driving remained unclear, according to the district's attorney, Matthew S. Walker. He promised an opinion of the board's powers by its Nov. 3 meeting, but said he believed the board already had such power.

Callaghan warned that "there are going to be a lot of legal hurdles involved if this district goes for something mandatory."

But San Francisco Supervisor Dianne Feinstein declared that if voluntary controls "are not going to work, we are going to put in a mandatory alert."

Agreeing with her, Portola Valley City Councilman Nevin K. Hiester said depending on voluntary controls was "just playing games."

Alameda County Supervisor Joseph P. Bort added that voluntary controls on driving will not work "until we find some gentle method of making it a little more difficult." He revived his previous suggestion that tolls be doubled on bay bridges, but no one else supported this approach.

Oklahoma's Fred Harris To Seek Demo's Presidential Nomination

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Oklahoma's Fred R. Harris today announced he will seek the Democratic presidential nomination and proposed breaking up General Motors as one of his first campaign pledges.

In the crowded Senate caucus room, where John F. Kennedy launched his White House candidacy, Sen. Harris said he would seek the nomination in an effort to "try to turn this country around before it's too late."

"I believe that a President can call this country back to greatness," Harris told a newsconference. "I mean to try."

In response to a question about the economy, Harris quoted Ralph Nader's claim that car prices are inflated 20 per cent because of the industry's monopolistic structure and suggested that General Motors should be broken up into five companies.

"If they have competition, prices would come down," Harris said.

Harris said he planned to enter most of the primaries. But he added, that "my present thought is I might not go into New Hampshire" which holds the first primary.

The 40-year old, self-styled modern-day populist said his campaign would take him to the elderly, to Vietnam veterans in hospitals, to the prisons, and to the streets.

"A campaign itself can give power to the powerless," he said. "I mean to do that."

Harris joined Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota as an announced candidate for the

Tribunal Pares Its Calendar

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court, absent two senior members just two weeks from the opening of its 1971-1972 term, today dropped most of the controversial cases from its scheduled docket of arguments — including the crucial question of the death penalty.

The cases of four men on death row which had been consolidated for argument at the start of the Court's working session Oct. 12 were postponed indefinitely. The Court opens with formal ceremonies Oct. 4.

Also eliminated from the calendar were cases involving sex discrimination, pollution and a major smog suit filed by 15 states against the nation's automobile manufacturers.

The revised calendar was announced by the seven-member Court without comment but the action was prompted obviously because of the retirement of

'GOOD TRY' BUT GIFTS NOT FROZEN

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Office of Emergency Preparedness today gave a Bay Area man a "good try," but ruled that his wife's birthday present was not included in President Nixon's freeze.

The office received a letter, "My wife's birthday is coming up and she wants a present. Under terms of the wage-price freeze can it be more expensive than I gave her last year?"

OEP regional Director Ralph D. Burns answered that gifts were not frozen.

"You are therefore free to give her any gift you feel she deserves," Burns told his correspondent.

Dynamite Tossed At Jetliner

DETROIT (UPI)—A psychology professor, armed with a pistol and a satchel of explosives and about to board a jetliner with 71 passengers, threw two sticks of dynamite at sky marshals who chased her up a stairway at Detroit Metropolitan Airport today.

"We'll all die," she yelled. The dynamite did not explode and the woman was captured.

The jetliner, American Airlines Flight 124, was evacuated shortly before takeoff. The plane was searched but no other explosives were found, and three hours later the

Auditorium Is Ready For Gala Opening Tomorrow

Everything is ready to go tomorrow when — after long years of preparation — the new Veterans Memorial Building opens at 8:30 p.m. with a Marin Symphony concert featuring soprano Dorothy Kirsten as soloist and the world premiere of Darius Milhaud's Suite in G.

An on-stage champagne supper will complete the evening.

Surprise last minute attractions include a display of painting and sculpture and performance during the buffet supper by the Generation Gap, a contemporary singing group made up of 14 Marin people accompanied by piano, bass and drums. They will sing music by Bacharach, Jim Webb and the Beatles and other contemporary composers.

Iran-born Farhad Moezzi, a graduate of the University of Teheran, will exhibit his bronze and nickel silver works, and paintings by Bruce Lauritzen of Larkspur will be on display. His sketches, paintings and photographs recording his travels on the European and African continents have been shown in one-man exhibits in Milan and Rome.

What will acoustics be when the Marin Symphony tests them for the first time with a full house?

Conductor Sandor Salgo, judging from rehearsal, has said, "I think we have a wonderful house here."

And Charles Meacham, assistant conductor and concertmaster adds, "It seems to be a very live and responsive auditorium. A large audience should tone it down to just about the right sound, but the problem for

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Boycott Off

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI)—The chief organization of white mothers opposed to busing to desegregate schools relented Thursday and agreed to allow their children to go to classes for the first time since school began Sept. 7.

The National Action Group (NAG), in a surprising about-face, called off its boycott of Pontiac's schools and, at the same time, canceled a statewide boycott planned for Oct. 1.

"We feel the boycott has been most successful and very effective in demonstrating the unity and depth of the feeling of the community in its total opposition to the busing program," said Mrs. Irene McCabe, NAG president.

But, she said, "Any further boycott of the schools would only injure the children whom we are all interested in helping."

Black Critical

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hugo L. Black, 85, remained on the critical list today at Bethesda Naval Hospital with doctors saying the recently retired Supreme Court justice's chances of recovery from a stroke were "poor."

Black suffered a serious "cerebral vascular accident" Sunday night and his condition grew progressively worse until he was placed on the critical list Thursday.

"Justice Black's condition has remained unchanged since the issue of the 10:30 a.m. and subsequent reports," the hospital reported at 11:45 p.m. Thursday. The next report was expected about midmorning.

Texas Speaker Indicted—Bribery

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Gus Franklin Mutscher, the Democratic speaker of the Texas House of Representatives, was indicted Thursday on a charge of accepting a bribe to pass two banking bills during a special legislative session two years ago.

Mutscher

"I am confident I will be acquitted," said Mutscher, 38, of Brenham.

The Travis County Grand Jury indicted Mutscher, another legislator, a legislative aide and a former state insurance commissioner on the bribery charges which came to light during a federal investigation of fraudulent stock manipulations in Texas.

The other officials indicted were:

Rep. Thomas C. Shannon, 61, a Fort Worth Democrat, the speaker pro tempore of the House and a close friend and political ally of Mutscher.

Lake Effort

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Communist party and government today ordered vast anti-pollution measures to try to save the pristine waters of Lake Baikal, which contains one-fifth of all the fresh water on earth.

A resolution of the Council of Ministers and the Central Committee of the Communist party ordered purification facilities installed at a huge ceilulose plant on Baikal's shores.

It also forbade further paper plants on a river that empties into Baikal until purification of the other plant's wastes are guaranteed.

It was a major triumph for scientists who have campaigned for 10 years against industrial spoilage of Lake Baikal. The 400-mile-long lake is 5,000 feet deep.

Heroin Addicts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon said today that tests show slightly more than one of every 100 Air Force personnel in Vietnam are heroin users.

The percentage was listed at 1.1 per cent. Officials said 0.4 per cent of recruits entering the Air Force service at Lackland AFB, Tex., were found to be heroin users. They said that of 7,142 basic trainees tested, 30 proved to be users.

Launch Delayed

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The launch of a $28 million orbiting solar observatory has been delayed until Monday at the earliest because of continued difficulty in tracing the source of a rocket control system problem.

The delay, announced Thursday, was the fourth this week. The shot originally was set for Thursday.

Verdict Flayed

TOKYO (UPI)—North Vietnam's official newspaper today denounced the acquittal of Capt. Ernest Medina in the 1968 My Lai massacre and said President Nixon ordered the verdict.

The newspaper Nhan Dan, published in Hanoi, said Nixon obtained the release of Medina and the reduction in sentence given earlier to Lt. William Calley.

"The Nixon clique's attitude in the Son My case is utterly sinister and despicable," the North Vietnam newspaper said, according to an account broadcast today from Hanoi.

Man Booked On Assault Probe

Arthur Vette Hatter, 22, of 807 Fourth Street, Apt. 15, San Rafael was booked into Marin County Jail shortly after 6 p.m. yesterday on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

Witnesses called San Rafael police to an empty lot in the 400 block of Fourth Street and said they had seen Hatter beating Jerry N. Levaro, 34, of 830 B Street, San Rafael, with a two-by-four. Police reported they also found there was a bench warrant against Hatter, on charges of marijuana possession and transportation plus possession of narcotics paraphernalia.

Bail was set at $5,000 on the assault charge and he was held to appear in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon.

Police said Hatter and Levaro had been drinking together during the day and the beating resulted from an agrument. Levaro's cut chin was stitched at Marin General Hospital and he was released.

Answers Wanted On Thieu Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A House subcommittee contends the United States secretly provided $500 million to the government of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu during the past three years.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers was asked for an explanation Thursday by Rep. Torbert H. MacDonald, D-Mass., of the House Foreign Operations subcommittee.

The subcommittee found that $500 million had been shipped "under the table" to South Vietnam, MacDonald said, when it investigated the exchange rates which the United States uses to convert U.S. dollars into Vietnamese piasters. He said the United States allowed an "artifically high rate to be used to disguise aid above and beyond that which Congress has authorized."

GIs In Vietnam On 'Grey Alert'

SAIGON (UPI)—The 215,000 American GIs in Vietnam were confined to their bases tonight in a special 12-day "Grey Alert" in case the Communists try to disrupt the forthcoming South Vietnamese presidential election.

The alert was ordered by the U.S. command "in anticipation of possible enemy activity" before, during and after the Oct. 3 balloting.

The alert took effect at 5 p.m. (5 a.m. EDT) today and will run at least until 5 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 6 (5 a.m. EDT). American troops were forbidden to enter populated areas "except on essential official business or travel between billets and place of duty."

On battlefronts, the military command reported that two American F4 Phantom fighter-bombers swept into North Vietnam again Thursday to bomb antiaircraft guns in the third consecutive day of crossborder strikes.

As the Phantoms struck north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) U.S. B52 bombers pounded North Vietnamese bunkers inside the DMZ.

Near the northern city of Hue, five 122mm Communist rockets hit the U.S. 101st Airborne Division headquarters at Camp Eagle Thursday night but caused no casualties.

The South Vietnamese command reported government infantrymen Thursday seized a Communist base camp near Tay Ninh City, 50 miles northwest of Saigon after it had been hit by allied air strikes. The troops found the bodies of 15 Viet Cong and captured 800 pounds of rice, 100 pounds of salt and 200 pounds of C4 plastic explosives.

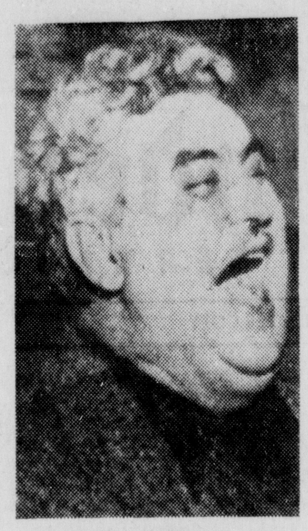
Military spokesmen said helicopter gunships of the Americal Division killed 35 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese Thursday within 38 miles of the division's base at Chu Lai south of Da Nang.

The two Phantom jets were bombing Communist truck convoys on the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos Thursday when fired on by antiaircraft guns from nearby North Vietnam, military spokesmen said.

The jets turned east into North Vietnam and divebombed the gun battery 37 miles north of the DMZ. Results of the attack were unknown and the planes were not damaged.

It was the third consecutive day of what the U.S. command calls "protective reaction" strikes into North Vietnam. F4s carried out similar attacks Wednesday and more than 200 planes bombed fuel storage sites and antiaircraft emplacements north of the DMZ on Tuesday.

The Tuesday raids were personally approved by President Nixon, a White House spokesman in Washington said.



COMEDIAN DIES — Billy Gilbert, whose acting career stretched from the vaudeville days to the era of television, died yesterday in a Hollywood convalescent hospital. Gilbert, 78, appeared in 300 films, usually popping into the middle of a scene to provide some quick comic relief and then disappearing. The comedian (shown in a 1946 photo) is survived by his wife, Lolly McKenzie Gilbert.

U.S. To Delay On Saving Taiwan Seat

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The United States will hold off an all-out effort to save a U.N. seat for Nationalist China until next month's debate in the General Assembly, diplomatic sources said today.

The American effort already has suffered a setback with the recommendation of the U.N. steering committee Wednesday that the U.S. proposal to retain the Nationalist seat be considered along with a proCommunist proposal by Albania.

American diplomats felt the proposal would stand a better chance if both were considered at the same time, but the 24-nation steering committee recommended they be taken up separately.

The United States is pushing companion resolution on the China issue. One would seat Communit China in both the General Assembly and the Security Council. The other would require a two-thirds vote of the assembly to expel the Chinese Nationalists.
the assembly to expel the Chinese Nationalists.

The Albanian resolution, also sponsored by 20 other nations, calls for "restoration of the lawful rights of the People's Republic of (Communist) China" and expulsion of the Nationalist Chinese from all U.N. bodies.

The full General Assembly today was expected to give its approval to the steering committee recommendations. Under the rules, debate on the steering committee recommendations could be reopened in the General Assembly, but a U.S. spokesman said U.S. Ambassador George Bush had no intention of doing so.

NEW FROM SULLIVAN!

A PRICELESS OPPORTUNITY FOR CHILDREN AGES 3-6

The Sullivan Early Achievement Program Costs Less Than a Babysitter!

The Results of the Sullivan Early Achievement Program

READING:
At the end of the program children not only know colors and direction, but they'll know straight lines, curved lines, circles and squares, the alphabet, the five short vowel sounds and the common sounds of the consonants. Your child will have mastered the understanding and spelling of 126 two and three letter words.

MATHEMATICS:
At the end of the Math program children will have learned to recognize numbers zero to nine and write the numeral corresponding to the number, and to count any number of objects from one to nine. They will also know how to add and subtract numbers whose sum is not greater than nine. They will have a solid understanding of the basic concepts needed to work with numbers.

The Sullivan Early Achievement Program consists of 10 week sessions. Each child attends three 80 minute classes a week. Each group is limited to ten students. This small size enables teachers to give the children lots of individual attention. The cost of a 10 week session is $60.00.

The Sullivan Early Achievement Program will start October 4th. Please dial R-E-A-D-I-N-G for further information.

Please sign up early, enrollments are limited.

If for any reason you are not satisfied with the progress of your child your money will be refunded.

FROM ONE BABY TO ANOTHER

There's no generation gap between 3-year-old Heather Simmons and a baby gorilla born Wednesday at the Henry Deerly Zoo in Omaha, Neb. — quite the opposite, in fact. The little gorilla will be cared for at Heather's house — her father is the zoo director — until it's old enough to care for itself, when it will be sent to the Como Park Zoo in St. Paul, Minn. The foster home arrangement is necessary because the gorilla's mother, Benoit, accidentally killed her first baby.

Space For Learning Center Plea Slated

Marin City Council will urge the Sausalito School District board to reconsider its refusal to allow the Marin City Learning Center's plea to use the Manzanita School in Marin City for classes.

The council also will file a complaint with the Marin County Housing Authority, stating that the school is an educational facility and should be in use rather than sitting vacant.

According to Rev. Samuel L. Banks, chairman, the unanimous action came last night on the heels of the school board's refusal to open the Manzanita School doors to about 55 students (kindergarten through eighth grade) who temporarily are attending classes in the Village Baptist Church.

The learning center was established this year by Marin City parents who were dissatisfied with the education their children were receiving in Sausalito schools.

Banks said he will send letters to both groups today in the hope that the council can influence their decision.

The complaint to the housing authority also will mention the vandalism that has been occurring at Manzanita School since the Sausalito board decided not to open it, Banks said. All district students have been placed in Martin Luther King and Bayside schools.

Council member Frank Phillips Sr. said the council took the action on its own and was not prompted to do so by a request from the learning center. "We just want to make them (school board) aware of the consensus of this community," Phillips said.

The property on which the school is located was donated to the district at no cost by the housing authority and the Marin County Redevelopment Agency to build an elementary school.

However, at the school board meeting Monday, Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the housing authority, said he was in the process of trying to reacquire the land for the Marin City community.

In other business, the council changed its regular meeting night from the second and fourth Thursdays of each month to the second and fourth Mondays of the month.

Also, the council went on record as supporting the housing authority and the redevelopment agency in efforts to negotiate with the California Development Co. to regain control of 60 acres of redevelopment land.

The council also voted to coordinate its efforts with the redevelopment agency in developing the Marin City master plan.

Vandals Damage Three Tractors

Someone put dirt into the gas tanks, radiators and crankcases of three tractors owned by A. G. McDonald Co. of Napa, causing damage estimated at $1,000, Novato police reported today.

The tractors, parked at the end of Santa Maria Drive, were damaged between 4:30 p.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. yesterday, police said.

Fairfax Holds Closed Hearing

The Fairfax City Council last night held another in a series of closed meetings on charges against an unidentified employee, but officials were tight-lipped about the outcome.

Beyond previous statements that the matter was a serious one, City Mgr. Robert E. Crowe would say only that the council asked him to obtain from the city attorney answers to unspecified questions surrounding the employee's conduct.

Last night's meeting was the third held on the issue.

Juvenile Panel Names Leader

Named vice chairman of the commission was John Donovan, assistant administrator for San Rafael city schools.

The juvenile justice commissioners on Wednesday decided not to consider a merger at this time with the Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission.

Court Rejects Highrise Plea

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The state District Court of Appeals Thursday rejected a petition from Alvin Duskin to halt permits for any new highrises until the November election.

Duskin, a candidate for the board of Supervisors, was turned down last month by San Francisco Superior Court in his bid to halt any permits for buildings more than 72 feet in height.

His lawyers, as a result, asked the appelate court for a restraining order. The denial was without comment.

Duskin previously backed a successful citizens' drive which placed an election initiative on the November ballot next month to limit the highrises.

Rohnert Park Residents Due Garbage Fee Rebate

Rohnert Park residents will get a rebate on garbage collection fees since the recent rate increase has been held in violation of the federal wage-price freeze.

City Atty. Richard D. Maxwell told the city council last night that the increase, which has been in effect two months, was held illegal by the office of emergency preparedness although increased service accompanied the rate hike.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said residents will receive credit for the $1.60 overcharge on the next billing.

In other action, the council approved the installation of a new water main on Snyder Lane to service the Los Companeros mobile home park. The council directed the C & G Development Co. to install the line to its park to be reimbursed by the city later.

Present Pamela Court Family Is Not Involved

A story in last Saturday's Independent-Journal reported that an investigation over a six-year period had resulted in the arrest of seven Marin residents in connection with a huge marijuana smuggling operation and reported one destination of the contraband to have been a house at 70 Pamela Court in Tiburon.

At the time of the alleged smuggling operation the Pamela Court residence was occupied by Will Walker, 27, and Joanne Gail Fahey, 31, according to the indictment which states that between March 1970 and May 1970 they "permitted their rented house to be used for concealing marijuana."

The present owner of the property has advised the Independent-Journal that — because the story did not give the dates of the alleged offense — many friends and neighbors have indicated they thought his family was involved in the smuggling.

The I-J hastens to report that any such inference is without foundation and that the present owner is in no way connected with the case.

BOMB

Walter B. Boyd, an American Airlines official, said the airline was told by state police shortly before the flight was scheduled to leave Detroit at 7:45 a-m. that a woman carrying explosives might try to board.

Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas identified the woman as Barbara Pliskow, 39, a former professor of psychology at Wayne State University.

Lucas said the woman had a note in her purse. "She said she planned to take this drastic action because she was 'disillusioned with our system' of government," Lucas said.

Lucas said that in addition to the two sticks of dynamite the woman threw at sky marshals, sheriff's deputies found on her person "explosive substances with a higher potential than dynamite."

The woman was questioned by the deputies and FBI agents at the airport sheriff's office before being taken by car into the custody of the FBI.

Wearing a blue skirt and a vest over a patterned blouse, the woman stared straight ahead as she was taken to the patrol car. "She looked like she wasn't in contact with what was happening," an observer said.

Lucas described the woman as "depressed over failing to succeed in her drastic action which was to blow up the plane."

"At 7:35 this morning our reservations department got a call from the state police, stating that a passenger by the name of Barbara Pliskow was booked on Flight 124 to New York," said Boyd.

"The flight was scheduled to depart at 7:45 and they advised us at the time that she, according to the check they had, was planning some activity.

"At this point, Boyd said, "the suspect tried to flee the scene. She was apprehended by the ski marshals."

As the marshals were pursuing the woman, Boyd said, she stopped at the top of a stairway and threw the dynamite.

"We'll all die," the woman yelled.

Boyd described the woman as very excited. "It took three people to subdue her," he said.

Boyd said the passengers were taken off the plane, prior to the takeoff, so the plane could be searched and the passengers checked. They were being lined up for a security check in an area normally used for loading, when the woman broke from the crowd and ran.

There were a number of passengers in the area when she threw the dynamite. "It's a good thing it didn't go off," Boyd said.

Boyd said the woman was identified by police as Barbara Pliskow, 39. He said officials had difficulty checking out the police tip that a woman by that name might be considering an inflight bombing because there was no woman by that name listed as a passenger.

"The description we had was a rather flimsy one," Boyd said.

He said the woman did not give a motive.

COURT

President Nixon's new appointees probably will not be confirmed by the Senate in time for the first part of the new Court term. Rep. Richard E. Poff, D-Va., was favored as one of the nominees. There was speculation a woman might be named to the second vacancy.

The Court was scheduled to open its working session with arguments raising the basic question of whether the death sentence constitutes the kind of "cruel and unusual punishment" forbidden by the 8th amendment.

A decision has been pending since 1967 and no execution has taken place in the nation since June 2, 1967. There are 653 persons on death row awaiting the outcome.

Black resigned from the Court a week ago today and Harlan sent his resignation to the White House Thursday. Harlan, 72, a member for 16 years, has spinal cancer, his doctor reported.

The resignation of Harlan, known as "The Great Dissenter" followed by six days the resignation of Justice Hugo L. Black, 85.

At a question and answer session at the Detroit Economic Club, Nixon said his choice need not be a judge, as his previous appointments have been, but could be "a legislator with experience in the judiciary committee of the House or Senate."

"That gives you an idea of where I am leaning," Nixon said.

Poff, 48, is the second ranking Republican on the House Judiciary Committee and is considered an able constitutional lawyer. He has been mentioned frequently as a possible appointee.

But already some opposition had risen to Poff. The Americans for Democratic Action charged Poff has a record of opposition to civil rights legislation.

The ADA's national director, Leon Shull, said Poff was a signatory of the Southern manifesto in 1956 and would "become the first justice in more than 20 years to have declared that segregation is constitutional." In Congress, Shull said, Poff had voted "against every civil rights bill to come before him."

The opening salvo against Poff called to mind Nixon's two earlier, and unsuccessful attempts, to win confirmation of a southerner to the Supreme Court. Two years ago the Senate rejected Nixon's southern nominees, Clement Haynesworth and G. Harrold Carswell.

The Washington Post said today Attorney General John N. Mitchell told the newspaper in an interview Nixon was "very seriously" considering nominating a woman to the court.

At the same time, the White House announcement of Harlan's retirment carefully avoided saying Nixon was looking for a man to replace Harlan, as it did when Black resigned.

Ronald L. Ziegler, the White House press secretary, said Nixon would try "to find highly qualified persons for these position."

Mitchell also told the Post he thought Poff was "an oustanding individual" who would "be great in any job."

The appointments gave Nixon an opportunity to continue tailoring the court to his strict constructionist philisophy. It was considered likely he would act quickly on the appointments.

Harlan had been a leader of the court's conservative minority.

Board Approves Bigger Facility

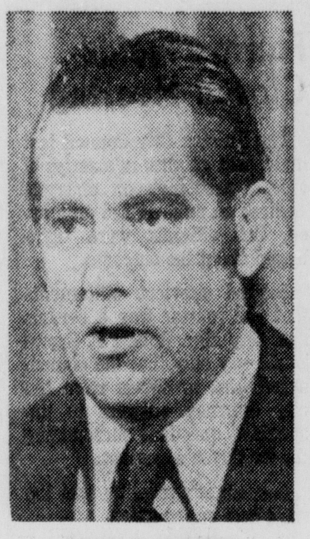
I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Zoning Adjustments yesterday approved the expansion of a group care facility in Petaluma.

Louise McKittrick had requested to enlarge her facility at 365 Kuck Lane for the mentally handicapped from six to eight persons.

In other action, the board approved the request of Ray R. and Margaret Ainsworth for a trailer sale and storage yard at 1248 Petaluma Boulevard North.

Also approved were requests for placements of mobile homes by August B. Deniz, 421 Sonoma Mountain Road, Petaluma; and George V. Menchen, 8958 Cypress Avenue, Cotati.



FRED R. HARRIS
Enters the race

HARRIS

Democratic nomination. McGovern announced last spring.

Over the past two and a half months, Harris has sought to put together a coalition of senior citizens, disenchanted youth, blacks, Mexican-Americans, Indians, farmers, and blue collar workers.

—"A lot of people can't believe America has ever been to the moon. That's because they doubt the credibility of the government and because it seems so illogical to them that our nation could spend so much money on space when so many of our people here on earth can't buy medical care.

—"Most people don't believe that it makes much difference what politician is elected. They don't really believe things are going change."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine is expected to enter the race before the end of the year. Sens. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Birch Bayh of Indiana, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota; Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas; and Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City are other possible contenders.

Harris announced July 16 that he would not seek re-election to the Senate and would begin testing his support as a possible presidential candidate. He toured 19 states, some as often as three times, to determine his chances.

The 40-year old Sooner was born in Lawton, Okla., Nov. 13, 1930. After going through Walters public schools, he received a bachelor of arts and a law degree from the University of Oklahoma.

He served in the Oklahoma State Senate from 1956 to 1964 and was elected to the U.S. Senate in 1964 to fill the unexpired term of the late Sen. Robert S. Kerr. He was 33 at the time, the second youngest member of the Senate.

In 1968, Harris and Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., teamed as cochairmen of Citizens for Humphrey, which guided then Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey to the Democratic nomination.

After the elections, Harris was elected chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Under his chairmanship, two committees began the task of writing new rules for the selection of delegates to the convention.

Spread thin by his dual role as senator and national chairman, Harris resigned the chairmanship last year and began concentrating on reelection.

an orchestra with an initial experience in a new hall is that they can't hear anything they heard before in practice. It's a matter of adjusting the ear. So we won't really know until tomorrow night."

That there will be a full house seems likely, according to Leon Kalimos, executive director of the building, who says that tickets are going very well, with a few full view seats still available.

Last minute preparations are complete, he says, even to planting of trees and parking and ushering arrangements.

College of Marin students with flashlights will direct the public into the parking lots, and if they are full, a minibus will take people to and from these lots to another lot.

Two Brinks Guards Shot During Holdup

BERKELEY (UPI) — Two Brinks armored car guards were shot today in a holdup at a supermarket.

It was not determined immediately whether the two gunmen got away with any of the cash.

ALERT

Dissolving into an hour of rambling discussion of the problem, the board finally gave a resounding unanimous vote to form a new committee to study the problem.

But not a single hand came up nor a single voice was heard when chairman Robert W. Hoyer asked if there were "any volunteers" for the committee. Hoyer, a Clayton city councilmen, said he would make the appointments later.

Santa Clara County Supervisor Victor Calvo said that creation of the study committee did not mean the board should "wait three months for them to report back to us. By then the smog season will be over."

He urged each member to "get busy" in his home county organizing programs to implement smog alerts. Perhaps using county civil defense officers ("give them something to do"), Calvo said, these programs should encourage employers and local government to organize car pools and to get word of alerts to every citizen.

"People want to help," he said, but feel they can do little as individuals.

San Francisco Supervisor Peter Tamaras suggested that the study committee consider the need to wear face masks like those worn by the population in influenza epidemics earlier in history.

Robbery Case Arrest Made

Marshall Ervin Craig, 23, of 205 Drake Avenue, Marin City, was arrested last night by Mill Valley police on a warrant charging him with robbery.

The warrant includes an affidavit from a 14-year-old boy that Craig knocked him to the ground and took his walkie-talkie on Sept. 9 in front of the Mill Valley Bus Depot, police said.

Craig was booked into Marin County Jail at 6:20 p.m. yesterday and was held in lieu of $5,000 bail. He was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

OBITUARIES

Loran H. Darnell, 65, Dies

Darnell was born in Greeley, Colo., and lived in Illinois, Missouri and Kansas before moving to Petaluma in 1922. He had been employed in radio construction and maintenance for the federal government and also worked for Petaluma poultry producers and feed and grain companies until his retirement in 1965.

Darnell was a member of Petaluma Masonic Lodge 180, Royal Arch Lodge 22 and Morningstar Cahpter 61, Order of Eastern Star.

He is survived by his wife, Daisy; three daughters, Arlene Blunt of Petaluma, Grace Mitchell of San Francisco and Dorothy Truitt of Artesia, N.M.; a son, Douglas H. Fehler of Vallejo; two sisters, Myrna Whittington of Walla Walla, Wash., and Wilma P. Riggle of Springdale, Wash.; seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be held Monday at 2 p.m. at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma; followed by burial at Cypress Hill Memorial Park. The family prefers that contributions be made to the American Heart Fund.

MRS. SHINN

Memorial service has been held for Mrs. Joseph Clark Shinn of Fremont, matriarch of an early Santa Clara Valley family and mother of Mrs. Frank J. Solinsky of Sausalito.

Mrs. Shinn, who was 90, died Monday in a Marin convalescent hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Shinn and her late husband, Joseph, were instrumental in the growth of Niles and Washington Township. Born in East Oakland, where her father, Harrison Allen Mayhew was the first mayor, Mrs. Shinn graduated from the University of California in 1902 when Berkeley was the university's lone campus.

The Shinns were leaders in development of the Washington Township school system, and she later taught for several years at Union High School.

Surviving besides Mrs. Solinsky are another daughter, Mrs. Moshe Shifrine of Davis; a son, Vice Admiral Allen Mayhen Shinn of Oxon Hill, Md.; 13 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

EVA WHITTAKER

Mrs. Whittaker was the widow of Harry Whittaker, a chicken and egg rancher. A former resident of 84 Palm Lane, she was last a resident of the Novato Manor Convalescent Hospital.

She was one of the founding members of the Novato Senior Citizens and , in 1966 that organization nominated her for the Marin County Senior Citizen of the Year award.

Mrs. Whittaker and her husband were known in the Novato area for their whist parties.

She was a native of Ohio and had lived in California for 50 years and in Novato for 30 years.

She leaves no immediate family.

There will be no service, but a memorial tribute at a meeting of the Novato Senior Citizens at noon Monday at the Novato Community House. Inurnment will be at Marin Memorial Gardens, Novato.

JOHN HINKSON

Funeral for John E. Hinkson of San Rafael will be Monday at 2 p.m. at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Greenbrae.

Hinkson, who resided at 285 North San Pedro Road, died at his home Wednesday. He was 86.

A native of Pennsylvania, Hinkson moved to California 42 years ago and to Marin County 12 years ago.

He was a retired house painter and was self-employed for 50 years. He was also active in several Marin County senior citizen organizations as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

He is survived by two sons, Floyd E. Hinkson of San Rafael and Howard E. Hinkson of San Francisco; a daughter, Virginia M. Wallace of Modesto; a brother, Royal J. Hinkson of Salt Lake City, an seven grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery in San Rafael.

Friends may call at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael, after 7 p.m. tomorrow until 9 p.m. Sunday.

The family requests memorial contributions be sent to the Latter Day Saints Childrens Hospital, Salt Lake City.

Shell To Close Petaluma Plant

Shell Oil Co. has announced it will close its marketing truck terminal and bulk storage facility in Petaluma on Oct. 15.

Company officials said increased operating costs and the need for new equipment forced the closing. It had been in operation on the Petaluma River since 1941.

The plant has a storage capacity of 35,000 barrels and was one of the company's last facilities to be served by river barges. The eight employees will be transferred to other plants.

Agreement Denied

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Negotiators for the Pacific Maritime Association and the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union issued a special announcement today denying reports of an agreement on the key issue in the 84-day-old dock strike.

Industry Wins Pollution Round

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area smog officials, heeding pleas by industry that extensive measuring of pollutants inside smokestacks would be too costly, yesterday rejected a proposal to require the measuring by all major industries. (Another smog control story, page 1.)

The proposal was made by a director of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, Mountain View City Councilman William R. Jelavich. He argued the district had "a serious responsibility to ensure that the level of pollution is always at its lowest."

The Bay Area League of Industrial Associations, however, claimed that it would cost each major plant up to $1 million to install in-stack instruments. Operation and maintenance of the instruments also would be expensive, the league said.

Pollution from each plant now is computed indirectly by measuring the amount of material processed in the plant, and by checking periodically the air quality in the vicinity of the plant. District officials long have stressed that the final figures were only engineering estimates.

Jelavich said the in-stack instruments would "take a lot of the guesswork out of a lot of problem areas."

His only support on the 18-member board, however, came from San Francisco Supervisor Dianne Feinstein. She said the instruments would enable inspectors for the first time to detect nighttime violations of district regulations.

But the other directors preferred to stick with the present system, which leaves it to the district's air pollution control officer, D.J. Callaghan, to decide if in-stack monitoring is warranted. He has the authority to order it if he finds a source of pollution "in potential violation" of district emission limits.

In other business, the board extended to Napa the southern portions of Sonoma and Solano counties the district's requirement that 1955 through 1962 model year motor vehicles be equipped with crankcase control devices on transfer of ownership, effective Oct. 1.

The board also approved purchase of air measuring instruments for $22,107 and of 12 new

State Colleges' High Turnover

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A staff report revealed Wednesday that resignations by senior California state college faculty members rose 60 per cent last year as the turnover rate hit a three year high of 10 per cent.

College authorities agreed two years without a pay raise, plus an increased work load probably contributed to the rise.

The report noted the "overall mix of departures remained unchanged with nearly half caused by nonreappointment and 40 per cent by resignations."

Sentencing On Avoiding Draft

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Philip M. Ayala, 23, will be sentenced Oct. 18 for falsely claiming he was undergoing orthodontic treatment so he could avoid military service.

Ayala, allegedly involved with a dentist in a draft evasion scheme involving the use of phony braces, was convicted by a federal court jury of violating Selective Service regulations.

He was one of 10 Selective Service registrants indicted along with Dr. Bernard Bender, 52, a dentist.

One of the counts against the dentist is that he aided and abetted Ayala to evade the draft. Evidence showed that Ayala's claim that he was required to wear braces on his teeth for four months was false.

Ayala faces a possible maximum penalty of five years in prison and $10,000 fine.

Second Shot In Air Fare War

NEW YORK (UPI)—A West German charter airline has announced that effective Feb. 1 round-trip transatlantic fares during the off-season will be $135 —an all-time low —and $190 during the peak summer season.

The announcement Wednesday by Atlantis Airways was the second shot fired in the air fare price war that Lufthansa began a week ago when it unilaterally reduced transatlantic rates by 30 per cent.

Some airline sources said the price war could drive round-trip charter rates between New York and western Europe to as low as $120 or less.

Panel Wants Reports On Development

I-J Special Report

CONCORD — Cities and counties in the Bay Area were ordered yesterday to report to the Regional Water Quality Control Board all new land development as an early warning system against overloading sewage systems.

Cities and counties found to be approaching the capacity of their sewage systems would face construction bans until expansion of the systems was completed.

The reporting requirement will apply to residential, commercial and industrial subdivisions.

The regional board was empowered to require subdivision reports by the state's tough 1970 antipollution law, but had not applied it until yesterday's unanimous action.

The reports will be required quarterly.

In other action, the board eliminated private hardship as a ground for exemption from construction bans. Only two exemptions have been granted since the 1970 law empowered the board to order such bans.

Both exemptions were in Marin, but the board's policy of allowing them was contrary to state administrative procedures that allow exemptions only for public hardship, such as for low cost housing or a hospital.

Environment Report Readied For Study

The San Rafael Planning Commission has approved a detailed environment and design review amendment to the city's zoning ordinance.

The amendment, to go before the city council for a public hearing, spells out what the planning department believes to be a proper balance between the natural environment and manmade structures, according to Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner.

It deals with architecture for structures, color, landscaping, lighting and other factors in the design of buildings, Hotchner said.

He called the amendment a "major step in improving the appearance of the city in the futute." He added that many conservationist groups, citizen organizations and real estate associations have expressed approval of the architectural control amendment.

In other action, the commission said the planning staff could routinely approve adding a bedroom or bathroom to a single family residence or duplexes, but the commission would have to approve adding a kitchen.

Hotchner said the commission felt that an additional kitchen "goes beyond the scope of a single family home," and gives rise to illegal rooming houses in areas zoned for single family dwellings.

For the second straight meeting, the commission spent more than an hour debating the legality of imposing an access park to the Smith Ranch Airport that would cut across the property of a proposed mobile home site.

Hotchner said city attorney Fred C. Robbins said the city should not get into the act because at this time the ownership of the airport is in doubt.

While DSI Co. of Los Angeles holds the title, the First National State Bank of New Jersey and the Fidelity Bank, holders of the first deed of trust, say the trust is in default.

The commission carried the item over to its next meeting, Sept. 28.

YMCA Plans Youth Program

The Marin Young Men's Christian Association has announced plans for a program which will bring together elementary and high school students with similar interests.

According to the YMCA, the groups will be self-directing, with members planning and organizing their own activities with the help of a young adult adviser.

Additional information may be obtained at the Marin YMCA headquarters at 241 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia.

Pope Launches Crusade For Relief To Pakistan

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI launched a crusade today for increased aid for East Pakistan, where Roman Catholic relief officials say a disastrous famine is near.

A Vatican announcement said the Pope, who stopped over briefly in cyclone-ravaged East Pakistan during an Asian tour last year, was deeply worried by the additional plight brought to that country by civil war.

"Pope Paul VI is deeply concerned over the steady worsening in the condition of victims of the Pakistan conflict," the statement said. It said the pontiff asked leaders of Roman Catholic relief organizations to meet in Rome Saturday to discuss ways of stepping up aid programs.

Vatican sources said the announcement indicated Pope Paul intended to make East Pakistan relief the subject of one of the great crusades of his pontificate, comparable to his past campaigns for Vietnam peace and for victims of a 1966 famine in India.

The largest Roman Catholic relief organization, Caritas International, said in a statement two days ago that "unless adequate measures are taken within the next few weeks to implement an extraordinary plan of international mutual aid, East Pakistan will be ravaged by a terrible famine, which will likely cause a new and even larger influx of migrants to India."

CHRYSLER MOTORS CORPORATION

Chrysler-Plymouth introduces the 1972's. Built to stay new longer.

We've made quite a few changes in our cars for 1972. A lot of them you can see right away. Like the new looks of our Fury. And the new interiors and options we're offering this year.

But more important are some of the things you can't see. The kind of things we're doing to fulfill our commitment—we're dedicated to building cars that will run better and last longer than any car we've ever built before.

So whatever Chrysler-Plymouth car you're interested in—from the little Cricket to the compact Duster, from the mid-size Satellite to the luxurious Chrysler—you can be sure it was built with this commitment in mind.

ROCKEFELLER RESIGNATION DEMANDED

About 1,300 demonstrators gather on the steps of the New York Capitol in Albany in support of demands that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Corrections Commissioner Russell Oswald resign. The number of persons attending yesterday's orderly but noisy two-hour rally fell far short of the 8,000 to 10,000 predicted by organizers. Meanwhile, Attica inmate Richard Moore, 48, died at a hospital from wounds suffered when law officers retook the prison Sept. 13, sending the dath toll from the five-day revolt to 41.

Hearing For Hub Woman Scheduled

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A preliminary hearing has been set for Nov. 11 in San Francisco Municipal Court for Nancy E. Waldroth, 27, of San Anselmo, on narcotic and weapon charges.

Mrs. Waldroth was arrested Sept. 11 along with a San Francisco man after being stopped for going through a red light. Police said they found pills and white substance in boots worn by the pair as well as a hypodermic needle. While taking the couple to the police station, officers said they heard an ominous click from the back seat where Mrs. Waldroth and her companion, Theodore Jones, 33, were seated.

They said they found a small derringer pistol tucked into the seat.

Mrs. Waldroth has been charged with felony possession of narcotics and a misdemeanor count of having drug paraphernalia and a loaded gun in a car.

Rock Group Member In Fair Condition

Ron McKernan, harmonica player for the Grateful Dead rock group, was reported in fair condition today in Novato General Hospital, although officials declined to disclose the nature of the illness.

Child Care Center Approved In Cotati

The commission granted a one-year permit for the center at 768 East Cotati Avenue and said that street improvements need not be made until a permanent permit is issued.

The commission heard that the center will open at 7:30 a.m. and will operate a nursery school program as well as caring for children before and after school hours. Representatives of the nonprofit organization said parents who cannot afford school fees may work for the school instead.

In other action, the commission approved the request of William Klebe to build a single-family home in a multifamily district at Valparaiso and West Sierra avenues and the plans of Joseph Dorfman to build a 36-unit apartment complex on Arthur Street.

7 Acres Burned In Grass Fire

A wind-whipped grass fire apparently set by youngsters burned about seven acres behind Hidden Valley School in Sleepy Hollow yesterday.

The San Anselmo Fire Department sent five trucks to the fire which started at 5:30 p.m. Firemen said that a house at 335 Fawn Drive was threatened by the blaze but did not catch fire.

The fire was contained within about 20 minutes but firemen remained for several hours mopping up.

Firemen said today two young boys had been seen in the area just as the fire started on school property.

Athletes Escape Injury In Crash

SANTA MARIA, Calif. (UPI) —A bus with 53 members of a high school junior varsity football team blew a tire on busy U.S. 101 Thursday, plunged through a divider and ended up in the opposite lane.

The California Highway patrol said the vehicle narrowly missed several autos and came to an upright stop on a shoulder of the highway. None of the members of the Santa Barbara High School team was injured.

Fill Committee Backs Houses

Marin County Fill Committee yesterday gave conditional approval for eight or nine waterfront homes planned along the Richardson Bay shoreline below East Strawberry Drive, south of Island Drive.

Before developer Stanely W. Taylor can go ahead with construction, he must submit development plans that are acceptable, the fill committee decided. Committee members said the plans presented yesterday by Taylor lacked sufficient detail.

Irving L. Schwartz, executive director of the fill committee, said Taylor wants to build nine homes on pilings, with boat docks, but the fill committee wants to limit the number to eight.

Marin County Fill Committee members who met with Taylor were Lawrence Loder, acting public works director; Pierre W. Joske, parks and recreation director; and Raymond Smith, representing the county planning director.

First Hall Of Justice Visit For Mrs. Jackson

The mother of Jonathon and George Jackson today visited the Marin Hall of Justice — sitting in the courtroom where Jonathon triggered the bloody events of Aug. 7, 1970.

The visit was believed to be the first time Mrs. Jackson had been in the building where Jonathon Jackson smuggled weapons into the courtroom of Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley, launching an escape attempt by three San Quentin prisoners.

Young Jackson, Judge Haley and two of the prisoners were killed in a resulting shoot-out outside the building.

Mrs. Jackson, of Pasadena, accompanied her attorney, Edward C. Bell of San Francisco, to the building today for a hearing on her petition for a court order directing San Quentin officials to turn over to her personal property of her son, George.

Mrs. Jackson declined to discuss it with reporters today, but she is believed to have refused to testify in the Hall of Justice before the Marin County Grand Jury last January in connection with the case against Angela Davis and Ruchell Magee stemming from the 1970 shoot-out.

A room was rented at the San Rafael Holiday Inn for the grand jury session when Mrs. Jackson reportedly said entering the Hall of Justice would be too "emotionally upsetting" for her.

She appeared clam today as she sat in the courtroom, now occupied by Judge Henry J. Broderick.

She claims that San Quentin officials have returned some of George Jackson's property, but that some of it was given to Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales.

Bales has declined to say what property of Jackson's he has, but Bell says it includes a manuscript of a book Jackson was working on, various correspondence dating from 1960 and legal documents pertaining to the defense of the Soledad Brothers.

Because of a crowded court calendar, Judge Broderick was unable to hear Mrs. Jackson's motion today, but continued the hearing until Monday before Judge Samuel W. Gardiner.

Protection On Car Repairs Bill Clears A Major Hurdle

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation which would help protect automobile owners against fraud by requiring state licenses for auto repair dealers has been approved by an Assembly committee over strong dealer opposition.

The measure, by Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, was approved by the Government Organization Committee and sent to the Ways and Means Committee on a split voice vote.

The measure has already been passed by the Senate.

Before the bill was approved Thursday, it was amended to put regulation of the $2.5 billion a year business under the Department of Consumer Affairs instead of the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Automobile dealers strongly opposed the bill, and Kent Redwine, representing the Northern and Southern California Motor Car Dealers Association challenged the voice vote.

"My ears are a little bad, I didn't hear the vote," he told acting committee chairman Jack R. Fenton, R-Montobello.

Fenton replied, "My ears are very good, I hear 5-2."

The bill would require licensing of auto repairs under a self-financing agency similar to the one which now licenses television repair dealers.

Licenses would cost $25 to $50 and could be suspended or revoked for fraud or negligence.

Representatives of new car dealers opposed placing the regulation under consumer affairs saying it would mean "dual regulation" since the DMV already partially regulates them.

ENVIRONMENT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan's plan to consolidate all environmental protection agencies has been rejected as "limited and superficial" by the Assembly Governmental Organization Committee.

In an 88-page report written after a public hearing on the plan, the committee said Reagan's proposal "fails to offer any substantial improvement in current state pollution problems and may, in fact, be detrimental to certain existing environmental activities."

The report, released Thursday, said the main problem with the proposal "is that it offers only a limited and superficial consolidation of the state's environmental agencies and programs."

Conservation groups, including the Sierra Club, opposed the plan at the public hearing. They blasted the plan for failing to deal with the problems of noise pollution, solid waste disposal, land use and pesticide contamination.

CREDIT CARDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill barring sex discrimination in issuing credit cards and providing strong consumer protection against merchant errors and deception has been overwhelmingly approved by the Assembly.

The bill, by Sen. Alfred Song, D-Monterey Park, was sent to the Senate Thursday on a 56-4 vote.

It requires credit card companies to correct billing errors within 60 days or lose the amount in contention. It also bars the companies from spreading false or unfavorable credit information about the card holder during such bill disputes.

The antidiscrimination section of the bill is designed to help unmarried, separated or divorced women. Supporters of the bill said such women often had difficulty in securing credit cards.

The antidiscrimination provision prevents companies from refusing to issue a credit card solely on the basis of sex, race, religion, color, national origin or ancestry.

The bill also provides for the first time that credit card buyers may refuse to pay for defective merchandise which cost more than $50 if the card holder is unable to satisfactorily settle the dispute with the merchant.

COLLEGE BOND

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has voted final legislative passage to a bill placing a $160 million community college construction bond issue on the 1972 general election ballot.

The measure by Sen. Albert Rodda, D-Sacramento, was passed Thursday by a 27-1 vote and sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan.

WELFARE DROPS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Californians on welfare declined for the fifth straight month during August, down 4,104 from July, the Reagan administration reports.

The figures did not reflect the changes resulting from the state's new welfare reform act which takes effect Oct. 1.

SCHOOL AID

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has approved a bill which would guarantee school districts an annual cost-of-living increases in state aid.

The measure was sent to the Assembly on a 25-1 vote with Sen. Clark L. Bradley casting the sole dissenting vote.

ODOMETER

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to allow a used car dealer to turn back to zero a vehicle's odometer has been shelved for this session.

Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, sponsor of the measure, asked Thursday that it be sent to a between-sessions study. He told the Senate the measure needed more refinement.

"Nobody likes the bill," Collier added.

'Never Had It So Good,' Visitors To Greece Declare

By JEFF GREER

A Marin County couple home from a month-long visit to their ancestral homeland in Greece declared that the Greeks "never had it so good" as under the present military regime.

John A. Manesis and his wife Alex, who live in Novato and operate a San Rafael restaurant, both speak Greek fluently. They said they were able to travel freely both in the popular tourist centers of Greece and in the tiny villages "11 hours by jackass or three and a half hours by taxi up the mountain."

The couple spent two weeks visiting kinfolk — some in remote areas of the old country — and two weeks in Athens. Both stressed that under the regime of former Colonel, now Premier George Papadopoulous, the country has "settled down" and at any un-

SOUVENIRS — Alexandria and John Manesis have some tangible reminders of their recent trip to their ancestral homeland. Plates ornamented with paintings of the Acropolis, Greek dolls and a very special set of beads are among the trophies of the Novato couple. Those beads, Manesis said yesterday, are worry beads, carried by most male Greeks for toying with as a release from tension.

Under the more stable regime, Manesis said, roads have been pushed through to isolated hamlets in the mountains; water, gas and electricity have been provided, and mandatory schooling supplied for youngsters who used to grow up learning only how to toil in the fields.

When the military takeover "ended the constant turmoil of the governments and the king and queen, the villagers said 'thank God'," Manesis reported. The military leaders have encouraged development of a professional civil service in place of the bureaucrats who used to lose office each time there was a change in Athens, he said.

One result, Manesis said, has been an upsurge in industry and employment. The coffee houses — a Greek institution where jobless males usually spent their days — have virtually disappeared, he noted.

Thousands of political prisoners — including one of his own cousins — jailed since the civil war of 1946 and 1947, have been freed, Manesis reported. Still remaining in jail are only "the ones that threw bombs, maimed people. One whole prison complex in Athens is being torn out and a civic center's being built in its place," the Marin man reported.

The Greeks are intensely religious, abhor violence against each other, and obey police who are armed only with citation forms, Manesis said. "There's no muggings; no one is accosted at any hour."

The new regime is encouraging creation of a Greek middle class, which is remaining in its native land instead of emigrating to Germany, Australia, Canada or the United States as it used to, Manesis said.

Greek drug stores are crammed with the products of West Germany and other nations; the markets are full of delicious vegetables and fruits, and lamb and goat meat are plentiful — but "Greece is no place for you if you want steaks."

The nation's pastures cannot support much cattle grazing, Manesis explained.

Greek groceries and other shops have have a centuries-old tradition of recycling, Mrs. Manesis recalled. "You bring your own sacks and bottles. You can buy 10 cents worth of sugar, or two shots of brandy for a cake. You can get your cologne bottle refilled at a pharmacy."

Private autos are common in Athens and other major cities. Rural travellers depend on buses or taxies — which Manesis said said are plentiful and inexpensive.

Both the travellers were struck by the lack of trees, shrubs and grass, which are scarce after centuries of peasants searching for fuel for cooking and heat. In addition to supplying utilities to ease the pressure on the forests, Greek officials are sponsoring tree planting programs, the couple said.

"What I saw over there made a real conservationist out of me," the husband reported.

The military government has reshaped higher as well as elementary education, Manesis reported. When he was in the U.S. Air Force, he visited Greece in 1951, and became godfather to a boy. Today his godson is attending the University of Athens under a merit scholarship and will go on to graduate studies in other countries if he passes competitive examinations.

"Getting into the universities used to be all political appointments," Manesis added. "Under the old system, the boy wouldn't have had a chance."

The traveller insisted that if there is any official censorship, it is light-handed with the Greek press and radio and nonexistant for the French, English, American and other newspapers sold daily in Athens, at hundreds of kiosks.

"I would read the U.S. paper; my uncle would be reading the same thing in the Greek papers," he said. Greece has only two television channels, neither anything to boast about, Manesis and his wife said.

"A Greek has to show no passes to go anyplace in Greece," they reported. "They come and go like Yo-Yos to America, Germany and everywhere. And they're the world's greatest seafaring men."

Tourism is a huge industry, Manesis said. "When we were there, there were 200,000 tourists from Germany and all over."

Foreign capitalists began buying up land from the peasants until the government put a stop to it, he said. But there are huge new tourist developments in many cities.

The Greeks tolerate all visitors, "even the hippies," Mrs. Manesis interjected. "The only filth we saw was the hippies."

"The poorest Greek always has a clean shirt," the husband added. "There are no slums. The only beggars are Gypsies."

His disabled grandmother, 96 years old, gets enough pension for a comfortable living in her tiny native village. "But there is no welfare for the able-bodied. If you don't work, you don't eat," Manesis said.

"There are no property taxes. My relatives couldn't understand how we ever could vote for them. 'How do you expect to retire if you have to pay property taxes!' they asked," the husband said.

Sales and income taxes and a national lottery provide most of the government's income, he explained.

Wages are rising enough and prices are low enough for "the Greeks to eat out a lot," the couple reported. They were enthusiastic in describing the traditional Greek delicacies they enjoyed on the trip.

Greek citizens are "100 per cent pro-American" because "this is is the only country that will go in and help without asking something back." Manesis said the Greeks disliked the English particularly, and blame British colonialism for much of the trouble in Cyprus, Israel and the Arab nations.

Harry S. Truman, the Kennedys and other U.S. leaders are heroes in Greece — "the bus drivers have their pictures in frames on the buses," Mrs. Manesis said. Giving a Greek a Kennedy half-dollar as a keepsake is a sure way to instant friendship.

The Greeks sympathize with the U.S. role in South Vietnam, recalling the years of the Truman Doctrine, Manesis noted. "They are willing to let us use the whole country as a base to keep things right" in the Mediterranean and Middle East, he added.

The couple left their children at home at 1423 Buchanan Street, Novato, during their journey, with Mrs. Manesis's mother. Today they were back at work in their restaurant, the Red Fox Grill at 1015 B Street in San Rafael.

One sight the Marin pair saw on their wanderings through Greek byways stuck in their minds.

"The Greek donkeys. They go out to the fields with the workers in the morning. Then they load the donkeys up and send them home without a driver," the husband explained.

"And a bus will come along. The donkeys move over to the side, let the bus go by, and then start walking down the road again," the wife completed the tale.

Maximum Back Pay Of Teacher Figured

Elizabeth Blodgett, the overweight physical education teacher ordered rehired in Marin, would be entitled to a maximum of $36,000 in back pay if she were put back on the payroll Oct. 1, a Tamalpais High School District spokesman said yesterday.

Miss Blodgett , who weighed 228 pounds at the time of her dismissal from Redwood High School in 1968, was ordered rehired on Wednesday by the state Court of Appeal.

Edward J. Neumeier, administrative assistant in the Tamalpais district, said the $36,000 figure does not include interest to which Miss Blodgett would be entitled nor does it take into account deductible pay earned by Miss Blodgett in other jobs while fighting her dismissal.

Also considered would be whether Miss Blodgett made earnest attempts to secure work after her firing, Neumeier said.

Richard V. Godino, assistant county counsel representing the Tam district, has announced the possibility of an appeal of Wednesday's decision.

Medics Will Give Views On Growth

Petaluma Hospital District directors heard last night that members of the medical community are preparing their own policy on measures needed to meet future growth and medical need.

Hillcrest Hospital Administrator Joseph Horner said the board tentatively set a special meeting for Oct. 11 at 7:30 p.m. to receive the report.

The hospital board in March adopted a growth plan that included construction of a second hospital on the eastside of Petaluma, saying it would be more economical than enlarging Hillcrest Hospital. The board also noted that a new location near Highway 101 would be more convenient for the hospital district that stretches from Marin County to Rohnert Park.

Some members of the hospital medical staff have opposed the plan, saying it would be an inconvenience to them and their patients to have the district operate two hospitals.

Plea For Larger Wilderness Area

By FRANK FARRARA

The National Park Service's two-day hearing on plans for the Point Reyes National Seashore closed yesterday with a unanimous call for a larger wilderness area.

Speaker after speaker of all ages presented a solid front on a single theme . . . the proposed 5,150 acre wilderness must be expanded.

Yesterday's hearing on the wilderness area was another variation on the theme expressed at the first day hearing on the tentative master plan . . . keep private cars out of the seashore area.

During the all-day hearing about 80 persons spoke and many backed the Sierra Club's plan for 33,000 acres of wilderness, while others merely requested the maximum feasible and a few the entire seashore.

The National Park Service's proposed wilderness plan covers 5,150 acres in the Mount Wittenberg area, north of Bear Valley Gap.

The Sierra Club advocated adding the Southern Cliffs and forest including the Lake Ranch, the Limantour and Drake's Esteros and the valleys draining into them and Tomales Point including McClure's Beach and Point Reyes Station.

A wilderness area can be designated only by an act of Congress and only Congress can change the designation. Several speakers urged that the land proposed for wilderness area be protected on an interim basis until a final determination is made. If it is lost to other uses in the interim period, then it would be lost as wilderness, they claimed.

In contrast the tentative master plan covering possible development, can be changed by National Park Service officials, and they indicated during the hearing they would take into consideration the public demands before submitting a final plan.

Louis F. Clarke of Alameda, a past president of the Sierra Club, urged including coastal area in the wilderness area because "there is no coastline in the entire state of California preserved as wilderness."

Other speakers said the wilderness area should be expanded because Point Reyes is "a tranquilizer," a place where youngsters can experience a sense of adventure, a spot that is "food for the weary body and mind," and a place of natural beauty near a major metropolitan area.

Jerry Friedman, chairman of the Environmental Action Committee of West Marin, presented a petition containing the signatures of 231 students from Novato High School supporting the Sierra Club.

Among those representing groups backing expanded wilderness were: Harold E. Gregg of the Marin Conservation League; William J. Duddleson, speaking for the Sierra Club and a coalition of conservation groups in West Marin; Dr. Easton Rothwell, Inverness Improvement Association; Jonas Morris, National Parks and Conservation Association; John Smail, executive director of the Point Reyes Bird Observatory; Walter Weyman, Tomales Bay Association; Lewis Crutcher, chief of plans and designs, East Bay Regional Park; Alex MacMillan, National Audubon Society; Frances Stewart, Bolinas Future Studies.

Joseph C. Rumburg Jr., director of the western region of the National Park Service, promised that the National Park Service would be responsible to the public testimony.

Written statements on the master plan and wilderness proposal may be mailed to John L. Sansing, superintendent of the seashore, at the Point Reyes National Seashore, Point Reyes, until Oct. 23.

Cyprus Tension Seen In Greece, Turkey

By VICTOR WALKER
Toronto Telegram News Service

ATHENS — After three years of almost fruitless regotiation, there are indications that a time of decision is approaching for the island of Cyprus.

Observers say either the talks between the island's two communities will soon peter out, risking violent developments, or a new impetus through concessions by both sides will develop.

The pressures for a settlement stem from three main sources: The full, if rarely stated, appreciation in Athens and Ankara that neither Greece nor Turkey can afford to war over Cyprus; the U.S. desire to reduce the number of potential trouble spots in the Mediterranean by eliminating Cyprus as one of them; and the financial difficulty for the United Nations in maintaining a multi-national force in the island to keep the peace between the two communities.

Some diplomats view these pressures as lying behind the decision of the Cypriot president, Archbishop Makarios, to pay a six-day visit to the Soviet Union in June.

The emerging situation in Cyprus, on the face of it, is highly threatening.

It now is just three and one half years since Greece and Turkey had their third, and narrowest, escape from a drift into war over the future of Cyprus. Finally negotiations between the island's two communities began in the summer of 1968. These talks now are clearly deadlocked.

Crux of the dispute is how the powers and privileges should be shared up between the island's 80 per cent Greek Cypriot population and 20 per cent Turkish Cypriot minority.

Complicating it is the vexed question of "enosis", union of the island with Greece, which was the banner under which the Greek Cypriots fought the British for their independence, and which had been a Cypriot aspiration since long before.

The division of the powers was supposedly settled by the 1959 agreement — between the two communities and Greece, Turkey and Britain as guarantor powers — on the basis of which the British pulled out of Cyprus.

It now is generally accepted that the agreement gave the Turkish community more than a fair share, though how much more is something that three years of negotiation has still not been able to resolve.

Recent statements by Archbishop Makarios and the Turkish Cypriot leader, Mr. Raouf Denktash, indicate that on fundamental issues the gap is still as wide as ever.

Makarios says the talks have resulted in agreement on the Turkish Cypriot share in government services and the island's political life. "Beyond this, however, the Turkish Cypriots are demanding autonomy with a central executive institution. Acceptance of such a demand would be tantamount to creation of a state within a state . . . (and) is entirely inadmissible to the Greek side."

Makarios, whose formal policy is that enosis is "desirable but not at present feasible," also rejected a Turkish Cypriot demand for a permanent renunciation of enosis.

Denktash declared that only renunciation of enosis can avert a war between Greece and Turkey "sooner or later". In the Turkish Cypriot view, it is impossible for the two communities to live together as one nation. But while "the Turkish Cypriots want autonomy, the Greek Cypriots offer administration."

The Turkish Cypriot inhabitants of Cyprus have now largely collected in a few areas of the island and, disdaining Greek Cypriot invitations to return to their homes have set up self-powered enclaves which could easily become a basis for partition.

There have recently been threats to make this situation official, with references in Anakara to the enclaves as "the 19th province of Turkey" and talk of establishing an "air bridge" between them and Turkey.

Makarios has pledged "reaction by all means" if these threats are implemented.

While the threat is clear, the possiblilities of settlement are in one respect greater than at any time before.

"Thanks a lot."

Before you look at their new ones, look at their old ones.

Now that new car time is upon us, gosh knows, we hate to be the ones to spoil all the fun.

After all, what's more exciting than taking the family down to see the shiny new models or to hear the fast-talking salesmen?

It's just that during all that hoopla, you may not want to pick up one of those exciting new cars.

For the unpleasant fact of the matter is that junkyards throughout the country are doing a thriving business on automobiles that seemingly just yesterday were showroom stars.

Which is why we suggest a trip to the junkyard before you decide to put a new car in your own yard.

And why we suggest that that new car be a Volkswagen.

For while we can't promise you how long one will last, we can tell you that over 13 million Volkswagens are still on the road.

And when one drops out, even then it's not always destined to be dropped in a pile. For old Volkswagens have a habit of becoming other things: Like new dune buggys.

All in all, we owe it all to a decision we made 24 years ago: To spend very little time making our little car look better. And a great deal of time making it work better.

So far, that one decision has kept us out of a lot of trouble.

INSIDE IT'S DIFFERENT — Mill Valley Scout Hall appears relatively unchanged from the outside from the days when it was declared unsafe by the city. But since last June the hall's interior has undergone a complete transformation, thanks to $80,000 worth of volunteer labor and donated materials.

Hundreds Of Colleges Are About Broke

WASHINGTON (UPI) —As many as 254 of the nation's private colleges, "submerged in a sea of red ink," could be out of business within 10 years, the Association of American Colleges said today.

"If these institutions are permitted to vanish, our culture will have lost essential resources," the association's research director, William W. Jellema, said in a study of the financial status of private colleges.

"In all, there are 254 institutions in our study expecting deficits in 1970-71 that will have exhausted their total liquid assets under a policy of business as usual within 10 years," the study said. "Half of them have already depleted their liquid assets. They are broke already."

"Over 100 institutions we found can go less than one year. Seventy-four of these 107 private accredited four-year colleges and universities cannot even last a fraction of a year. They have exhausted their total liquid assets."

The 894-member organization did not name any of the colleges whose resources are exhausted but it did locate them by state and religious affiliation.

It said 21 of the 74 schools unable to last even part of a year are in Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota.

Others are in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin, California, Oregon, Washington, Hawaii, Alaska, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Of these, 20 are Catholic institutions.

MILL VALLEY SCOUT HALL

New Lease On Life For Building

By PAT ANGLE

Mill Valley Scout Hall, closed as unsafe in June of 1970, now has a new second floor, a completely remodeled interior and a new lease on life, thanks to a determined and dedicated group of Southern Marin residents.

If all goes well, the renovated building will reopen Nov. 1 as a well-equipped center for Scouting activities, according to Carl Haynes, president of the hall's board of trustees.

Construction and repair work is 90 per cent complete, he said, and the remaining work should be finished in the next several weeks. More than $30,000 in donated materials, $8,400 in cash contributions and thousands of hours of volunteer labor have gone into the huge effort, he said.

"We can't even thank people publicly," said Robert McVey, Explorer Scout advisor and former scoutmaster. "So many people have helped and given us their time and money and supplies that we simply would not be able to name them all."

Last summer the task of bringing the building up to minimum safety standards seemed formidable indeed. The structure, built in the 1880s, had deteriorated to the point that the City of Mill Valley had threatened to shut it down. "It was really a horror, a firetrap," Haynes said.

Contractors estimated that $20,000 was needed to bring the hall up to basic safety standards, McVey said. In 1954, a new foundation had been constructed for the old building and some structural repairs had been done.

But even so, it was obvious that the tired old hall, which had been a tavern and a laundry before being donated to the Scouts in 1919 by the Billings family, was on its last legs.

At stake, Tamal District scout leaders realized, was the only Scout meeting hall in Southern Marin, used by an average of 300 young people a week.

Raising such a large sum of money seemed almost impossible, but Scout officials believed it could be done. They chose Mill Valley Postmaster John Little and McVey to coordinate the effort.

At first it looked as though the men had overestimated the generosity of the public. "Save Scout Hall" donation boxes, constructed by the Cub Scouts and placed in stores and other businesses, collected only $200. A pancake breakfast, and garden and rummage sales, brought in a total of $1,300. "All we needed at that point," quipped one man, "was another $18,500.

Then the small group had some luck. The Mill Valley Teen Club, a youth group which folded about three years ago, turned over $3,300 left in its treasury to the Scouts. And the Mill Valley Lions Club decided to make the renovation of Scout Hall their community service project.

Soon, according to Little, donations of materials and offers of labor began pouring in "from all over the Bay Area." The amount of contributions and offers of help was so great that the men realized they would be able to accomplish much more than the necessary repairs.

Once the building's interior had been outfitted with plasterboard in the interests of fire safety, wiring was replaced completely and a new ventilation system installed. The old wiring had been pretty grim, according to Haynes. "At one time we couldn't have the lights and a coffee pot going at the same time," he said.

In the most ambitious projects of the renovation, a second floor, complete with troop rooms, meeting rooms and a new furnace system, was built into the high-ceilinged hall. In addition, the hall's kitchen was enlarged and remodeled, as were the restrooms, and a new roof was put on the building.

Today, despite the remaining debris of construction, the hall, interior with its clean walls and sunny rooms, could almost be taken for a new building. To date, a total of $80,000 worth of labor and materials has been donated to thecause.

One large front meeting room has been named the Harvey Chapman room, in memory of a retired engineer for the State Highway department who died in April. Chapman who took part in scout work for many years, was one of the people involved in the project from the beginning, even though he did not live to see it completed.

Not surprisingly, the delighted scout leaders have great plans for the hall, which will now accomodate a complete line of scouting activities, from courts of honor to father-son dinners.

In the past the hall was simply a meeting place. But the scout leaders are hoping it will become " a real scout hall," a place where boys and girls can come for scout activities, and to learn and have fun as well.

Ex-Convict Admits To 119 Burglaries

BIG BEAR LAKE, Calif. (UPI)—During the past two weeks Rex E. Keller has been in jail his conscience has bothered him. Keller, 42, held on charges of possession of a firearm by an ex-convict, told deputies Thursday he had committed 119 burglaries from Fresno to San Diego since 1968.

Keller estimated he had taken $1 million in diamonds and other gems, $100,000 in silver and watches and about $100,000 in cash.

Deputies said they recovered many of the stolen items at Keller's house here but did not disclose what they were worth.

Deputies quoted Keller as saying he confessed the crime spree to relieve his conscience.

Enrironment Said Most Important

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Dr. Robert Shane of the National Research Council said today new products may have to prove that they will not endanger the earth's ecology before they can be mass produced.

"Ecological consideration must pre-empt the profit motive where they conflict," he told the general session of the annual convention of the California Savings & Loan League.

Shane said that the only way to lower the quantity of trash and garbage is to launch a total national commitment which separates various basic materials that can be recycled.

"In addition to solving the problems of how to economically collect and dispose of the 1.2 billion tons of trash and garbage the nation now produces annually," he said, "we must also begin to look at products and judge them from the standpoint of ecology before they go into mass production."

Every year about $30 million is apportioned to the states for use in wildlife restoration.

STANDOFF IN DETROIT — Helmeted police and anti-Nixon demonstrators face each other outside a lecture hall in Detroit while inside the President addresses the city's economic leaders on the wage-price freeze. About 4,000 jeering demonstrators, both students opposed to the war and labor union members against the freeze, took part in the protest. The President, however, did not see the hostile crowd — he arrived and departed by way of a rear entrance for his talk before the Economic Club of Detroit.

Nixon Remark Baffles Auto Chiefs

DETROIT (UPI)—The chairmen of the big three auto companies were bewildered by President Nixon's reference Thursday night to a new nonpolluting engine the government would announce soon.

"I never heard of it," said a dismayed Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co., after the President's speech. "I have no idea what it was."

Similar expressions of ignorance of the engine were expressed by James M. Roche, chairman of General Motors, and Lynn M. Townsend, chairman of Chrysler Corp.

In his speech to the Economic Club, the President told Motor City business executives that William Ruckelshaus, director of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) would announce development of the exhaust-free engine in the next few days.

Nixon said Ruckelshaus had been "working with industry in the Detroit area" on the clean engine and that preliminary tests showed that it meets the "very strict standards of the clean air act."

Presumably the President was referring to the so-called "stratified charge" engine which essentially merges the standard internal combustion engine and a diesel engine. Auto engineers claim this engine has performed poorly in past experiments.

Ford and Roche expressed pleasure that Nixon said the government was weighing the cost of urther reducing automobile engine emissions against the value of the gains made.

On that point, Nixon said: "I think we have to realize that when Congress, or the administration carries out the will of the Congress, sets certain standards to clean up the air or clean up the water we must weigh against that how many jobs that is going to cost, and if it is going to cost a disproportionate number of jobs, what good it is going to accomplish."

Ford agreed. "The extra cost of a small improvement, which runs only about 2 per cent, raises serious questions about its worth," he said.

McCloskey's New Date To End War

McCloskey introduced a bill to that effect Thursday. He said President Nixon had failed to keep his promise to wind down the war, citing Tuesday's heavy American air raids in the North Vietnamese Panhandle.

Nixon Hints At Interest Curb If Rates Soar In Near Future

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon says he may curb interest rates in the next phase of his economic policy if lenders boost the cost of money in the next two months.

In a question and answer session with a business-dominated panel Thursday night in Detroit, Nixon also said the controls that will follow the 90-day wage-price freeze will last until inflation is checked and will cover the entire economy.

The President said interest rates were excluded from the current freeze because he feared that if rates were controlled, bankers might refuse to lend.

But he said no decision has been made yet concerning interest rates in the period after the freeze expires Nov. 13.

The President said he would base his action on "what happens to interest rates for the balance of phase I (the freeze), whether they continue to, shall we say, stay where they are or go down."

Nixon was questioned by 10 members of the Detroit Economic Club while an audience of about 5,000 of the city's top business leaders looked on.

Pickets, estimated by police at between 3,500 and 4,000, paced in front of Cobo Hall to protest Nixon's economic, civil rights and Southeast Asia policies. The President was whisked in and out of a side door and did not see the protesters.

The President appeared to change the impression he left last week when he told a news conference the post-freeze controls would affect only major industries.

"It will cover the whole economy," he said. "It will have to concentrate primarily on those areas of the economy, major industries for example, where there is greatest possibility of inflationary tendencies ... but all of the economy will be covered."

He also said the post-freeze controls would have no announced termination date.

"We are not going to set a limit on it because we believe its duration should depend upon how effectively it deals with the problem," he said. "Until we can deal with the problem of inflation . . . we believe that it is necessary to have controls."

In answer to a question, Nixon said that recent reports of possible changes in Mainland China would have no effact on his announced plan to visit that country before May.

"I would not expect the current developments to change our travel plans," the President said. Although he did not elaborate on the "developments," it was the first official recognizance by the administration of reports of a possible internal "crisis" situation on the mainland.

Nixon hinted strongly that he would fill one of two vacancies on the Supreme Court with Rep. Richard Poff, a Virginia Republican who 17 years ago signed the "Southern Manifesto" condemning the high court's school desegregation decision.

The President said that in naming replacements for retired justices Hugo L. Black and John M. Harlan, he would seek persons with a judicial philosophy similar to his first two appointees, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice Henry Blackmun. But he said he would not limit his consideration to judges.

"So teachers, legislators, for example, with great experience in the Judiciary committees of the House or Senate, they are always good possibilities," he said. "That gives you an idea of where I am turning."

Poff is second ranking Republican on the House Judiciary Committee and the only member of either chamber's judiciary committee to be prominently mentioned as a possible appointee.

Sirhan Lawyers Hit The Death Penalty

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Attorneys for condemned assassin Sirhan Sirhan told the State Supreme Court Thursday the death penalty was cruel and unusual punishment.

Sirhan is in San Quentin prison where he was sent after being sentenced to death for the murder of Sen. Robert Kennedy.

The lawyers said in a brief to the court that defense attorney Luke McKissack of Hollywood was presenting the same argument to the U.S. Supreme Court which has agreed to hear a challenge of the death penalty in another case. McKissack said the death penalty was cruel and unusual punishment because it deprives a defendant of all liberties.

The short brief was a reply to the state's answer to Sirhan's original appeal that ran 700 words.

THE EDUCATION CORPS

Now Full-Time Program

By JOAN LISETOR

The Education Corps, founded in 1968 by a handful of volunteers who wanted to help young women from Marin City establish good job foundations, has grown into a career education program involving the Marin County Schools Office and the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council.

Coordinators of the original program, Barbara Boxer and Nancy Zakim, recruited volunteers to teach the women office skills and grooming tips. The following year they enlisted the aid of San Domenico School for Girls and classes were held at the school in San Anselmo.

As the program grew more services were needed and the women enlisted the aid of the EOC, which was able to provide transportation, babysitting stipends and books in some cases. As the program was about to go under from lack of funds the Novatoans for Racial Equality were able to contribute financial assistance, keeping the program going under the direction of Mrs. Kelley Litz, a member of the Education Corps.

Of the 18 students enrolled at that time at least eight found jobs while enrolled in the program. But personal problems incurred by students, plus problems the program had, mainly due to lack of funds, resulted in erratic attendance of students.

WITH FUNDS running out Mrs. Boxer and Mrs. Litz of the Education Corps and Annette Smail, education coordinator for the EOC, approached Virgil S. Hollis, superintendent of the Marin County Schools, asking for help.

The county was authorized through legislation passed in 1968 to offer courses with on-the-job training, according to Carol Horan, coordinator of vocational counseling and work experience for the Marin County Schools.

"Each county's program is flexible to meet its own needs," she explains. "The only stipulations are that classes be held in existing facilities and not be a duplication of a course already offered."

With a few changes, such as location of the classes from San Domenico to Sir Francis Drake High School and the Manzanita Center in Marin City, the county was able to provide funds to pay the teachers, transportation, business machines and text books.

Teachers are Muriel Lynch at the Manzanita Center and David Anderson at Drake. Anderson taught the course when it was sponsored by the Education Corps and EOC.

THE MAJOR change, according to Miss Horan, is that the courses, which began Sept. 13 is now open to anyone, while it previously served only the poor.

It does coincide with the EOC's goals and purposes, says Mrs. Smail.

"Our agency is seeking to promote rational change within existing public institutions," she says. "Traditionally the schools have discriminated against the poor and have only served the middle class with a rare policy to recruit the poor in their programs.

"We want to see the poor get their fair share of jobs for the future; we want to see them trained for the future, for, unless they are trained, the suburban ghettos will swell in numbers; we will have more unemployment, more hopelessness, and where there is hopelessness, violence is bred."

Surveys in Marin have shown there is a manpower shortage in the secretarial field, according to Miss Horan.

ANDERSON'S CLASS is set up as a simulated office running a mythical company, AM Enterprises, Inc. It incorporates most of the activities of a regular business, demonstrating the importance of certain skills and where they fit into the overall operation of an office.

"The program makes the employee (student) aware of the requirements of business as it relates to attitude, dress, productivity, quality of work, vocabulary, etc.," says Anderson. "We are equipped to train people for 20 jobs and in 25 different skills."

Jobs include file clerk, telephone operator, receptionist, cashier, stenographer, typist, key punch operator, accounting clerk, pay roll clerk and operators of various machines.

Skills include typing, filing, arithmetic, word usage, spelling, handwriting, shorthand, personal grooming, work attitudes, interviewing punctuality and many office techniques and procedures.

Anderson takes pride in the women he has taught who are now employed with private firms in Marin and in county and state jobs.

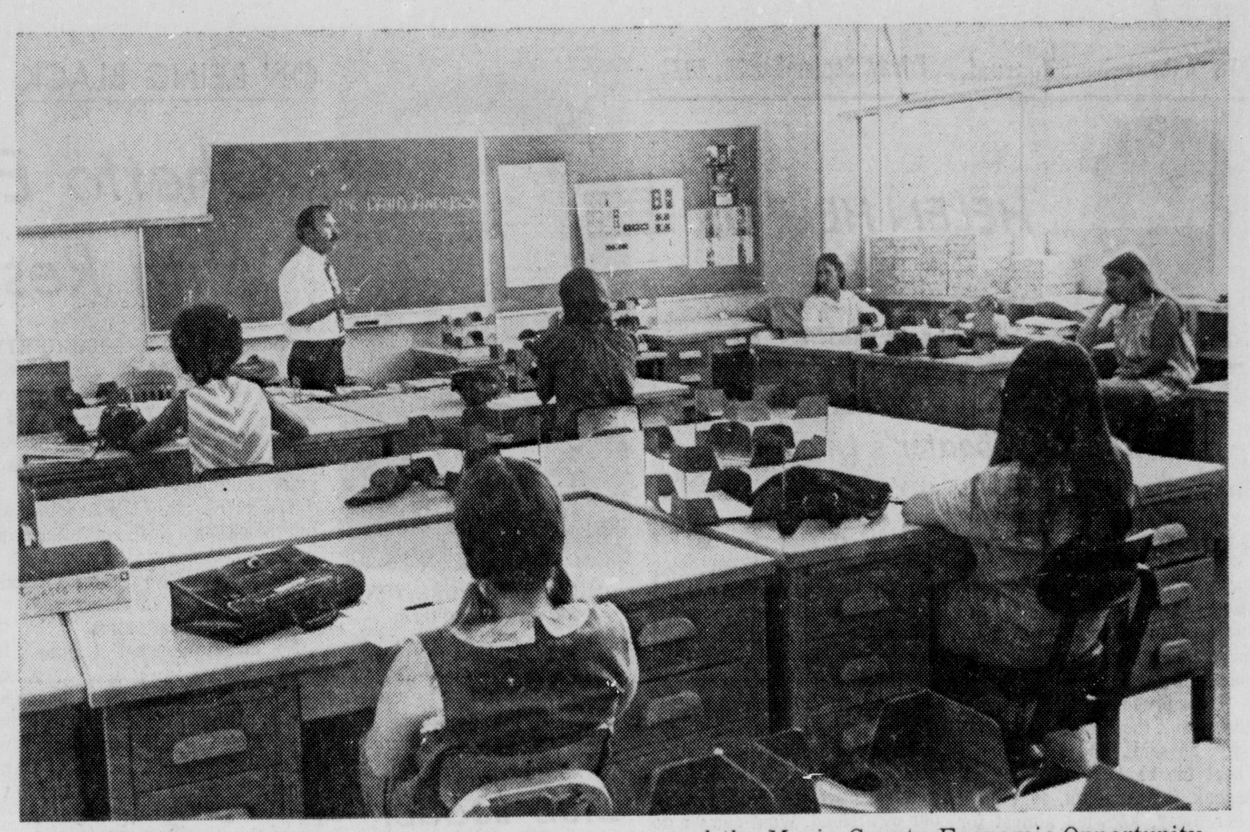
Sue, a Drake High School graduate, was an EOC volunteer when she heard about the classes. She continued there as a volunteer from September of 1970 until May of this year, when she finished the course and became a paid staff member.



DAVID ANDERSON teaches a class in office occupations which is set up as a simulated office running a mythical company. The class grew out of a program sponsored for the past three years by the Education Corps and the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council and held at the San Domenico School for Girls. Marin County Schools and EOC are now working together offering the class at Sir Francis Drake High School.

In the class she has the opportunity to learn 25 different office skills in preparation for 20 office occupations. Interest In Child Care Centers Growing

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Adequate facilities to meet the needs of children of working parents are a major concern of the women's liberation movement, and various governmental agencies are beginning to express more interest.

The number of children whose mothers work has increased sharply the past 10 years. In 1960 some 16 million children under 18 had working mothers. Today there are nearly 26 million.

The U.S. Office of Education estimates only a half-million of the children are able to be housed in adequate licensed day care centers, and data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics and welfare departments indicate that more women would work if adequate child care centers were provided.

BUT CHILD CARE centers have been slow in coming.

However, the Office of Education is now providing $600 million each year in early childhood development programs, and this summer it opened its own child care center to serve 50 children of parents who work in its offices.

The children in the pilot project are three and four-year-olds, 60 per cent of whom come from low-income households. Ten per cent of the children have some sort of handicap.

Office of Education researchers feel the group of 50 offers a large enough sample to determine the impact of the center on the parents' morale, use of sick leave, and general work performance.

"In the past, day care has been either custodial, with children kept tranquilized by television or too many naps, or, if it included creative play, it was too expensive," says Dr. Martin Engel of the Office of Education's National Center for Education Research and Development.

The program provides a demonstration center on early childhood open to visiting experts in the field as an observation laboratory. It will also serve as a model training ground for people entering the early childhood professions.

DR. ENGLE explains, "We hope in this project to fuse custodial and nutritional care, creative play and education." The Office of Education generally hopes to use the center for several purposes. It will be able to implement recommendations which have emerged from research in various government-supported programs.

The center's programs include curricular materials, new strategies in training staff, and new concepts in teaching. By practicing what it preaches, the office hopes to encourage state and local governments and private employers to operate similar centers.

The Office of Education is not the first federal agency to have its own day care facilities. The Department of Labor has a program operated by a private non-profit group which is studying the effect of reliable day care for children upon employee morale and stability. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has a center serving 60 employees offering low-cost custodial and nutritional care.

Birthday Party In Mill Valley

By MOLLY MARIN

Mrs. Axel Gravander — known to her friends as "Mama" Gravander — was given a birthday party in celebration of her 83rd anniversary Sunday at her home in Mill Valley. Hosts were her daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Felds, who live with her.

Some 35 to 40 neighbors and other friends gathered to honor the famed Swedish weaver, who still teaches spinning.

BACK FROM an extended wedding trip to Puerto Rico are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lynn Neely, who will make their home in Columbus, Ohio, where both are affiliated with Ohio State University. The bride is the former Christina Peers, daughter of Lt. Gen. and Mrs. W. R. Peers of Kentfield and of Fort Myer in Arlington, Va. The couple was married June 19 at Fort Myer chapel.

AN OLD fashioned friendship quilt was quilted and presented to Gayle Ubhaus of Mill Valley at a bridal shower given Saturday by Mrs. James Brown and Rose Ann Ashen, both of Mill Valley.

Gayle, who is the daughter of Mrs. Frank Ubhaus, will become the bride of Ronald Newman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newman, all of Mill Valley, on Oct. 9 at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church.

Each guest received a square of fabric with her invitation requesting that she create a quilt patch for the bride-elect. Mrs. Brown assembled the patches before the party, set them into a quilt top and had it on the frame ready for quilting when guests arrived.

Special guests were the mothers of the soon-to-be-married couple. Others were Mrs. Ronald Ubhaus, Kim Chamberlain, Jo-Anne Schendel, Karolyn Wallinsky, Carolyn Floyd, Colleen Swendeman, Carol Anderson, Penny Pohl, Dotty Packham, Sandi Williams, Linda Thaning, Jeanne Brock, Sharron Willerton and Mrs. John Anderson.

ON THE AGENDA

Consumer Consultant Will Prepare AAUW Branch For Study Of Dollar

Sylvia Siegel, consultant to the Association of California Consumers, will prepare members of the Mill Valley Branch of the American Assocation of University Women for their fall study topic, "A Dollar's Worth," at the group's opening luncheon meeting Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. at the Mill Valley Community Church.

Mrs. Siegel, a law student who was for two years executive director of the consumer association which has its headquarters in Sausalito, will be introduced by Mrs. Ralph Mead, chairman of the fall study section on consumer problems.

Future speakers planned in implementation of the study topic will be a lawyer from the California Rural Legal Assistance League and a representative of the Federal Trade Commission.

A Mill Valley resident since 1956, Mrs. Siegel was active in labor relations before turning her attention to consumer problems. She is a graduate of Wayne University in Detroit.

McNEAR PARENT-Teacher Association will have its annual school picnic tomorrow from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the elementary school in Petaluma.

The two sixth grade classes will sponsor a carnival to benefit their outdoor education fund.

Mrs. Vernon Hodapp is chairman.

STRETCH AND sew expert, Pat McCall, will demonstrate methods of sewing with stretch fabrics for members of the Corte Madera Women's Club at a meeting Tuesday at 1 p.m. at the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

She will also offer a preview of new fashion colors and trends. Miss McCall is a former home economics teacher at Tamalpais High School.

SAN MARIN High School Parent-Faculty Club is having its first program of the school year Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the gymnasium of the school in Novato.

Following introduction of the faculty Richard Silver will discuss the school's math program.

MEMBERS OF Mill Valley's Chaparral Chapter 122 of Theta Rho are having a car wash tomorrow at Menzio's Mobile Service Station at East Blithedale Avenue and Camino Alto from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Proceeds will go to the club's funds.

LOCH LOMOND Yacht Club's annual luau is being held Saturday evening at the yacht club in San Rafael.

The party with a Polynesian theme will begin with cocktails at 6:30; dinner will be served at 8 o'clock.

Chairman, Mrs Robert Bohanna of San Rafael, is being assisted by Mmes. Albert Harris of San Rafael and Michael Wedge of Novato.

SPECIAL GROUP

Marin Parents Get Help From 'Contact'

A special self-help group of parents of teen-agers called "Contact" is meeting each Monday night in San Rafael to talk about "whatever is bothering them" or what they are interested in, announced Audry Fatooh, a leader and member of the group.

Contact was started last year by a group of parents whose children had experienced their first contact with the Marin County Probation Department through minor difficulties with the law.

Now it's spreading out from merely parents in a crisis situation to any parent who's worried about the children's behavior and wants to talk, said Mrs. Fatooh. The group is for the single parent as well as husbands and wives.

"IT'S NOT an encounter," stressed Jean Sternberg of the Family Service Agency, who serves as a consultant with the group. "It's supportive and helpful to the parent," she explained.

The talk usually centers around current problems, ways of thinking about changes in society or personalized situations. "Whatever's bothering," she added.

Now sponsored by the YWCA, the Family Service Agency of Marin and the Marin County Probation Department, Contact has resumed weekly meetings after a summer vacation and meets each Monday at 8 p.m. at Jean Sternberg's office, room 205, 1005 A Street, San Rafael.

Agencies, churches, drop-in centers and other groups often refer parents to Contact, but the group is open to any parent who wishes to participate. Sometimes persons from the group have sought professional counseling after their fears of such agencies were allayed, Mrs. Fatooh said.

THE IDEA is for parents who have been in the group a while to become member-leaders for it or other groups, should the numbers of participants increase sufficiently.

Parents who wish to participate in Contact may call the YWCA or Mrs. Fatooh.

Denim Dates To Columbus

NEW YORK (UPI) —Denim, as "now" as say, a moon shot, once in its own way helped to prove that the world was round.

This sturdy fabric, highly popular throughout fall and winter fashions, came to America's shores on the ships Columbus sailed to discover the New World. They were used to make the sails of the explorer's ships, reports the Denim Council of the U.S.A. The term "jeans" is believed to have derived from "gene" used to describe the heavy cotton trousers worn by the sailors of Genoa.

Dungarees also were an import originally. In Dhungaree, India, a cotton cloth was woven coarsely for sailors' trousers and so named "dhungaree".

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Time To Get Smart Dear And Pull Out Of Cheater's Life

DEAR HELEN:

You probably get tired of such things, but I'm another woman in love with a married man. I met him two years ago when he and his wife were separated. Even when they went back together, I still kept on seeing him.

I got pregnant, and he swore he wasn't the father (a vasectomy, he said), and told me if I kept the baby he would never speak to me again, so I gave her away, knowing almost for certain she was his.

Now I hear his wife is expecting. When I faced him with it he shrugged, "So I lied . . . "

He expects me to keep on with him. And, call me a fool, Helen, but I want to because I still love him. Then there are times when I want to sue him for the loss of my baby. — WHICH

DEAR "WHICH?":

Neither!

Get smart (finally) and pull out of this cheater's life. You've drifted long enough. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My brother Kirk is a lazy good-for-nothing and his wife is no better, but they have a year-old baby — so the whole family gives them handouts because we don't want the baby to suffer.

Kirk doesn't work. No excuse except he's tired after being out constantly with his jailbird friends. He's been arrested five times and our parents have had to bail him out, pay lawyers' fees, etc. which they can't afford.

If it weren't for us, he wouldn't even feed the baby, pay the rent or utilities. It's got so now he comes over and helps himself to anything he wants at our houses. Anyone but a relative, we'd call it "breaking and entering." Their apartment is so filthy we won't go there.

When the brothers and sisters decide to get tough, Mom cries and says we're going against our own blood. What can we do about this drunken bum — when he uses his child to keep us "giving"? — LIVING IN A NIGHTMARE

DEAR LIN:

What your family needs is a "get tough" conference which will persuade your protective mother it's time to let go . . . that playing "brother's keeper" is a dangerous and losing game.

If things are as bad as you say, the baby can be legally removed from this man's household. Then: next time he is arrested, let the law take its course. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I get fed up with the "good" people who criticize the "evil" activities of Nevada — mainly gambling, prostitution and quickie divorces.

These people, such as "Disappointed" (she jumped on you for not calling Nevada a Sodom and Gomorrah), have probably never lived in my state. Underworld characters thrive no more here than they do anywhere else. Crime is not rampant. It's a good place to live.

Nevada's only major industry is gambling. If it didn't bring tourists here, the state might face bankruptcy.

As for prostitution, true, Nevada has the only legal houses in the U.S. (and there's a question even here about their legality), but isn't it better to be legal with good health standards than let VD and crime run uncontrolled? The oldest profession will be around, no matter what, so why not out in the open where it's less dangerous? — STAN

MRS. ROBERT BRINTON
Serving second term

A Second Term For Club Leader

Serving a second term as president of the Corte Madera Women's Improvement Club is Mrs. Robert Brinton of Corte Madera, an eight-year-member of the club.

"The club's theme for the year is 'Creative Involvement,' says Ella Brinton. "Members will be encouraged to carry on a definite program of education along lines of moral, social, social welfare and civic interests."

Annual events of the club include a fresh flower hat luncheon and a bazaar, which is the major fund raising event. Proceeds are used for the maintenance of the Corte Madera Recreation Center and sponsorship of Blue Bird and Girl Scout troops. The club also sponsors arts and crafts instruction.

Mrs. Brinton, past chairman of the club's evening section, says membership is open to all women, especially those in the Larkspur-Corte Madera area, willing to support the general aims of the organization.

A native of Galveston County, Tex., the club president attended high school and business college in Santa Barbara. She has lived in Marin for 18 years. Her husband is the office manager of Hunt and Spiller Manufacturing Co., and they have a daughter, Ruth, who attends the University of California at Santa Barbara.

Mrs. Brinton's hobbies are creative stitchery, knitting and reading.

Engagement Of Couple Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Moore of San Rafael have announced the engagement of their daughter Donna Deanne Moore of Woodland Hills, to James Joseph Forgette of Woodland Hills.

Dee, as the bride-elect is known, is the sister of LeAnne Moore and Frederick E. Moore III, both of San Rafael.

She is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and Dominican College and is employed with Thomas Aquinas College in Calabasas.

James is the son of Joseph O. Forgette of Iron Mountain, Mich., and the late Mrs. Forgette.

He is the brother of Robert L. Forgette and Wallace G. Forgette, both of Iron Mountain, and Mrs. Doyne T. Barre of Reseda. He was graduated from Van Nuys High School and attended Pierce College in Woodland Hills. He is employed with Abscoa Industries in Inglewood.

Phone Food Orders Are On Comeback

Food marketing systems designed to save the homemaker time continue to be the trend in the U.S. One example is a return to telephone orders in one large southern city. But there's a new twist. The customer is provided with a list and prices of the same variety of foods found in a typical supermarket. The phoned-in order is delivered within four hours.

Soon to make its debut in America is a new type food store, developed in Europe, that allows the shopper to select items by push button, reports the American Live Stock and Meat Board.

It's similar to an automat cafeteria. Items are automatically retrieved and delivered at receiving door, and an automatic retailing machine collects the money.

Ghetto Expatriate Pleased With Results Of Busing

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"My first reaction was a flat 'No way!' Here we had scrimped and struggled for years to get out of the ghetto and away from a blatantly substandard school. Now we were faced with sending our child back into the same situation."

She went on, "Now, after a month, my child and I are very surprised and pleased with the situation."

No inconveniences? I questioned.

"Well, yes. We get up an hour earlier in the morning, and when I go to the school — for volunteer work and the P-TA — I have to drive farther. But, like all ghetto expatriates, I know the way," she said and smiled.

What has changed? What had made the difference?

"The difference has been made by the fact that busing is a two-way street. My child's close neighborhood friends are bused with him to the previously all-black school. There he is in class with some of his former school buddies. He's liked making new friends while still maintaining some of his old friendships. They like riding the bus."

Do you see significant changes in the previously all-black school?

"I CERTAINLY do. You'd be amazed at what parental participation and concern can do for a school. Before, I was continually frustrated — one of a few black parents trying to improve the ghetto school. We were told there was no money, no facilities and so on for a variety of needs.

"It was comparable to the drug scene. When drug abuse was primarily a ghetto problem, little could be done to control or eradicate it. But now that the problem has crossed racial and economic lines, suddenly a fantastic amount of time and energy is going into correcting the situation. A similar thing is happening in the previously all-black schools. Substandard education — when it threatens everyone — is suddenly recognized as the scourge that it really is. Collective efforts do effect change."

Do you consider the schools to be the real culprits in the evolution of substandard schools?

"Of course not. The real culprits are housed in the areas of employment and housing — real estate tactics are unbelievably rank. But, busing, though extreme — it takes extreme measures to correct extreme conditions — can be a sound interim solution to substandard schools which have plagued ghetto areas.

"ANOTHER ADVANTAGEOUS practice might be the rotation of teachers. Then all students would have equal access to the best and the worst of school personnel."

How do you view the attitudes of whites who are opposed to busing?

"Oh, I certainly understand their fears. No one is more cognizant of ghetto conditions than ghetto expatriates — we blacks who were raised in the ghetto. When we participate in the busing program, when we sublimate the inclination to salvage only our children and work for the good of all, changes are taking place. Believe me, ghetto expatriates can be 'spooked' quicker than any white."

Then you're taking an idealistic, a humanistic approach to the situation.

"NO, NOT REALLY. Just as the white parents in this neighborhood, I care about my child. It happens that by improving the entire school, I improve my child's educative prospects. They go hand in hand.

"It's like 'save the children' . . . my child is a children."

Birthday Candles Make Ideal Gifts

Newest in a line of candles are wedding candles, an anniversary candle and scented candle balls. The birthday candle, like the anniversary candle, is perfect as a gift. It comes in boy or girl styles.

The girl's candle is meant to burn from first birthday down to the 16th birthday. Use it once a year, you see. The boy's? To the 12th birthday.

According to the candlemakers, reason for the difference between the boy and girl candles is that boys stop going in for birthday parties after 12. And girls, after 16.

A New Locale For Fourth A.M. Series

A new locale — the Veterans Memorial Building at Marin Civic Center — will house the fourth season of the A.M. program, which will open next month.

Sponsored by the Family Service League, the A.M. series will feature musical programs for the first time, as the new theater is suited to concerts.

The season will open Oct. 15 with a talk by Britain's Lord Caradon on "What Hope in the Middle East?" Subsequent programs in the series will be the musical star Patrice Munsel doing "From Grand Opera to Baroque Rock;" humorist Goodman Ace in "The Top of My Head;" concert pianist Leonid Hambro in "Fun with Music;" Dr. John R. Searle speaking on "Our Obsolete Universities;" and finally Richard Rush with an illustrated program on "Antiques and Art for Fun and Profit."

A coffee hour is set at 9:30 a.m. prior to each program, which will begin at 10:30 a.m.

Season tickets are available from Mrs. G. G. Gamlen of San Rafael, Family Service League member, and some Marin bookstores.

Carpet Menu Is Bright One

Patterns, prints — grand and petite — geometric and floral — in colors subtle and surging, delicate and wild, are on the consumer's carpet menu for 1971.

According to one leading manufacturer, the move to patterned carpet began when new technology made kitchen carpet feasible and its acceptance caused pattern on the floor to spread throughout the home.

This year, more manufacturers are offering a varied choice of texture and colors in patterned carpet. Pattern is moving off the walls and settling on the floors as the focal point of the interior.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and the Parent's Magazine unless otherwise noted. More omplete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"Endless Summer" — A beautiful exciting travel film of surfing around the world.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Adios, Sabata" — Italian made western about a Mexican revolt in 1867 and the power hungry people behind it. Yul Brenner plays his role with a tongue-in-cheek approach. (Box-office Magazine).

"Escape from the Planet of Apes" — Through a blend in time a space ship lands on Earth 2,000 years prior to its departure. Suspense, comedy and tragedy makes this the best film of this series. Ending is too sad for young children.

"Love Story" — The personal involvement of a young couple and how they face tragedy is simply told, well acted and photographed. Some tasteless language mars an otherwise lovely film.

"New Leaf" — An aging playboy has squandered his inheritance and decides to marry a wealthy wife rather than get a job. His scheme backfires. Good comedy, excellent performances.

"Ryan's Daughter" — A romantic epic, set in World War I. Beautifully photographed against an Irish landscape metaphoric for loneliness.

"Skullduggery" — An anthropological safari in New Guinea discover the "missing link" half ape, half man. Film points up man's ignorance, bigotry and venality in in an original and witty way.

"Support Your Local Gunfighter" — A large cast of excellent actors do not save film from being mediocre. A ladies' man lands in a small western town and is mistaken for a skilled gunman. Humor is broad and silly.

"They Might Be Giants" — A former Judge who believes he is Sherlock Holmes finds a psychiatrist called Dr. Watson and a chaotic, tragi-comic fantasy is born.

"Walkabout" — An exciting adventure of two English children lost in the wilds of Australia is brilliantly presented. A stunningly photographed nature essay, and a highly moral fable is perfect for discussion groups. A study guide is available. Call the library for address.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Summer of '42" — Three adolescent boys at a summer resort during World War II read a medical book to learn all about sex. They pick up girls and follow instructions. Beautifully filmed, very low key drama.

"Two Lane Black Top" — A depressing existential story about a stock car racing freak. His only real relationship is his car. A difficult film to watch.

"Who Is Harry Kellerman" — A very successful rock song writer approaching middle age doesn't like himself at all. He is terrified by mysterious phone calls. Interesting tragi-comedy is very well acted and photographed. Nudity and cursing.

ADULTS ONLY

"Carnal Knowledge" — The sex lives of two men from college days to middle-age done in a two dimensional, cynical, satirical style does become tiresome. Fine performances from cast, language and sex are explicit.

"The Devils" — Story of a 17th Century priest whose ethics brought him in conflict with the Roman Catholic Church. It is a grizly, grotesque film using erotic fantasies and foul language for shock effect.

"Doctor's Wives" — Marital and extra-martial sex in medical circles, with operating room gore as added attraction.

"Eugenia - The Story of Her Journey Into Perversion" — Is exactly what the title implies. Sexploitation fare heavily laced with explicit sadism and satanism with hearts cut out and blood consumed, etc. (Motion Picture Daily)

"Love Machine" — Adaptation of Susann's bestseller leaves much to be desired. An oversexed TV newscaster becomes president of network by bedding down with everyone. Some of the serious dramatic moments are quite funny.

"McCabe and Mrs. Miller" — A mining town at the turn of the century is victimized by a petty crook who sets up a brothel. Story is tasteless in the name of realism. Much brutality, vulgarity and nudity.

"Nana" — Emile Zola would never recognize this updating of his classic novel as a sex picture. (Boxoffice Magazine)

Corte Madera Man Sentenced For Car Theft

John Norman McMurphy, 18, of Corte Madera, has been sentenced to 60 days in Marin County Jail for car theft.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court also placed him on probation for two years.

McMurphy pleaded guilty in August to stealing a car from Richard A. Campagna of 315 Willow Avenue, Corte Madera. Following his plea, a charge that he burglarized the residence of James Lopaka of 129 Montego Keys, Bel Marin Keys, was dismissed.

He was arrested July 7 by Marin County Sheriff's deputies after a check on the car he was driving on Highway 101 revealed it had been stolen. Deputies said they found property from the Lopaka residence in the car.

Innocent Plea In Check Case

Oscar Mickey Curry, 26, of Marin City, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to two felony counts of fraudulent possession of checks.

A preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 5.

Curry was arrested Wednesday on a warrant charging he stole three checks from the car of San Rafael Police Capt. Lincoln Borba while the car was being washed at a car wash where Curry was employed.

The checks were later returned by Borba's bank, made out to Curry and signed with a forgery of Borba's signature.

How A. Kuchya Lost All His Rubles

MOSCOW (UPI)—Can a nice gold miner from Siberia run afoul of card sharps at the Irkutsk airport in this 54th year of Soviet power? Will they get all his rubles between flights?

He can. They did. But read in this installment how justice avenges the sucker and keeps the bourgeois villains from finding true happiness.

This is Moscow's latest, hottest crime story, brought to you by Crocodile, the weekly Soviet satire magazine. This time Crocodile is not kidding.

Its current edition reports that a gang of seven card hustlers worked its way east across the Soviet Union from Kaliningrad to Moscow and across the Ural mountains into central Siberia, one jump ahead of the police.

One day, fresh out of the permafrost of the Aldan mines with $3,850 salary in his poke came miner Anatoly Kuchya, flying home to his wife in the Ukraine. He got bored while waiting for a flight at Irkutsk.

"Enter a nice sociable man, of pleasant appearance who quite by accident happened to have a deck of cards," says Crocodile.

"He suggested they kill time by playing a game called 'The Fools Game'. And the gold miner started winning until another stranger appeared, a nice guy wearing a muskrat cap."

The newcomer introduced a game called "The Traveling Goat." A fourth man joined the play. Anatoly kept winning. They let him get seven rubles ahead. Someone urged him to quit while he was lucky: "Don't worry chums," said Anatoly. "When you have big money why not make it bigger?"

"All of a sudden his big money was smaller by $550 all the cash he had," says Crocodile. He began playing against his $3,300 rubles in checks. Other strangers joined until there were seven men in the circle with Anatoly Kuchya.

"Within 25 minutes all that big northern goldfield money had turned to zero," says Crocodile.

The magnificent seven went on to take $16,500 in the airport from gulls like Anatoly. But they were finally caught in action by police Capt. Yuri Shevelyov.

"A court granted the knights of the queen of spades enough time (in prison) to make enough money to repay the victims," the newspaper said.

Camera Equipment Stolen From Car

Deputies said the equipment and car were owned by Ronald D. Bernard of Concord.

Draft Calls On Quarterly Basis Are Scheduled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Army officials hope to end the decades-old practice of monthly draft calls with the new draft announcement expected next week. They expect to switch to quarterly calls.

In the wake of passage of the new draft law Tuesday, Pentagon officials are working up new calls for the rest of the year. Total calls for October, November and December will be no more than 19,500, officials indicated.

Army officials want to switch to a quarterly call system because they feel it is simpler to administer. Their plans, however, must be approved by civilians in the office of the secretary of Defense and by the Selective Service System.

Fowl Thieves Play Chicken

NEW YORK (UPI)—"This is a true to life chicken caper," a Bronx detective said Thursday in describing the theft of a truck from a supermarket lot.

Rocco Mercadante, a deliveryman for Grow Poultry, had parked outside the E & B Supermarket and went inside to find someone to help him unload his cargo of more than 100 cases of frozen chickens and other meats. The truck was gone when Mercadante went outside after being in the grocery only 60 seconds, he told police.

Police believe the thieves knew what was in the truck and had plans to dispose of the food.

Cosmos Launched

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today fired an unmanned sputnik designated Cosmos 440 into an elongated earth orbit, the Tass news agency said.

A Monkey Bite Results In $25,000 Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A pet monkey was the object of a $25,000 damage suit today.

Polly Ann Donnigan, 26, said she was attacked and bitten by the 18-inch tall monkey while walking near her home in November.

Her attorney, who filed the suit Thursday, named as defendants the animal's owner, Marlow Hotchkiss, the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the San Francisco General Hospital.

The animal society was charged with permitting a "wild animal" on the street and the hospital for failure to take an "adequate and true medical history" when Miss Donnigan was admitted for treatment.

Hotchkiss said the monkey escaped from its cage and got outside through an open window.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Thoughtful Chef At The Grotto Picks Out Those Little Bones

You'll find it difficult to pick a bone with the chef at the Grotto in San Rafael — or for that matter, even find one.

Before any fish dish leaves the galley, Ursula Valan goes over it with a pair of long-nose pliers (and I think a magnifying glass), deftly removing everything objectionable she can find. This is a blessing for people who enjoy salmon, for instance, but hold off from ordering it because they dislike picking out the bones. I can't swear that Ursula never misses one, but I have never found a case where she did and you may not either.

Of course, if you're still unconvinced you can order the Captain's Plate in which the only thing hard is a clam shell and you'll have no trouble removing that.

NERO'S ROOM at Ignacio was supposed to have opened Tuesday, but didn't because of a fire caused by a short circuit in the newly installed broiler. It's taken a few more days to clean up (no serious damage — mostly by the fire extinguisher) and make sure everything is in order.

But today was definitely supposed to be reopening day. You'll find many things changed here.

This year, Oct. 4 will be the day the Naves celebrate their Columbus Day festival. It is on a Monday night, according to their usual custom. Better make reservations early. Dinner times are 5:30, 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. There will be 35 different Italian dishes, with wine and music. Tab is $3.75 per person.

DORI GREEN
At Blue Rock Inn

DORI GREEN, popular vocalist and pianist, has returned to Marin after almost a year in Santa Barbara. And in addition to teaching she is playing Friday and Saturday nights from 9 p.m. at the Blue Rock Inn in Larkspur.

THE RESTAURANT at the Howard Johnson motel complex in Southern Marin definitely will have a bar. An application has been made to secure the on sale general liquor license formerly held by the Bit o'Bohemia bar in San Anselmo.

I CONTINUE TO RECEIVE inquiries about Gregory Seubert's restaurant location in Fort Bragg. Apparently many people still believe that this is under the name of Gregory's, the same as his former place in Corte Madera — so they can't find it.

In this upstate venture, Gregory has several partners, though he is the general manager. It isn't under his own name but is called Noyo River Inn, and is located on the south side of the Noyo River which is just south of Fort Bragg.

Actually it is on South Harbor Drive, about half way down the hill to the Noyo River Yacht Basin, which it overlooks. South Harbor Drive is off the Fort Bragg-Willits road (Highway 20) about one-quarter of a mile east of its junction with Coast Highway 1. Right now road work is being done to improve and widen the junction, so it's hard to miss.

Noyo River Inn is now running much more smoothly. It is open for both lunches and dinners and is on a seven-day-a-week schedule. However, this may be shortened as the fall season moves along.

You'll find many of the same dishes Gregory had on his menu in Corte Madera like sauerbraten, roast duckling, his famous German enchiladas, and his pepper steak in cognac. There is also a good selection of seafoods. Fort Bragg being a sport fishing town, you can look for local catches like red snapper, ling and rock cod.

These are also on the lunch menu, along with broiled salmon, sole, scallops and Pacific oysters. There are several seafood sandwiches and omelets.

STARTING TONIGHT, Bernard's Executive Lounge in San Rafael will serve on Friday and Saturday nights a complete filet steak dinner with a bottla of champagne at $7.95 for two.

Two Men Take Cash From Mill Valleyan

A Mill Valley man was robbed of $40 in cash and a $100 watch while walking near the Marin City underpass Sept. 15, Marin County sheriff's office reported yesterday.

Deputies said James E. Schering of 172 Morningsun Avenue told them he was approached by two men who demanded money. When Schwering treated their demand as a joke, one of them indicated he might have a weapon, and they took Schwering's money and watch.

New Sugar Act Wins Panel Nod

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A new U.S. sugar act which increases quota allocations to 74 nations by 125,000 tons over the current act has been approved by a congressional conference committee.

Most of the increase will be distributed among the 28 Latin American and Caribbean sugar exporters.

Marin Dining And Wining

Friday, September 24, 1971 Independent-Journal, 19

Don Bernard calls this his champagne supper, the idea being that with the bubbly you will feel like dancing in his new addition to the music of the Steve Atken Trio. The trio will play on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

He has also engaged Art Allison for the piano bar Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Art is no stranger to Marinites and he still performs at Black Point Inn on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights. He has been there about five years and his playing and singing is still drawing crowds.

If you have not gotten out to Black Point, this is your chance to hear him.

I am asked this many times. "High" and "low" restaurant prices are comparative and must be judged according to what one is accustomed to pay — so you be your own judge.

Dinners at Caprice are a la carte from $5.75 to $6.75. You can add another $2.50 for trimmings to make this a complete meal. If you are going for chateaubrand, rack of lamb or roast duck, you should figure higher.

Lunches, also a la carte, are from $2.50 to $4.95.

The food is definitely high quality. Dinner menu is mainly European. Lunches feature seafoods, omelets and a few Italian specialties. (No, Kirby Atterbury isn't Italian, but he does appreciate Italian cooking). Well worth a visit.

RUBINI'S in Fairfax has made arrangements to show the landscapes and seascapes of Terry Nichols (who is Mrs. Arthur Nichols of San Rafael) during the month of October.

Terry, a registered nurse, was formerly at Ross Hospital, is a mother of three and an avid golfer. She started painting in Massachusetts in 1954, studying under Leo Brodeaur. She still continues studying, now with Catherine Johnson. Many of her works at Rubini's will be Marin scenes.

TOM FOGARTY, JERRY GARCIA AND MERL SAUNDERS are featured at the Lion's Share in San Anselmo tonight and tomorrow night, along with Jerry Corbitt, Billy Cox and Charlie Daniels. The latter group is also booked for Sunday.

All of us at Chez Pierre want to extend our fondest thanks to the many people that have visited our new restaurant.

We are pleased by the great response which we have enjoyed these first few weeks.

We will continue to do our best to make your evening a memorable one.

Once again
Thank you.

Eat at Dominic's.
A friend of ours recently spent the evening up on Broadway, instead of driving all the way to San Rafael where we are. It cost him $3.00 for parking, $51.87 for dinner, $48.50 for drinks, tips, and cover charge at a topless night club, and $75,000 plus his lawyer's fee of $3,500 for his subsequent divorce. Dominic's isn't cheap, but considering the atmosphere, superb food, and the possible savings, we're certainly worth a fifteen minute drive.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON GREB

Guess who was born today and became famous.

1. What U.S. astronaut was born in San Francisco 41 years ago today? This Navy test pilot was selected by NASA for several Gemini missions and served as command module pilot on the Apollo 10 mission to the moon in May, 1969: (A) Alan Shepard; (B) John Watts Young; (C) Wally Schirra.

2. Ever learn about an important U.S. Supreme Court decision called "Marbury vs. Madison"? If so it would help you identify the Chief Justice whose decision in this case established the high court's power to overrule certain acts of Congress: (A) John Jay; (B) John Marshall; (C) John Locke.

3. At the London Palladium, who would you expect to be there singing "What Kind of Fool Am I"? This best symbolizes the English recording star who has had his own TV show and acted in more than 16 films, including "Dr. Doolittle" and "The Small World of Sammy Lee": (A) Tom Jones; (B) Englebert Humperdinck; (C) Anthony Newley.

4. Welcome home, American tourists, but did you see this artist's work while you were in Paris? He was the son of a master silversmith who in the 19th Century became a prize-winning sculptor, especially of animals, and is noted for his creation, "Tiger Devouring a Crocodile:" (A) Antoine Barye; (B) Eero Saarinen; (C) Gutzon Borglum.

Sometimes Faith In Your Partner Can Be Overdone — Study Below

Faith in your partner is a deeply touching sight, but it can be overdone. A good partner will try to steer you in the right direction, but you are still entitled to use your eyes and your brains. It is your duty to overrule your partner if you are sure that you are right.

SINGLETON READING

West opened the three of diamonds, and East won with the ace. Reading the lead as a singleton, East returned the ten of diamonds to give his partner a ruff.

The ten showed that East's side strength was in a high side suit, hearts. If East's side strength had been in clubs, the low side suit, he would have returned his lowest diamond to give West a ruff.

Without bothering to do any thinking of his own, West followed his partner's signal by returning a heart.

LIMITS CLUB LOSS

Declarer took the ace of hearts, ruffed a heart, got to dummy with a trump to ruff another heart and got back with another trump to ruff still another heart. South drew the last missing trump and entered dummy with the king of diamonds to discard a club on the established jack of hearts. This limited the club loss to one trick, and South thus made his contract.

SHOULD SEE ACE

West could see the ace of hearts in the dummy and therefore could tell that East had no immediate entry in hearts. If South had two hearts, he would have to lose a heart trick sooner or later no matter what West returned. But if South had only one heart, it was important for West to stop a heart ruffout.

After ruffing the second diamond, West should return a trump. This removes an entry from the dummy before South has started on the hearts. South cannot set up and cash the jack of hearts; and West must eventually get two club tricks.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, vulnerable against nonvulnerable opponents, you hold:

♠ - K J 10 9 8 7 6
♥ - 5
♦ - J 7 6
♣ - K 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

It is dangerous to make a shutout bid of three spades at this vulnerability. It would be reasonable to do so if you were nonvulnerable against vulnerable opponents. If your opponents have no sensible way of doubling a shutout bid for penalties, you have everything to gain and little to lose from an opening bid of three spades.

WEE PALS

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Sept. 24, the 267th day of 1971 with 98 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

On this date in history:

A thought for the day: President Dwight D. Eisenhower said, "In the final choice, a soldier's pack is not so heavy a burden as a prisoner's chain."

New Sewage Disposal Plant Is Dedicated

Rohnert Park officially dedicated its new sewage disposal plant yeaterday and learned that an environmental research project will be carried out at the facility for nearly two years.

The project, which received 75 per cent federal funding, will be conducted by the Environmental Protection Agency. Dr. William D. Bishop, project officer for the agency, said tests would be run on a new pool sweep method to be used in sedimentation ponds.

He told officials at the ceremony he hoped the project would show how better control can be gained in the treatment of overflows from combined sewers and storm water lines and thus reduce operational costs for Rohnert Park and other cities.

The $400,000 plant will have a capacity of treating 6.5 million gallons per day. Rohnert Park also serves the city of Cotati and the Sonoma State College campus.

Dormant Volcano

WAILUKU, Hawaii (UPI)— Haleakala on the island of Maui is the world's largest dormant volcano. It is 10,023 feet high, covers an area of 33 miles and has a crater seven miles long and two miles wide.

Panel Sets Date For Remapping

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A House committee wants state legislatures to complete reapportionment of congressional districts by Feb. 1, 1972.

By a voice vote, the House Judiciary Committee Wednesday passed a bill that suggests, but does not order, that legislatures take the step.

Federal law requires states to redraw their congressional districts after each federal census. Committee sources said only 16 states have completed the task, working from 1970 census figures.

TELEVISION IN REVIEW

Carson Still King Of Talk Programs

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Johnny Carson next week begins his 10th year as host of NBC-TV's "Tonight" show, and there isn't the slightest doubt in anyone's mind that he is the runaway ratings leader in the late-night video field.

The bad news for the competition is that he has no plans at present to quit. Telephoning from New York Thursday, he said:

"The show is stronger than ever, and I still enjoy doing it. I just take it a day at a time."

Carson's competitors on the major networks are, of course, Dick Cavett on ABC-TV and Merv Griffin on CBS-TV. Recently, Griffin and CBS-TV have indicated their mutual dissatisfaction with each other, a situation that almost unquestionably means they will split as soon as possible. Concerning this situation, Carson said:

"You know, when you're opposite somebody on the air you'd be a hypocrite if you said you hope they do real well — even though it's the nice thing today. But I do think CBS treated him (Griffin) a little shabbily, saying he's not doing the job well and breaking it in the newspapers. But networks are not known for their heart."

It was Oct. 1, 1962, that Carson began as the "Tonight" host. And next Friday will mark the beginning of the 10th year. To note the occasion, the comedian will present highlights of shows from the past nine years, as well as surprise guests.

Asked whether he contemplated any significant changes in his show in the future, Carson said: "There are really only three ways to do this kind of show —standing up, sitting down or lying down. The basic thing is to try to keep things from getting dull."

What kind of guests are the best? said Carson: "Persons not trying to create any kind of facade on the show —not trying to create an image, but are what they are. Among comedians, people like Mel Brooks, Buddy Hackett and Don Rickles —uninhibited. Among actors, someone like Bob Mitchum, who just says it as it is and is not guarded."

Who make the worst guests? Carson said: "I find that most politicians are not the best guests because they're mainly interested in creating an image and advancing their ideologies, and it just sounds like a record that's been played before. I think people in the audience are becoming very astute about these things now."

Carson gets to work about noon each taping day. After preparation all afternoon, the show is taped starting about 5:30 p.m. New York time, and ends at seven o'clock. The comedian says he doesn't usually watch the show when it airs later at night, "except for a new piece of material or to see how something particular went."

Does he watch Cavett or Griffin? "Not very often," said Carson. "We usually know what's on their shows anyway. I do a lot of reading."

As for his own relaxation, Carson had no hesitation in replying when asked where he would head if he were told he could take off tomorrow morning for any place he wanted for a week: "I'd go on a boat. To Nassau, the Bahamas. It's one of the last places you can really be on your own."

Attorney Asks Young Jurors

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)— Attorney Charles Garry has filed suit asking for the inclusion of 18-year-olds in the jury panel that will hear Black Panther Huey P. Newton's manslaughter trial Oct. 12.

Garry said the trial for the cofounder of the Black Panther party should be postponed until younger jurors are included.

The suit said Alameda County Jury Commissioner Edward Schnarr was ignoring names of 18-year-olds whose names were on the registered voters lists from which jurors are chosen.

This will be Newton's third trial on charges of fatally shooting Oakland policeman John Frey on the morning of Oct. 28, 1967. The two previous ended in mistrials.

Watts Critical

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)— Rep. John C. Watts, 69, D-Ky., was in "critical condition" today after suffering an apparent stroke.

Educator Studies Blacks In England — Distressed

By PAT ANGLE

Black Britishers see America as "the worst, most violent country in the world, a place where black people cannot walk the streets without fear of being shot down," according to a black Marin County educator who spent two months in England this summer.

Lanny Berry, special assistant for the Tamalpais High School District, visited the country to study the living conditions of non-whites in Britain under a research grant from the Wennergrenn Foundation in New York.

He found himself "anguished and distressed" by what he saw and learned through talking with scores of black people and officials who had formal responsibility for the problems of nonwhite immigrants.

Berry said he returned with the belief that there is little hope that black Britishers will improve their status and living conditions in the future. Most he met, "still harbor the illusion that they will eventually be able to take their places in society as proper British citizens."

Despite the prevailing view that blacks in England were "far better off" than their American counterparts, Berry said he discovered little evidence to support this view.

Most live in poverty and inadequate housing and have very few opportunities to obtain good jobs or a good education. In fact, he said, nonwhites in England, caught in a rigid class system where higher education is geared to a very few, may have even more difficulties in solving their problems than nonwhites in this country.

While black people in the United States comprise about one-tenth of the population, the ratio of blacks to whites in England is much lower, he noted, about 1.5 million in a total population of 56 million. Consequently, he said, nonwhites in England have almost no political power and what they do have is fragmented.

"I saw very little evidence of political organization among black people, very little evidence that groups of blacks or coalitions of blacks and whites were working for substantive change," he said. He also found "no black elected officials in all of England, though there may be some I did not hear about" and received the impression the interests of black people were not being represented in parliament.

The British higher educational system, which frankly admits to being designed for 5 per cent of the population, was virtually closed to nonwhites, according to Berry, even though advanced education is the chief vehicle for social advancement and decent jobs. In the entire country the educator noted only 495 black youngsters in schools which prepare British youth college.

He did find a few rare blacks who had been knighted or elevated to peerages, but he laughingly said that those individuals had been so honored "because of their superior performance on the cricket field," rather than any other accomplishment.

Berry also discovered in England that oppression has many sides. "The working class in England is mostly white, but often they are oppressed too, in housing, working conditions and education," he added, "Europeans have been oppressing and killing each other for centuries, but this has really had less to do with color than with class, caste or religion."

With education closed to most nonwhites, Berry said the job picture was bleak, perhaps even worse than in the United States. "I found very, very few blacks who qualified for skilled jobs," he said, "definitely fewer than in this country."

Black people face a particular difficulty in assimilating into British life, a problem not so pronounced in America, he said. "The British have very definite ideas of the qualities and social graces a person must possess to be "acceptable,'" he noted. "They expect a person to be quiet, genteel and reserved and have a difficult time with people who are different."

Black people in England, chiefly immigrants from Africa and the Caribbean, tend to be aggressive and outspoken, according to the Marin educator, qualities which do not endear them to the proper British heart.

"In America, black people are separated from whites not so much by cultural differences as by color," Berry said. "In Britain, the situation is reversed."

Most blacks in Great Britain draw much of their information about race relations in this country from newspapers, magazines, radio and television which, he said, tend to focus on racial conflict and confrontation. As a result, "they see Ameican black people as politically disorganized, naive, economically deprived, socially rejected, prone to violence against other, living in terror ina an uncivilized country," he said.

"They have a distorted, ludicrous view of the situation here, probably because they don't have a chance to weigh what they read and hear against a personal knowledge of what is really happening," he added.

There is little input from black American tourists, Berry said, chiefly because there are so few. During their two months in Europe, the Berry family saw no other black families touring and only about 10 individual blacks.

Berry said his family was refused service in a "couple of restaurants" and eyed with disdain in expensive British shops, "until they found out we were American and assumed we had a lot of money."

"Being an American helped," he added, "I am sure we were treated better than British blacks."

Throughout his travels, Berry said he refused to be drawn into discussions of "who's better off than who" because he felt it would serve no purpose and "I didn't travel 7,000 miles to defend America."

"I feel black Americans have a certain potential for development and advancement that black Britishers don't have," he said, "but whether that development will actually be realized is still questionable."

Rather than debating the question of which countries treat black people worse, Berry said he believes black people all over the world would do better "to get together and deal with the problems."

"The results of discrimination are the same, even though the processes that encourage it may be different in different countries," he said. "Everyone is suffering the same fate, regardless of the geography involved."

Warning Issued To Investors

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Better Business Bureau has cautioned prospective investors to investigate before investing in companies making promises of large incomes through sales and recruitment of distributors.

Bestline is a multi-level marketing program to sell household, commercial and industrial cleaners through franchised distributors-investors.

The complaint alleged that the plan was based on virtually endless recruiting of participants with geometric increases in the number necessary to produce the earnings suggested in literature.

As a result, participants often would not be able to find additional investors in a given community or area by the time they enter the program simply because the recruiting activities of earlier investors have exhausted the prospects.

Regional Park Push Planned

A group of conservationists which wants to see control over Marin County parks taken out of the hands of the board of supervisors has formed an ad hoc committee to establish a regional park district in Marin.

Robert Young of Terra Linda, chairman of the committee, said that his group believes that "although supervisors did pretty well by parks last year," this isn't always the case.

Furthermore, he said, it is a policy of the county not to acquire any park land west of Fairfax.

Creation of a separate park district, which would have its own directors and taxing powers, would make the administration and acquiring of parks "less political," Young said.

He said he hoped that such a district should have the ability to make long-term park purchases.

Young also said the group would like to see the county parks and recreation staff included as part of any new district organization.

As a model, the committee is looking at the East Bay Regional Park District, which includes most of Alameda and Contra Costa counties, Young said. This is the only such district in the state, he said.

The next meeting of the committee will be Oct. 6, Young said, but a place has not been named.

Noise Pollution Hearing Slated

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A three-day public hearing on noise pollution will open Monday before a hearing board called by the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

The hearing, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day, will be in the Jack Tar Hotel.

The board will consider the effects of noise, noise control and research, legislation and enforcement against noise.

Eight Semifinalists Omitted From List

Eight Terra Linda High School students were omitted from an Independent-Journal article Wednesday naming the semifinalists in the 1971-72 National Merit Scholarship competition.

Holdings Valued At $30 Million

Marin County owned almost $30 million in property and equipment as of June 30, County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell reported today.

He computed the county's total holdings as part of the annual balance sheet, which will be sent to the Marin County Board of Supervisors next Tuesday.

The county's major holdings are:

Civic Center buildings and grounds — $20,029,221; Lucas Valley property (Marin Juvenile Hall) — $1,570,651; parks and open space — $1,711,919; old courthouse in San Rafael — $850,000; Gnoss Field, county airport — $939,669; county library in Novato — $475,042.

Others include the health department building and the county garage on Fourth Street in San Rafael, seven county firehouses, and more than $3.6 million in furniture and buildings under construction.

Among the parks and open space, the biggest holdings are McNears Beach, worth $698,896; Bolinas Lagoon $527,741, and Paradise Park, $220,840.

Business Tax Slice Correction Is Sought

For the second year in a row, the state is short-changing the counties by not reimbursing them fully for the 30 per cent drop in business inventory tax, which the state Legislature ordered.

Marin County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said he has dispatched letters to Sen. Peter H. Behr and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, asking them for legislation to correct the inequity.

Because of the 30 per cent cut in business inventory tax, Marin County will lose $112,316.97 this fiscal year. Mitchell said the state promised to reimburse counties in full, but the actual reimbursement to Marin comes to only $22,694.01.

"Therefore, the shortage to the county of Marin for 1971-72 will be $89,622.96," said Mitchell. "Since many other counties will find themselves in similar situations, it is requested that necessary legislation be introduced to correct this inequity."

Last year's shortage for Marin was $55,837.

Luncheon Kicks Off Bay Area Crusade Campaign

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The United Bay Area Crusade kicked off its annual campaign yesterday with a luncheon aboard the S.S. President Cleveland.

Campaign chairman Lawrence E. Hoyt announced that $4 million already had been raised through several fund-raising drives in the spring.

UBAC, rather than setting a total dollar goal as in past years, this year has introduced what it calls a fair share goal, suggesting that persons earning less than $10,000 per year give an hour's pay per month and those earning more than $10,000, 1 per cent of their salary.

The campaign benefits 200 health, welfare and youth organizations and will this year support New Directions programs in day car, drug abuse and neighborhood services in poverty areas.

A New Quentin Lockup Section

San Quentin Prison officials added a new lockup section of 80 inmates yesterday as security moves continued in the wake of the Aug. 21 escape attempt in which three guards and three inmates were killed.

Information officer Joseph R. O'Brien said the new unit, in the prison's south block, is designed to keep tight reins on militant inmates.

O'Brien said the inmates would remain there, spending most of the time in their cells, "until we're able to get them jobs in areas where we will have better control of them."

As for the rest, the prison is nearly back to normal operations, O'Brien said.

Hearing Set On Burglary Count

Preliminary hearing was set for next Friday.

Quinn was arrested Tuesday when Sausalito police allegedly found him in the house of Alfred S. Wilsey at 89 Cazneau Avenue. Police said another man with Quinn leaped from a second floor window and escaped.

Tools and Power Equipment Taken

Tools and power equipment valued at $932 have been stolen from a garage at 114 Auburn Street in the California Park area outside San Rafael, Marin County sheriff's office reported yesterday.

Deputies said the theft occurred last Friday or Saturday. The equipment is owned by Donald E. Wright of 17 Canyon Road, San Anselmo, who rented the garage.

Traveler's Checks Among Theft Items

A bicycle, $30 in cash and $180 in traveler's checks were stolen yesterday from a car parked at Dominican College, San Rafael police reported today.

The property was stolen from Martin W. Plumb of Bakersfield, who was visiting friends on the campus.

Man Answers Theft Charge

Frederick Neville Henderson, 39, of Novato, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a felony charge of car theft.

Preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

Henderson was arrested after he abandoned a 1971 auto in front of a business at 2060 Redwood Highway in Larkspur Sept. 16. The car had been reported stolen several days before by Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael.

SWEEPING VIEW

Of the Valley, Sausalito & San Francisco. We have an exciting typical Mill Valley home in a best weather area. Altho it has 3 plus bedrooms, 3 baths, a large formal dining room, it's just a bit different. One of the bedrooms and one bath are on the lower level, ideal for a maid, or an in-law or teen-ager. Let us show this $77,500 charmer.

LOVELY IMMACULATE HOME

We have one for sale with an asking price of $44,950. This would be a great rental at $375 per month or a total of $4,500 a year. Buy why rent? We can obtain an 80% loan & the owner will carry back a 10% second, if needed. So with 10% down plus closing costs, this home can be yours to buy instead of to rent. After the down payment is made, & buyer takes title, the monthly payments on the loan & taxes will be approximately $383 a month, almost all of which is tax deductible. 3 bdrms., 2 baths, family room, all in excellent condition.

A MOST CONVENIENT LOCATION

For this 3 bedrooms, 1½ bath home with an asking price of $34,500. This home also has a formal dining room, electric kitchen, plus an interesting level backyard. Why not ask to see it!

MILL VALLEY

The building season is nearly over for 1971. We have the following exclusive lot listings. Since the building ban is in effect, why not buy now & hold for investment.

1. Beatuiful down-slope lot on Ralston Ave. Sewer & water at property line. On city-maintained street. $10,000.
2. 16,000 plus sq. ft. on Marion Ave. All utilities on city-maintained street. $9,500.
3. Beautiful Cascade area. All utilities. $14,500 including bond.
4. On Morningsun Ave. Upslope lot. County maintained street. All Utilities. $10,000.
5. Close-in on Circle Ave., upslope lot. $16,000.
6. Almost 10,000 sq. ft. in this view site on Bolsa Ave. Seller will finance with a reasonable down payment. Get control of this desirable bldg. site until the building ban is lifted, it will then be worth much more than the $7,500 asking price.

CITY OF FAIRFAX
NOTICE INVITING SEALED PROPOSALS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that sealed bids or proposals will be received by the City of Fairfax at its mailing address, P.O. Box 605, Fairfax, California 94930, or by delivery to its office at the City Hall, 142 Bolinas Road, Fairfax, California, until 10:00 o'clock on Wednesday, October 6, 1971 at which time bids will be publicly opened and read for the following:

One (1) Pickup Truck and
Three (3) Automobiles

Each bid shall be made out on a form to be obtained at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Fairfax, California, and shall be submitted in a sealed envelope marked "AUTOMOTIVE EQUIPMENT", plainly endorsed with bidder's name. Bids must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or bidder's bond for ten (10) per cent of the amount of the bid made payable to the order of the City of Fairfax, Fairfax, California, which shall be forfeited to the City if the successful bidder fails or refuses to enter into a contract awarded him.

Bids will be examined and reported to the City Council of the City of Fairfax at a meeting on October 12, 1971. The City Council reserves the right to reject any and all bids or to waive any irregularities or informalities in any bid or in the bidding procedure. No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of thirty days after the date bids are reported to the City Council.

A Full Weekend Of Prep Football

Tonight's slate shows Terra Linda entertaining Harry Ells, 8 o'clock, and San Marin visiting Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park at Petaluma High, also at 8. Novato hosts Petaluma High tomorrow, 1 p.m.

In the three remaining Saturday tilts: Marin Catholic treks to Piner of Santa Rosa, 7:30 p.m.; Drake travels to Vallejo, 8 p.m.; and Montgomery of Santa Rosa invades San Rafael High, 8 p.m.

The six locals involved face stiff opposition, but possibly Terra Linda, San Marin and Novato are in the toughest spots.

Hoping to blunt this type of attack, the Blue and Gold mentor has drilled his defensive troops thoroughly. Regarding this week's workouts, Lucas expressed pleasure with the results — "particularly defensively. We should be hitting harder this week."

This ominous prophesy, bad news for Trojan rivals, will either prompt assault charges, or, more likely, another fruitful football finish in first place.

Lucas also welcomed back first club flanker and safety John Buckley, another erstwhile finger problem victim. He replaces Paul Mooney offensively and Pete Corbett in the secondary.

Observers believe that, the lineup alterations notwithstanding, Terra Linda should decision Ells.

However the arm chair experts are not as enthsuiastic over San Marin's chances. The Mustangs, unlike Terra Linda (1-0,)have dropped both outings. The vulnerable Green and Gold defense is expected to be sorely tested by a Steve Wlodarczyk-led passing attack. The port-sided flinger has triggered a highly successful aerial assault in a win over Marin Catholic this year, plus a 38-26 triumph over the Mustangs last fall.

However, Coach Bob Martin's marauders didn't have field general Hoaz Wright that year. The sophomore southpaw passed for 234 yards and one touchdown, a 75-yarder to Bob Briot during a 27-6 loss to powerful Encinal of Alameda last Saturday.

In setting the tone, Martin vowed revenge for last year's close contest, adding: "if we get our defense adjusted, we should do pretty well."

To this end, Martin shifted linebacker Steve Fowler to defensive tackle and safety Steve Baldocchi to middle linebacker. Explaining the latter change, Martin pointed out that Baldocchi's aggressiveness "is better suited at linebacker."

While Martin was shuffling bodies, so was his Rancho Cotate counterpart Clyde Brock. The Cougar coach was the only one not listing any player changes but did reveal "our defense will do some stunting."

Despite Brock's reluctance to deviate from his success formula, this seemed to be the week of pigskin promotions for Novato High coach Al Soctt was elevating Rick Reis to starting defesive middle guard for Dean Davis. After last week's heartbreaking 8-7 loss to host Riordan of San Francisco in the final minutes, Scott admitted "there was a little letdown. But we've had good practices since then. We've just got to cut down on penalties" — and breakloose offensively.

The key tool is there in All-League quarterback Marty Moroski, which worries vying coach Howard Cadenhead of Petaluma. "I'm concerned that they will break out and score in clusters, because they're due." Yet, Cadenhead's pride rests with his defense.

"Defense is one of our stronger aspects, but we know they will be more physical this year, based on our scouting reports." To compensate for this, Cadenhead demoted starting tight end

PLAYOFF VISIONS

Giants Roar Into Cincy

HOUSTON (UPI)—The San Francisco Giants came to Houston Tuesday worried about their losing streak, their hitting slump and playing in the confounded (to them) Astrodome.

They left for Cincinnati early today thinking about the pennant and the World Series after taking two out of three from the Houston Astros. They stretched their lead over the fading Los Angeles Dodgers to three games in the National League West and lowered their magic number to clinch the title to four.

Gaylord Perry was even better Thursday night in winning 2-1 than Juan Marichal was Wednesday in winning 3-1. Perry retired the last 14 hitters after John Mayberry hit a home run in the fifth.

It was the first time the big two of the San Francisco staff had won in the Dome since 1965, the year it opened. Perry, (15-12) set the Astros down on three hits, half as many as Marichal had allowed.

"It's been years since I won here," Perry said. "I won one in 1965."

Perry, who is often accused of throwing a spitball, was not questioned about it in this game by plate umpire Chris Pelekoudas, who is one of the umpires who has scrutinized Perry in previous games.

"He had no reason to (check me) tonight," Perry said.

Harry Walker of Houston, probably managing his last game at home, argued with Pelekoudas in the first inning after Bob Watson struck out on a pitch that broke down about a foot.

"Every time I strike somebody out, Walker gets upset," Perry said. "But he's just trying to win. That's what he's supposed to do."

Willie McCovey, the big first baseman with the bad knee and the sore hand, provided the offense with a big bat and a big foot. He hit his 18th homer in the fourth for the first run and drove in the other when he was hit on the foot by a pitch with the bases loaded in the fifth.

I was going to hit him anyway so what's the big deal," McCovey said "If he hadn't hit me, I might have got three of them instead of just one."

The Giants loaded the bases on hits by Perry and Ken Henderson and an error by Denis Menke on Tito Fuentes' grounder. Loser Don Wilson (16-9) got Bobby Bonds to fly to right for the second out, but then hit McCovey on the left foot with a curve ball that broke down too far. The run was unearned.

The back-to-back victories were the first for the Giants since Sept. 3-4. They still have won only five of their last 18 games and seven of their last 28 in the Astrodome, which isn't the Giants' favorite ball park.

Don Carrithers (5-3) will start for the Giants tonight against Ross Grimsley of the Reds.

Cecil Harris Takes Lead; Bolt Second

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—This may be the year Tommy Bolt doesn't win the U. S. National Senior Open.

The $75,000 golf tournament for pros 50 and over got under way Thursday with Cecil Harris, -58-year-old driving range pro from Orange, Calif., grabbing the lead with a six-under-par 65.

However, Bolt, who is seeking his fourth straight Senior title, was one shot back. Harris had nines of 31-24 while Bolt, from Sarasota, Fla., carded 33-33.

Tied at 67 were Hans Merrell, Mt. Vernon, Ohio and Lew Cretlow, Enid, Okla., while Pete Cooper, Lake City, Fla., had a 68.

Deadlocked at 69 were Joe Brown, Des Moines, Iowa; Marty Furgol, Morristown, N. J., and Lou Warotick, Brooksfield, Ohio.

'C' Basketball

A BREWER RUN — Milwaukee's Tom Brooks made it safely home in the second inning of last night's game against the A's in Oakland. He had scored from second base on Darrell Porter's single to rightfield and Reggie Jackson's throw bounced off the chest of catcher Gene Tenace. The A's won, 5-4. (UPI Telephoto)

IN EUREKA

A Rugged Task For Marin Tars

The Tars of Marin will be facing a team which whipped a good Cosumnes River College team of Sacramento last Saturday, 26-17.

Coach Dick Read's Tars will open with Kevin Peak at quarterback, following his impressive, three-touchdown production in a 34-28 loss to Merced College in Marin's opener last Saturday.

"We're going to move the ball," said Read about his offense for this non-conference battle. The Tars will turn to reserve fullback Larry Walker to beef up their attack along with Bob Sutherland, and Mike Locati.

"We didn't pressure the passer that well," commented Read, about his defense which gave up 284 yards in the air and three touchdown passes. Their effort will be hindered by injuries to defensive tackle Ross Gondak, out because of a knee injury, and Steve Dillman, sidelined with a bruised shoulder.

Mike Connolly, a 285-pound giant, will replace Gondak at tackle, while reserve quarterback Bob Daniele, an all-league corner back in his high school days at Terra Linda, will play the left corner in place of Mike Corder. Lynn Merritt, coming off an injury to his knee, will resume his post at right defensive end.

Archer Takes Lead In Robinson Golf

ROBINSON, Ill. (UPI) — George Archer, second place finisher a year ago, and rookie Dwight Nevil carried four-under-par 67s into today's second round of the $100,000 Robinson Open Golf Classic.

One stroke behind the leaders after Thursday's opening round on the par 71 course were Larry Hinson, Labron Harris, Mac McLendon and Jim Ferriell.

Last year's winner over Archer in a four-hole playoff, George Knudson, shot 75. Lee Trevino, saying "I just didn't have my mind on it," finished one over par at 72. He missed a chance to play the course Wednesday because his mother was critically ill in Dallas.

Clustered two strokes behind the frontrunners were ten other players: Tim Colbert, Jack Cupit, Mike Hill, John Lister, Mike Morley, Bert Greene, Earl Fennell, Steve Bogan, Curtis Sifford, and Bob Erickson. Ron Cerrudo of Napa was in a group at 71.

A first or second-place finish for Trevino would boost him to the top money-winning spot this year. The Robinson winner will get $20,000.

Trevino bogeyed three holes on the first nine Thursday and had two birdies on the way back, but predicted he would do better in today's round.

Nevil, 27, of San Antonio, Tex., attended North Texas State University for almost three years on a golf scholarship and polished his game while working as a Dallas fireman on a 24 hours on, 48 off schedule. He is in his first year on the tour, but finished fourth last week at the Quad Cities tournament at Bettendorf, Iowa. He fired four birdies, two each on the front and back nines, for 33-34.

GILMARTIN RESIGNS I-J POST

James J. (Jim) Gilmartin has resigned as sports editor of the Independent-Journal.

Ralph Chatoian has been named acting sports editor. Chatoian has been on the I-J staff since 1960.

Gilmartin reported sports for the I-J for more than 25 years, beginning as a string reporter while still a student at San Rafael high school where he quarterbacked a championship football team.

In submitting his resignation, Gilmartin said he was "too ill to continue."

Oakland's Smallest Crowd Watches Athletics Win

OAKLAND (UPI) —While the Oakland A's were relaxing a bit and experimenting for the American League playoffs, the Milwaukee Brewers played Thursday night as if a league championship depended on the outcome.

With one out and the score tied 4-4 in the bottom of the ninth, Brewer manager Dave Bristol installed a five-infielder defense in an effort to stop the A's from scoring the winning run.

The A's Rick Monday had led off the inning with a double and was sacrificed to third. Ace Milwaukee reliever Ken Sanders then issued two intentional walks to load the bases.

That's when Bristol put in another infielder and used only two outfielders with Joe Rudi at bat.

The unorthodox strategy worked, for the moment, when Rudi struck out, but Sanders then walked Angel Mangual to force in the winning run, giving the A's a 5-4 victory and their 14th win in 15 games with Milwaukee this season.

After the game Bristol said the five-infielder defense "makes sense."

"It's a good play," he said. "It gives the batter something else to think about. We did it three times last year and it worked."

The A's, who have already clinched the A.L. West title, played before the smallest crowd in Oakland history Thursday night. The attendance was only 1,535, smallest in the team's four season's in Oakland. The previous small crowd mark was 1,618 in September of 1969.

Reliever Darold Knowles picked up his seventh win in 11 decisions with a one-hit job over the last two innings.

The Brewers had taken a 3-1 lead off Oakland starter Jim Hunter through five innings on a homer by Dave May and doubles by John Briggs and Ron Theobald. But the A's tied it off Brewer starter Marty Pattin in their fifth on singles by Sal Bando and Larry Brown and Gene Tenace's double.

Playoff Tickets On Sale

The San Francisco Giants will start the over-the-counter sale of tickets for the National League Championship Series tomorrow at some 80 box office locations throughout the Bay Area.

Should the Giants win the Western Division title, these games will be played at Candlestick Park on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 2 and 3, at 1 p.m. Ticket prices are $7.50 for box seats, $5.50 for reserved seats and $3.50 for general admission.

In addition to the Candlestick Park box office at Gate Z, which will have 10 windows open, all regular Giant ticket offices and all Ticketron box offices will have tickets available. In Marin County, Ticketron is located at the Emporium in Northgate Shopping Center.

The Candlestick Park windows will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day until the ticket supply is exhausted.

Plunkett, Manning Again Buck Odds In NFL Games

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Now that most everyone who cares has heard about it, no one is ready yet to believe it.

It is still only a few days since two rambunctious young rookies named Jim Plunkett and Archie Manning pulled the legs out from under the establishment, but the smart money says that the second time around they'll be the ones who lose their balance.

Making their National Football League debuts last week for the two weakest teams of 1970, Plunkett and Manning each engineered a remarkable upset as the New England Patriots stunned Oakland and the New Orleans Saints surprised Los Angeles.

Nevertheless, the oddsmakers have made the Patriots and Saints heavy underdogs in this Sunday's action although both are playing at home against teams that lost their opening games.

Plunkett, the Heisman Trophy winner from Stanford who threw for two touchdowns last week, carries the Patriot attack against Detroit and Manning, who lugged the ball over from the one-yard line on the final play of the game to provide the winning points in his professional bow, leads New Orleans against San Francisco. The Lions are favored by 10 1-2 points and the Forty Niners by 13.

Along with the fortunes of Manning and Plunkett, Sunday can be a pivotal day for their two victims of last week. Oakland, the consensus choice to repeat as Western Division champion in the American Conference, travels to San Diego desperate not to fall two games back in the race, and Los Angeles is in the same position in the Western Division of the National Conference when it hosts the Atlanta Falcons.

The Raiders are slim 2 1-2 point choices over the Chargers, who rallied from two touchdowns back to upset Kansas City last week and the Rams are identical 2 1-2 point favorites over the Falcons, who are fresh from an upset victory over San Francisco.

The Super Bowl champion Baltimore Colts, impressive in a 22-0 shutout of the New York Jets last week, are favored by five points at home against Cleveland, and in other Sunday games the Minnesota Vikings are picked by 13 points at home against Chicago, the Washington Redskins are three over the Giants at New York, the Cincinnati Bengals are picked by four points at Pittsburgh, the Dallas Cowboys are 13 over the Eagles at Philadelphia, Miami is favored by five points at Buffalo, Green Bay is picket by 2½ points at home over Denver and Kansas City is rated 6½ points better than the Oilers at Houston.

In Monday night's nationally televised game, the St. Louis Cardinals are favored by 6 1-2 points on their home field over the Jets. The game between New England and Detroit will be the first ever between the two clubs in regular season competition and the Lions will be growling to redeem themselves after blowing a 13-point lead to Minnesota in last Monday night's television game.

San Francisco also hopes to rebound from a stunner while the Saints can virtually make their season a success with a second straight upset over a West Coast Power. Manning completed 16 of 29 passes for 218 yards against Los Angeles, along with carrying the ball three times for 14 yards.

Forty Niner coach Dick Nolan said of Manning, "He likes to roll out and he has good speed and size. You just have to react when you see him coming."

Stanford, Oregon Open Pacific-8 Slate

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The remaining Pac-8 schools continue inter-conference play with four teams trying to improve the league's intersectional mark against Big Ten teams.

The Indians, with two impressive victories to their credit, will be out to prove that last year's Rose Bowl victory was no fluke against the Ducks, who fell to powerful Nebraska in their season opener but came back to take a 36-29 victory last week over Utah.

The contest will draw an interesting matchup between the Indians' tough defense, which has allowed only a field goal in two starts, and Oregon's potent offense, which is built around speedster Bobby Moore and quarterback Dan Fouts.

The Ducks were ranked No. 1 in the Pac-8 in rushing offense after the first two games while Stanford was rated with having the league's top defensive unit.

The Indians were picked 10-point favorites in the contest, but injuries may hurt Stanford coach John Ralston, who will be without three starters and his regular punter.

Elsewhere, UCLA, which lost to a strong Texas team last week, meets another tough foe when it travels to Ann Arbor Saturday to battle Michigan. The Wolverines are favored to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl this season, and the Bruins, winless in two starts, are a 14-point underdog.

But USC is favored by three points to beat another Big Ten foe, Illinois, in the Los Angeles Coliseum Saturday night. The Trojans, upset by Alabama in their opener, rebounded to defeat Rice last week. USC and the Illini have met six times in the past, with the Trojans winning five games.

Both Oregon State and Washington State are underdogs in their games Saturday with big ten opponents. Oregon State (1-1) travels to Michigan State which is favored by six points, and the Cougars (0-2) face a 14-point underdog role in their game at Minnesota.

Washington (2-0), the Pac-8's only other unbeaten team along with Stanford, will make its third straight home stand Saturday against TOU of the southwest conference while California, which lost an opener to Arkansas but came back last week to upset West Virginia, entertains San Francisco bay area rival San Jose State of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

The Washington-TCU game culd be a battle of quarterbacks — the Huskies' Sonny Sixkiller and the Horned Frogs' Steve Judy. Sixkiller leads the nation in total offense 568 yards with an average of 258 per game. Judy is closing in on the school career marks of "Slingin" Sammy Baugh at TCU.

In other Pacific Coast Athletic Association games Saturday, Fresno State will play at Montana State, University of Pacific and California State — Long Beach will meet in a league game at Long Beach, San Diego State travels to Jackson to play Southern Mississippi and Idaho State hosts California State-Los Angeles.

Hart, Hardman Key To Success

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI)—San Francisco coach Dick Nolan admits New Orleans rookie quarterback Archie Manning may present a problem when the 49ers meet the Saints Sunday, but he thinks he has a dual solution.

Nolan said Thursday as the 49ers prepared for the Saints game that defensive ends Tommy Hart and Cedrick Hardman form the fastest defensive end combination in the league.

Nolan was asked if he could think of a better pair of ends.

"No, I can't think of any," he said, "certainly not offhand."

Hardman, a two-year man, and Hart, a four-year veteran, will have the job of containing Manning, a drop-back quarterback who often moves out of the pocket to run. The former Mississippi star proved that last week when he scored on a one-yard run on the last play of the game to defeat Los Angeles, 24-20.

The 49ers taxi squad quarterback, Joe Reed, who played at Mississippi State while Manning was setting records at Ole Miss, played the role of Manning Tursday in San Francisco's defensive drills.

No Lineup Changes Planned By Madden

OAKLAND (UPI) —Oakland coach John Madden says he plans no changes in the starting lineups from last week's game when the Raiders test a revitalized San Diego Chargers team Sunday.

Madden said Thursday he will again start running backs Pete Banaszak and Marv Hubbard, but will also use Don Highsmith and rookie Clarence Davis, who carried just once for 39 yards last week against the New England Patriots.

Madden said he may use any two of the four in combination.

"What we do depends on a lot of factors you can't foresee now," he said. "The score, the weather, the field—all figure in."

Madden also has some flexibility at wide receiver where Fred Biletnikoff and Rod Sherman are starting with Eldridge Dickey and Drew Buie as backup.

One player will be added to the Raiders active roster this week to replace Carl Weathers, who was cut earlier in the week. It is expected to be rookie linebacker Greg Slough of USC. Slough was hurt in the last pre-season game, but is ready to play now.

Impressive Style In Easy Victory

SAN MATEO, Calif. (UPI)—Impressive Style galloped to an easy six and a half length victory Thursday in the featured $7,000 Ladies Day purse at Bay Meadows.

Kodes Upset In Pacific Tennis Play

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—With second-seeded Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia ousted, the $75,000 Pacific Southwest Open tennis tournament moves into the quarterfinals today with favored Stan Smith meeting his old doubles partner, Bob Lutz.

Smith got by tough Ismael El Shafei of Egypt Thursday night 6-4, 7-6 while in an afternoon match, Lutz defeated John Cooper of Cleveland 6-4, 6-4.

Kodes, who has been making a big splash in recent tournaments, fell before unseeded Roscoe Tanner, a Stanford student from Lookout Mountain, Tenn., 6-4, 6-4.

Another upset was registered by Jim Connors, UCLA's national collegiate champion who ousted fourth-seeded Clark Graebner, the New York veteran, 6-4, 6-3.

In a quarterfinals match today, Tanner faces Pancho Gonzalez, the aging crowd favorite, who beat Jeff Borowiak, Los Angeles 6-2, 6-4.

Richey beat Jaime Fillol, Chile, 6-4, 6-1, Thursday afternoon, and Alexander beat England's Roger Taylor 7-5, 7-5.

Rossovich Is Back

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Eagles have reactivated middle linebacker Tim Rossovich for Sunday's game against the Dallas Cowboys and placed strong safety Steve Preece on the injured waiver list.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Finally: Success In The Astrodome

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Houston Astrodome, a sort of hell for the San Francisco Giants the past couple of years, became a bit heavenly Thursday night.

The Giants, who had won only six of their last 27 games in the dome, made it two in a row Thursday night and all but ended the Los Angeles Dodgers' title hopes in the National League West. Gaylord Perry pitched a three-hitter and Willie McCovey drove in both runs as the Giants edged the Astros 2-1.

"We're in a real good position now," said Giants' manager Charlie Fox. "I'm happy to get two of three in the dome and two of three the rest of the way will clinch it for us."

Fox's kindest words were saved for McCovey, who hit his 18th homer with the bases empty in the fourth and forced in another run when he was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded in the fifth. McCovey also slid into first base to record a close out for the second straight night, disregarding his injured knee. He put out Cesar Cedeno for the last out of the game.

Perry called the victory, "a big boost for us, especially coming here. It's been years since I won here."

Elsewhere in the major leagues, Pittsburgh blanked St. Louis, 5-0, Philadelphia beat Montreal 6-4, the New York Mets edged the Chicago Cubs 5-4, the Chicago White Sox shut out California 5-0 and Oakland nipped Milwaukee 5-4.

Willie Stargell had a two-run homer — his 46th — and Nelson Briles pitched a six-hitter as the Pirates beat St. Louis and Greg Luzinski's two-run single capped a four-run ninth that carried the Phillies past Montreal.

Bob Aspromonte's two-out, two-run single in the eighth boosted the Mets over the Cubs and gave Nolan Ryan his first victory in seven weeks.

Rookie Lee Richard had a three-run homer and Carlos May added one with the bases empty as the White Sox dumped California and provided Wilbur Wood with his 21st victory. Wood allowed only five hits as he pitched his sixth straight complete game and 21st of the season.

Washington Offer: Padres Will Listen

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The San Diego Padres reportedly are "ready to listen" to Washington interests who want the National League franchise to replace the American League Senators.

The American League owners voted 10-2 Tuesday to approve a relocation of the Senators in Arlington, Tex., a Dallas suburb, effective Oct. 1.

Thomas H. Kuchel, former U.S. Senator from California, is representing the unnamed Washington interests, according to a report in today's Washington Post.

The Post said San Diego President E.J. "Buzzy" Bavasi said the club had turned down proposals to move to Dallas and Toronto last year to give San Diego one more chance.

The last place Padres, an expansion club formed three years ago, are owned by C. Arnholt Smith, a tuna fisheries tycoon, who has refused to consider moving the franchise.

Attendance at Padres' games has been low, however, expected to hit only 550,000 this season.

The Senators, who were an original franchise in the American League 71 years ago, have averaged about 850,000 in recent years despite consistent low finishes. The Senators have finished in the second division 50 times and have had only one winning record in 18 years.

Washington attendance was at 434,000 with the current season less than half over, but it failed miserably when it became apparent in July that Short was planning to move the club for a $1 million radio-tv contract and a rent-free stadium.

FISH AND GAME

Good Buck Harvest For The Opening

By AL GIDDINGS

A SLIGHTLY better buck harvest than last year's is forecast for the late deer season opening tomorrow, says the Department of Fish and Game.

Field reports from DFG wildlife managers indicate deer are in good condition but scattered and at higher elevations in the most popular hunting areas.

The most successful hunt periods will occur during the opening weekend when pressure will keep the deer moving, and again when the first storms of winter trigger the annual migration of deer from higher elevations. Weather conditions will govern the hunter's chances to see deer in daylight hours, with cooler temperatures being in the hunter's favor.

UNLESS THE WEATHER changes, the fire danger will be high in all areas. Hunters should check at local forest district offices regarding campfire regulations before selecting campsites.

The DFG reminds hunters again this year that all bucks taken in a one-deer district must be tagged with both the "A" and "B" tags, and the "B" tag mail-in portion only is sent in to the DFG.

CALIFORNIA'S 1971-72 waterfowl regulations were to be shipped to all hunting license agents throughout the state during this month for free distribution to hunting license buyers.

The license agents include most sporting goods stores. Regulations also will be available from offices of the DFG.

Available with the regulations will be application forms for reservations on hunting areas and sheets detailing seasons, bag and possession limits and shooting hours for waterfowl.

APPLICATION blanks for the special Rocky Mountain elk hunt, which is scheduled for Nov. 13-Dec. 5 in the rugged Squaw Creek area of Shasta and Siskiyou counties north and east of Shasta Lake, are now available from license agents and Department of Fish and Game offices.

Two hundred permits for animals of either sex will be awarded on the basis of a statewide public drawing to be held Oct. 7.

Applications for permits must reach DFG headquarters in Sacramento by 5 p.m. Oct. 5. Successful applicants will be notified by mail to send $25 for their elk permits.

Last year 21 elk were taken in the steep, brushy country by a total of 100 hunters. The present herd of some 1,000 animals is descended from a band of elk transplanted from Yellowstone Park in 1916.

A RELEASE FROM the Department of Fish and Game, written by Hilton Bergstrom, hunter safety training officer to all hunter-safety instructors, may answer some questions. The newsletter reads:

"WE HAVE now completed three months of hunter safety training under the new law without any major problems. One misunderstanding among a few instructors concerns the hunter safety validation stamp. Also some confusion exists concerning the special adult examination.

"The hunter safety validation stamp is distributed by our Department to license agents. They must be purchased from the agents by license applicants who use a hunter safety certificate of competence when obtaining their first hunting license.

"The special adult examination is used to qualify persons on active military duty for a hunter safety certificate of competence. The examination may not be given to veterans or persons on inactive status, such as military reservists or National Guardsmen. Those persons over the age of 21, provided they have at least three years of experience as an instructor in the use or safe handling of firearms may also qualify for a hunter safety certificate of competence by successfully completing the special adult examination."

ONE HUNTER Safety Instructor, Tom Lewis of Westminster, has informed the Fish and Game Department that some land in the Blythe area is being closed to hunters mainly because they are not picking up their empty shotgun shells. The shells are picked up by the alfalfa harvesting equipment and when the alfalfa is ground for feed, the shells are also ground. The shell particles become lodged in the intestines of the animals being fed with the ground alfalfa causing some deaths to the livestock.

Boat Safety Course Offered

An eight-week course in basic seamanship will be given by Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 14 of San Rafael starting Monday in room LA 103 at San Rafael High School, 7:30 p.m.

The session was originally scheduled to start Sept. 13, but had to be postponed because of room conflicts.

The two-hour long courses, free of charge, will cover topics such as maneuvering, marlin spike, aids to navigation, rules of road, charts and compass, legal requirements, and safe boat operation.

Cycles, Cars In Oakland Show

More than 200 hand-crafted vehicles will be displayed at the California Custom Motorcycle and Car Show opening tonight at 6 o'clock for a three-day run in the Oakland Coliseum.

Show doors will be open from 6 to 10 p.m. tonight and from 1-10 p.m. tomorrow and Sunday in the Coliseum Exhibit Hall.

Among the featured entries are a $11,000 "bubble-topped" three-wheeled motorcycle and the $20,000 "funny car" of San Rafael's Ken Silvestri. San Bruno's Luciano Sarra will show his gold-plated Jaguar.

Seals Defeated For 5th Time

SUDBURY, Ont. (UPI)—The California Golden Seals are having their troubles in the National Hockey League preseason games.

The Seals fell 4-1 Thursday night to the St. Louis Blues for their fifth loss without a win in the exhibition season. California scored first in the opening period on a goal by Gary Croteau, but the Blues got goals in all three periods.

The Seals play another preseason game Saturday night against the Buffalo Sabres at St. Catharines, Ont.

Plenty Of Quail For Opener

Hunters invading the northwestern part of the state for the opening of quail season tomorrow will find large numbers of young birds, the Department of Fish and Game reminded shotgunners today.

This year valley quail will be available in the area a month before the statewide opening Oct. 30. Field reports indicate that because of weather conditions the hatch of most upland game species was delayed from two to three weeks.

Valley, mountain and desert quail all will be legal game in these areas until Jan. 2, 1972. Open counties are Marin, Sonoma, Mendocino, Lake, Humboldt and Del Norte.

Also opening Saturday is the special mountain quail season. Hunters are cautioned to consult the regulations booklet for open areas. Good production has been noted in several areas, notably between 5,000 and 7,000 feet in the Sierra.

On another front, prospects are rated good — on a par with those for last — for the tree squirrel season, also opening tomorrow. The season ends Jan. 30, 1972, except in Butte County where it will close Nov. 28. Bag and possession limits are four per day, four in possession.

KNUD WIBROE

Champ Of The Knarrs

By RALPH CHATOIAN

There is boat racing and there is boat racing, but for Knud Wibroe of Sausalito, newly crowned yachting champ, Knarr class racing's the thing.

Wibroe, a blonde-headed Dane, won the International Knarr championship earlier this month in a series of races on San Francisco Bay. The 44-year-old skipper wrested the title from Niels Johansen of Denmark, winner of last year's international test held in his own country. Johansen was fifth this time.

In the Knarr series, skippers can't use their own boats, but draw boats by lot, a different one each of the six days of competition. It is truly a test of skipper talent, not quality of boat.

"That's the unique aspect of Knarr racing," said Wibroe, "It really tests the man, not the boat, not the machinery."

Wibroe and Richard Griffith, members of the San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere, are the persons largely responsible for making the Knarr test into an international event. It was on a trip to Europe in 1966 when the pair discussed the possibility of an international regatta with the Danes and Norwegians.

"They were really surprised when we told them we had about 30 Knarrs in our San Francisco Bay fleet," said Wibroe.

First of the series was held in 1969, San Francisco Yacht Club hosting it as part of the club's centennial celebration. Dr. Robert M. York of Belvedere, who died in a skiing accident early this year, won that first international test, with Wibroe finishing second. Last year's races were held in Denmark. Johansen winning. Griffith finished third in that one, Wibroe ninth.

KNUD WIBROE
Consistent

Crewing for Wibroe this year were his daughter, Susanne 15, and Hal McCormick of Sausalito.

Wibroe and his wife, Kirsten, also have another daughter, Claire, 11. "Now I'm waiting for Claire to get a little older so I'll able to have them both crew for me," Knud said with a smile.

Wibroe is very proud of the Bay Knarr fleet. "It's probably the most active racing class on the bay," he said. "There's really a great group of people and the international racing of the Knarr has created tremendous interest."

Although he'll be the defending champion when the fourth annual regatta is held next year in Bergen, Norway, he won't get an automatic spot in the 20-boat field. He'll still have to qualify as one of five U.S. representatives. According to Knarr International rules, host club gets 10 places while the other two visiting countries, U.S. and Denmark in this case, get five each.

A native of Denmark, Wibroe came to the United States in 1954. He is president of Vacu-Lift Co., engineers and manufacturers of pneumatic conveying systems, office in San Francisco and plant in Petaluma.

A big year for Wibroe, who has been racing boats since a youngster, was 1966, when he won first place in Knarr racing at the Royal Danish Yacht Club Centenary Regatta at Copenhagen. He ran away with the regatta, with two firsts, one second, a third and a fourth.

His victory earlier this month on San Francisco Bay was by a much narrower margin, just 1.7 points, his 40 points edging Al Blair of Sausalito who was second at 41.7 and Niels Grauballe of Denmark, third at 43.7.

In the International Knarr test this month, points were obtained from the five best finishes of the six races of each contestant. Wibroe won once, had a second, a fifth, seventh and eighth. And that is called consistency.

Hunter Tries A $100 Blast With Shotgun

KERRVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—Creed Blevins rolled up a $100 bill several months ago and stuck it in the barrel of his 12-gauge shotgun for safekeeping until Christmas.

When the dove season opened Sept. 1, Blevins forgot all about the big bill. He took the shotgun out and went dove shooting.

His thoughts returned to his $100 several weeks after the hunt. At first, Blevins' mind would not accept the fate of his money.

"I had to think for a minute whether I really did it," he said. "I decided I wasn't going to tell my wife."

In desperation, he returned to the scene of the hunt and after a lot of searching, started finding fragments of his $100 bill. He found 11 pieces before giving up.

He said Thursday he had taped the pieces together and that a bank had given him a new $100 bill. He also said he told his wife about it.

THE SENATORS

What Do Texans Really Have?

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Far be it from me to toss a solemn note into the celebration or break up all that dancing in the streets of Texas, but now that the people there have the Washington Senators, have they stopped a minute and asked themselves what they've really got?

The answer is not much. Not very much at all.

They've got the Washington Senators, that's what they've got, and there'll be some nights next summer when those who come out to watch their new club in Arlington, Tex., will pine for their old one, the Dallas-Fort Worth Spurs.

For 13 years now he has battled, campaigned and cajoled, hoping to get a major league club, any club, for his area and after the Senators' moved was made official good old Tommy Vandergriff exclaimed:

That sounds exactly like the late Branch Rickey. He'd invariably say something like that when he didn't have much to work with. The Washington Senators or Dallas-Fort Worth Shorthorns don't have a lot to work with.

Ted Williams knows them better than anyone else. He has worked hard with them. He never actually became completely discouraged but there were many times particularly last season and this one when he'd sit there on the bench, see things go wrong, little simple things, and his stomach would turn into knots. Ask his players, they'll tell you. Better yet, ask Ted Williams. He's always bone honest. He'll tell you himself. He'll tell you he never had to chew those aids for a nervous stomach when he played for Boston. He chews them now managing Washington.

When you talk about the Senators' future the first one you mention is Pete Broberg, the rookie right-handed pitcher. He's good and he's going to get better. Maybe he'll be the best in the league one day.

Pete Broberg came to the Senators straight off the Dartmouth campus and when and if he makes it big there could be others to help him, others like Mike Thompson, Larry Biitner, Jeff Burroughs, Bill Fahey and Joe Lovitto with whose names you might not be so familiar.

If you went out and asked the man in the street right now to name you one player with the Washington Senators, he might scratch his head awhile and finally come up with Frank Howard. Most people have forgotten Denny McLain still is with the club. A 10-21 record isn't that hard to forget.

Frank Howard is 35, isn't looking for any new worlds to conquer and says he's sentimentally attached to Washington anyway. So he isn't in the Senators' long range plans.

What it boils down to is that the people of Dallas-Fort Worth aren't getting a much better ball club than the people in Baltimore did when the St. Louis Browns shifted their franchise there in 1954, than the fans in Kansas City did when the A's were transferred from Philadelphia a year later, or than those in Milwaukee did when Seattle moved there last year.

One of the misconceptions arising out of this move by the Senators is that owner Bob Short made money out of it. Not so. Not yet, anyway. All the Texas banks promised was to pay off his loans and then he has to pay the banks back presumably from the TV-radio revenue he'll receive.

That still doesn't do anything for the people of Washington, however. What the major league owners should seriously consider now is having a couple of clubs play some of their games at Kennedy Stadium.

In any event, the eyes of Texas now are on its new ball club and Bob Short. Stories are circulating that he'll sell the club as soon as he gets it to Texas. He can't. Too many financial conditions are involved.

Maybe in two or three years though he might sell to someone like Lamar Hunt. Then maybe Paul Richards could meander over from Waxahachie to run the club too, and that would become what you call a real Texas operation, eh pardner?

TWO IMPORTS FOR 1972

Fantastic gas mileage is claimed for the Subaru 1300B (above) while Buick's Opel 1900 features a host of improvements over last year's models. The Subaru, a Japanese car, is said by its manufacturer to get about 33 miles per gallon. Available in two- and four-door models, the 1300B features a top speed of 100 miles per hour. Cars are at Marin Bay Lincoln Mercury, San Rafael, and Auto Fair, Novato. The Opel line for 1972 features nine models and an optional sun roof. Equipment includes a 1.9-liter cam-in-head engine, new starter, ventless side glass and power brakes with front discs. Cars are on display at Don Collins Buick, San Rafael.

Nixon Remarks Send Wall Street Higher

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock prices responded vigorously today to President Nixon's declaration that the "entire economy" will be included in the next phase of his program to get on an even keel.

With 1,451 issues on the tape, there were 818 advances, 323 declines. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained 0.53 to 98.91.

The response on the American Stock Exchange was equally vigorous, with 466 advances and 201 declines among the 902 issues traded. Topping the active list was Baker Industries, rising 1-8 to 18 on 20,900 shares. Next was McCulloch Oil, up 5-8 to 28 5-8 on 19,500 shares.

Big Board volume after almost two hours was a moderate 5.9 million shares.

The best response to the President's remarks seemed to come from the electronics and glamors, with several issues up a point or more. IBM rose 2 12, Burroughs 1 1-4, Texas Instruments 1, Polaroid 1 5-8 and Xerox 1 1-8. Among those with fractional gains were Honeywell, Motorola, Collins Radio and Memorex.

Autos were firm. The industry's sales for the mid-September period rose from the year-ago figure. General Motors picked up 1-4, Ford and Chrysler 5-8 apiece.

Dupont and Dow were gainers of more than a point in the chemicals. Some bargain hunting appeared in the airlines, with most issues on the plus side. Steels were firm.

Group Of Banks To Participate In New Securities Depository

A new securities depository operated by the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange Clearing Corp. and supported by the Pacific Coast Service Corp. (both Pacific Coast Stock Exchange subsidiaries), which will potentially immobilize billions of dollars in securities, was announced yesterday by exchange president Thomas P. Phelan.

The Pacific Coast depository is the first to fulfill regulatory requirements concerning physical segregation of customer-owned and hypothecated securities used as collateral. It offers immediate reclassification of positions through computerized bookkeeping entries, with fast, more accurate daily settlement of accounts, combined with reduction of interest payments and transfer fees.

Bank of America, Crocker Bank, Security Pacific National Bank, United California Bank and Wells Fargo Bank are now participants in the depository.

PORTSMOUTH SQUARE, INC. directors have elected Gennaro A. Filice Jr. chairman of the board and T. A. de Lusignan president of Portsmouth Equity Corp. Vacancies were created by the resignation of Palmer York Jr. from those offices. Filice is vice president, U.S. marketing, for the Del Monte Corp. and has been a director of Portsmouth Square since May. De Lusignan has been president and chief executive officer of Portsmouth Square, Inc. since last December. The company showed a net loss of $750,442 for the nine months ended March 31. It is a diversified holding company which owns a 67 per cent equity in the 572-room Holiday Inns Chinatown-Financial Center hotel. Subsidiaries include York Securities Corp. and Robo Bay Cities, Inc. Its subsidiary Portsmouth Square Equity Corp. is a retailer of mutual funds and life insurance with 12 offices in Northern California.

JANTZEN, INC., Portland, preliminary figures for the fiscal year ended Aug. 28 show sales of approximately $75.5 million, up about 7 per cent over the prior year. Estimated profit after taxes is $2.25 million, also up 7 per cent. Per share earnings of $1.42 per share would be up 12 per cent. Directors recently declared the regular quarterly dividend of 15 cents.

BOOTH NEWSPAPERS, INC., Ann Arbor, Mich., has made a public offering of 570,800 shares of its common stock and is being underwritten by Goldman, Sachs and Co. The stock is held by several Booth family members and the Cranbrook Foundation of Bloomfield Hills, Mich.

BEATRICE FOOD CO. sales, net earnings and earnings per common share reached all-time highs for both the second quarter and the first half of the current fiscal year ended Aug. 31. Net earnings increased 13 per cent to $18.4 million for the second quarter. Sales were up 13 per cent to $513.7 million, and sales for the first six months passed the billion dollar mark for the first time.

POPE AND TALBOT DEVELOPMENT, INC., previously based in Seattle, has moved south to corporate headquarters in Portland. It has been active in land development throughout the Puget Sound area for the past 60 years.

Engine Production Switched To U.S.

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co., in transferring the manufacture of the four-cylinder Pinto engine from Europe to the United States, will spend millions to expand its Cleveland foundary.

Lee A. Iacocca, Ford president, said Tuesday the expansion will begin by the end of the year and will be completed by the end of 1972. Its precise cost was not announced.

Situations Needed For Land Sale

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Leaders of the National Real Estate Exchange have found that the old idea of simply matching a buyer and seller and you've got a sale just "ain't necessarily so."

As one of the largest handlers of real estate in the nation, the San Francisco-based exchange has to be an authority on what makes a sale. The exchange finds that a valid match of buyer and seller of real property is best accomplished when four situations are completely covered.

The first requisite is that complete information about the property be available.

Second, there must be a clear understanding of the motivation and need of the seller.

The third point is complete knowledge and demand of the buyer.

And finally, full disclosure of the buyer's ability to perform must take place early in the discussion.

Wheat Aid

BRUSSELS (UPI)—The European Common Market earmarked 1 million tons of wheat as food aid for free distribution in poor nations of Africa, Latin America, Asia and the Middle East during 1971.

Maier Named To Kaiser Post

OAKLAND (BW) — Executive Vice President Cornell C. Maier has been appointed general manager of Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp.

As executive vice president and general manager, Maier will assume responsibility for the day-to-day operations of Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp.'s diversified and multinational acitivites.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

What Freeze Does To Stock Dividends

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold two stocks which normally pay extra dividends in the final quarter. How will the freeze affect this — G.B.

A. Although corporate dividends were not specifically included in the freeze, President Nixon did request that companies hold the line on payouts. Prior to the freeze, 6 per cent more companies had raised, resumed or paid extra dividends than in the comparable period of 1970. Since Aug. 15, only a handful of companies have taken dividend action which could be construed as being in violation of the spirit of the freeze.

Additional dividend guidance was issued by the Cost of Living Council on Sept. 14. "A company that has, as an established practice, either declared extra dividends at a particular time of year, or followed a pattern of variation in dividends throughout the year, may increase its dividends according to its past practice." The payout, however, must not exceed that declared in the previous year.

Q. My husband and I, now in our 30s, are in a position to invest for our future. A bank stock and utility have been suggested. What would you recommend? — L.P.

A. The two groups suggested, in my opinion, do not offer the kind of growth which you should be seeking. Schlitz Brewing (NYSE) has an exceptional growth record in an expanding industry and would be my choice. Last year, Schlitz produced one out of every eight barrels of beer consumed or 13 per cent of the domestic market. Shipments for 1971 are expected to exceed 16 barrels, 7 per cent more than in 1970. With the completion, later this year, of its ninth brewery, capacity will surpass the 20-million barrel mark.

Engine Production Switched To U.S.

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co., in transferring the manufacture of the four-cylinder Pinto engine from Europe to the United States, will spend millions to expand its Cleveland foundary.

Lee A. Iacocca, Ford president, said Tuesday the expansion will begin by the end of the year and will be completed by the end of 1972. Its precise cost was not announced.

Accused Slayer Watson Said Feigning Insanity

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A psychiatrist who treated Charles "Tex" Watson after he was declared insane and committed to a state mental hospital testified Thursday that the accused Tate-LaBianca slayer was "malingering, playing the perfect fool."

Dr. Alfred Owre, assistant superintendent of Atascadero State Hospital, was called by the prosecution as a rebuttal witness to defense psychiatrists who said Watson was suffering from a psychosis.

Watson was sent to Atascadero after he was extradited to California from McKinney, Texas, where he was arrested. One psychiatrist testified then that he was a "vegetable."

But Owre said Watson was suffering only from depression, not any mental illness. Watson spent 111 days at the hospital and then was pronounced competent to stand trial.

Owre said he brought Watson out of the depression by making him angry to the point where he shouted, "I could kill you ... I could kill now."

From then on, the psychiatrist testified, Watson was a "model patient."

Owre said staff members who observed Watson without him knowing it noted that he closed his usually open mouth and conversed normally with other patients.

Owre said he believed Watson was malingering even during the trial, basing his opinion on a brief conversation with the defendant.

Watson was brought to California after the first Tate trial was underway. After Charles Manson and three others were sentenced to death for the seven killings, Watson was brought to trial. He has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

Agnew Says New Soviet Jet Superior

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, advising that the United States is "drifting" toward less military strength, said Thursday night the Soviet Union is already using in Egypt a jet fighter better than any U.S. aircraft.

Agnew's statement on the MIG23 Foxbat was the first U.S. acknowledgement that the plane was being used against Israel.

It dovetailed with a speech earlier Thursday by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., that as many as 100,000 Soviet-backed troops were massing on Egyptian borders of Israeli-occupied territory.

"Their newest fighter, the Foxbat, is now operational in Egypt and cannot be matched in performance by anything we have in operation," Agnew said at a meeting of the National Security Industrial Association.

The MIG23, generally armed with missiles designed to bring down other aircraft, can fly higher and faster than the U.S. Phantom, which has a speed of 2-4 times faster than sound, or 1,500 miles per hour.

"To say that we are drifting toward imminent peril, to say that our national survival is at stake is no exaggeration," Agnew said. "In this nuclear age, there will be no lead time for leisurely rearmament."

Jackson, in a floor speech, was critical of the administration for following a "naive indecisive" policy in meeting the threat of a possible Egyptian assault across the Suez canal.

Former Bruce Wife In Suit

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Honey Harlow, former wife of the late comedian Lenny Bruce, sued a writer Thursday for $850,000, contending he tricked her into signing a contract while she was a heroin addict.

Miss Harlow said she signed a release for use of her name and facts of her life with Bruce for an initial $200, which she used to buy heroin. Her total payment came to $1,200.

The suit said writer Lawrence Schiller used a tape of a conversation with her to produce the record album "Why Did Lenny Bruce Die?" The record was made in 1966, the suit said, while Miss Harlow was still suffering from the shock of Bruce's death and was on heroin. The couple, divorced at the time, had been married for seven years.

Ribicoff Is Baffled By Drug Story

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., said today the administration has given both a yes and a no answer when asked whether it can identify Southeast Asian officials who are engaged in the international traffic in drugs.

On July 7, Ribicoff said in a Senate speech, Attorney General John N. Mitchell testified that "the fact of the matter is that there has been involvement by government officials in some of these countries" and that the U.S. government had "identified some of them."

But when Ribicoff's Senate subcommittee on executive reorganization asked Mitchell to return for a closed-door session where he would be asked to name those officials, the Justice Department changed its story.

"We do not have any specific evidence which links any high official in the Southeast Asian countries with the narcotic traffic there," Richard G. Kleindienst, deputy attorney general, wrote Ribicoff.

Since then, Ribicoff said, the Justice and Defense Departments and the Central Intelligence Agency have turned down invitations to testify in a closed session of his subcommittee.

A Pentagon official wrote: "This is to advise you that there are no personnel in the Department of Defense qualified to testify in regard to the problem of international drug traffic and we will, therefore, be unable to provide a witness as you have requested."

Ribicoff wants the information because his subcommittee is considering a bill to create a permanent White House office of drug control.

Ribicoff wants the new agency to have jurisdiction over law enforcement policy and issues involving international traffic in drugs. The administration wants those functions assigned to the Justice and Defense Departments.

Portland Recruiting Building Is Bombed

There were no injuries and police said the blast did not cause extensive damage. There was no fire.

Hurricane Ginger Charts New Course

MIAMI (UPI)—Meandering Hurricane Ginger, a massive storm the size of Florida, returned to its birthplace today and aimed its 75-mile an hour winds westward toward the southeastern United States.

Since bloosoming in the Atlantic about 250 miles north of the Bahamas islands September 9th, Ginger has cut a huge figure eight in the central Atlantic Ocean. It reached the point where it started after buffeting the British resort island of Bermuda Thursday with near-hurricane winds.

"Ginger is a large, but not terribly powerful storm," hurricane forecaster Gil Clark said. "Her gale winds cover a 75,000 square mile area, which is about the state of Florida."

After buffeting Bermuda Thursday, Ginger began absorbing most of the circulation of smaller tropical storm, Janice, some 1,500 miles to the south. Then Ginger took off westsouthwestward toward the U.S. mainland.

Already Ginger is rolling huge ocean swells toward the southeast coast in an area from West Palm Beach, Fla., northward to Cape Hatteras, N.C. Small craft warnings were hoisted at dawn along most of this coastal area. Clark said Ginger was kicking up 12 foot seas in the open Atlantic.

At mid-morning, Ginger was centered about 575 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras and was moving toward the westsouthwest at 12 m.p.h. —a track it was expected to maintain for the next 24 hours..

"This means the storm is at least two days away from the mainland if it continues on its present course," Clark said. "Ginger may get somewhat stronger as it moves into warmer waters, but we don't expect any rapid intensification because the storm is so large."

Janice, meanwhile, had been downgraded to a tropical depression. After most of its circulation was absorbed by Ginger, Clark said Janice "has little hope for developing."

At last reports, Janice was about 500 miles east of San Juan, P.R., and was moving toward the northwest at 15 m.p.h. The highest sustained winds were only 35 m.p.h., and forecasters said the depression was expected to move about 150 miles northeast of the Leeward Islands later today.

Thieves Steal Star's Jewelry

WINKFIELD, England (UPI)—Thieves broke into actress Shirley MacLaine's home while she was away filming and stole $24,700 worth of jewelry, police said.

The theft, discovered Thursday, was the second in a year at her home in this village 25 miles west of London, police said.

In September, 1970, thieves made off with $98,400 in jewels, including an $84,000 jade bracelet.

SALT Envoy Is Pleased With Talks

HELSINKI (UPI)—The United States and the Soviet Union today said they had found "certain areas of common ground" and achieved "a clearer understanding" of the problems of curbing nuclear weapons during the fifth round of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT), which ended today.

A joint communique said the next round of SALT will resume in Vienna Nov. 15.

The communique said U.S. Chief Negotiator Gerard C. Smith and his Soviet counterpart, Vladimir S. Semenov, "have engaged in detailed consideration" of a limitation of defensive nuclear systems (ABMS) and "have given consideration" to certain measures with respect to limitation of offensive weapons.

This was the outline agreed on by Washington and Moscow last May 20 in a joint U.S.Soviet announcement.

Observers said this may be a reference to a reported but unconfirmed agreement designed to prevent nuclear war by accident.

No observers had expected anything else. After 22 months of negotiations a comprehensive treaty, covering ABMS and some aspects of offensive weapons, is still in existence only on the drawing board, conference sources said.

Former Israeli Air Boss: Hit Missiles

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Ezer Weizman, the former Israeli air force chief who masterminded the Israeli air victory in the 1967 war, said today Israel should "remove the threat" of the Soviet missiles Egypt has massed along the Suez Canal.

"I think we should remove the threat of the missiles from our forces in the Sinai," he said in an interview with the newspaper Haaretz. "We must enable the air force to fly and protect our forces on the canal. The meaning of all this is that the war of missiles must be eliminated."

Weizman was commenting on last Friday's incident in which Egyptians firing Soviet-made SAM missiles shot down an unarmed Israeli air force transport plane, killing seven men. Egypt has missiles along the entire length of the 102-mile waterway and in recent weeks Israel has reported missile sites less than two miles from the canal.

Weizman, considered a "hawk," resigned from the army high command last year to enter politics. He became a cabinet minister for the right-wing Gahal bloc but quit the government to protest Israel's decision to return last summer to peace talks being conducted by U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring.

He said there was no reason why the Israeli air force could not take out the missile sites.

"Professionally this can be done," he said. "There is nothing our air force cannot do. All the talk that we lack special types of missiles or other weapons is mere talk."

There also was warlike talk in Cairo. Egyptian War Minister Mohammed Ahmed Sadek told a meeting of Egyptian air force generals that Egypt's armed forces are capable of repelling any military adventures the Israelis might undertake.

UPI diplomatic correspondent K.C. Thaler reported in London that British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home would take advantage of his presence at the United Nations to try to persuade Israel, Egypt and Jarring to resume peace talks.

A New Yet Old Idea For Courthouse Square

How about a plaza (the Spanish term) or a common (the New England term) in the heart of downtown San Rafael?

That could be the result of city purchase of Courthouse Square, as proposed by Mayor C. Paul Bettini.

The mayor's proposal, now under discussion at staff level between city and county, is the first new look at the knotty problem of "what to do about Courthouse Square?"

IT IS NOT REALLY a new look. It is a return to an old idea — the idea that a city's heart should be an open square. This is to be found in California cities that still follow the original Spanish plans, such as Sonoma and Napa. It is to be found in some Midwest cities and many cities in the East.

We doubt that any ciry that has such a midtown park would voluntarily surrender any of it to commercial development. Yet that is what all preceding plans have proposed to do with part of Courthouse Square.

We talk about preserving the environment. There were some who felt keenly that the old courthouse itself should be preserved as some sort of historical monument — a choice which was taken away when fire gutted the structure. But the principal esthetic value of the square lay, not in the old building, but in the square's openness.

That openness could be preserved and improved if the city were to buy the block and convert it to recreation-park use and — to a lesser extent — to parking.

What parking is needed could be provided by a lot in the interior of the square which could be screened by trees except for entrance and exit, and would not obtrude onto the park. If later it were found that more parking was necessary, this could be made a double-deck lot — or even triple-deck.

The annex building, which survived the fire, could continue in use for city recreation center — for which part of it is now rented from the county.

MERCHANTS WHO HAVE been crying about the blow to downtown from loss of the courthouse might find that a pleasant midtown square would prove their greatest business attraction.

We commend Mayor Bettini for looking farther ahead than have others with their plans for development of this last open block in the "old town" where San Rafael had its beginnings.

How to arrange the purchase from the county by the city presents some problems. But certainly they should not be insurmountable.

NEGOTIATORS ON BOTH sides would do well to bear this in mind: The courthouse square does not belong to the county government. If the city bought it, it would not belong to the city government.

It belongs to the people of Marin County. And the people of Marin County who paid for it in the first place were mostly in San Rafael. So the change of ownership from county to city would not really be a change in ownership — merely a change in title. The owners would remain the people.

We think the people are entitled to remain the oners. And we think the square should be put to the use of greatest benefit to the people — not of the greatest revenue to county or city.

Mayor Bettini's plan may be the best way to accomplish this.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Plenty Of Complications In Reapportionment Task

By MARY K. SHELL

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The political architects are bent over their drawing boards, and the plans they devise can have an effect on your economic and physical well-being for the next 10 years.

Their assignment? Reapportionment to bring legislative representation into line with the state's population, according to the 1970 census.

At first glance, it would appear to be a relatively simple task. The population, by official count, is approximately 19.9 million. Dividing this total into 40 equal parts for the state Senate puts 498,828 in each district, and a division into 80 equal parts puts 249,414 in each Assembly district.

WHY NOT START at the north end of the state and draw a line each time you reach the ideal district population?

There are several barriers to this approach, the first being the existing political sub-divisions, such as cities and counties, and next, the geography involved.

But probably the most significant barrier is the partisan political consideration. The name of this game is gerrymandering, a term first applied to a salamander-shaped district in Massachusetts drawn in 1812 when a man named Gerry was governor. Gerrymandering is the practice of drawing district lines to favor one political party over another.

The party in power at the time the lines are redrawn holds within its hands, to a great extent, the courst of California politics for the next decade.

THE DEMOCRATS recognized this political fact of life in 1951, and launched an offensive to capture enough seats to make them the architects of the 1961 reapportionment. The results were startling, particularly in the Democratic sweep of 1958.

The Republicans came back in the early 1960s with an equal determination, organizing their Cal-Plan attack, which centered concerted effort in selected target districts. Unfortunately for the GOP, however, they tasted victory too soon. In the elections of 1968 they captured control of both houses of the State Legislature, but by the time for reapportionment came along, that edge was back with the Democrats.

One important factor, however, has changed the complexion of reapportionment and that is the Supreme Court guidelines handed down in the mid-1960s. Under these "one man, one vote" dictates, gerrymandering can only go so far.

THE LEGISLATURE can draw the lines, but Governor Reagan holds the trump card. He can veto any plan he considers unfair. The Democrats need six Republicans in the Senate and 12 in the Assembly to override a gubernatorial veto, which seems unlikely. If this sort of impasse develops, the task, according to the state constitution, would go to a five-man commission, composed of the lieutenant governor, the attorney general, the controller, the secretary of state, and the superintendent of public instruction. The GOP would hold a 3-2 edge on such a commission.

In spite of the fact reapportionment is one of the major items to be decided this session, until a few days ago no plan had been introduced and secrecy surrounded plans under consideration. It's no wonder. Somebody's going to be hurt in reapportionment, and it could be a vote needed to get a bill through this session.

County Park Proposed On Fairfax Site

The Fairfax Marin Town and Country Club with its beautiful trees and swimming pools might soon be converted into a mass of concrete by profit-hungry developers. A county park in this area could preserve this historic site, and would best serve the needs of the Marin citizens. But Marin County, the richest county in California, does not seem to be rich enough to provide a public swimming pool or lake for its people. A society which wastes billions for the destruction of Indochina, but cannot afford swimming facilities at home, is utterly insane. The Fairfax citizens should rezone the Marin Town and Country Club as recreational area, and thus prevent the bulldozing of their only public swimming pool.

Suicide Prevention Not One-Man Show

I wish to commend your paper for the coverages you have given our organization during the past year and for the fine article published Sept. 21 regarding the operation of the center.

It should be clarified, however, that yours truly was not the sole primary motivator towards establishing the center. To start with, Marin Association for Mental Health, our parent organization, has given much of their time and efforts in assisting us in incorporating as a nonprofit organization and has continued throughout lending this support.

In addition, a nucleus of several people formed a steering committee some two and a half years ago with their attitudes directed towards saving lives through a suicide prevention center. I was merely one of these people.

Through the processes of incorporation, that group has now grown to some 150 people, all contributing in some way towards building a solid suicide prevention center. The Independent-Journal as well as other news media have also contributed to the success of the center and its future through constant cognizance of our existence and the on-going training program. It is gratifying to notice the increasing awareness of the general public of our growth and success and I firmly believe their awareness is attributable to publicity.

The grant given to us by the board of supervisors will only carry us through December 1971. Other applications for funding are now being prepared for 1972. In the interim, we encourage financial support from the populace either individually or collectively.

Pay For San Anselmo School Jobs Explained

In reply to Mrs. Sarah Nome's letter (Sept. 21) regarding two teacher assistant positions and a clerk position in the San Anselmo School District, several points need to be clarified:

1. The salary schedule for our district is based on a 12-month, 8-hour working day. The two educationally handicapped assistants therefore receive $2.95 per hour (5.% of $497) or 64 cents less than the $3.59 recommended by the educationally handicapped committee. Since the two people involved were already employed by the district as teacher aides, this was an upgrading due to increased responsbilities . . .

2. The clerk position at Red Hill School is based on the fact that Mrs. Spencer had previously substituted in the district (therefore given priority in hiring) and placed on step 3, range 4 of the salary schedule. Again based on a 6-hour day (6/8 of $497) the actual salary she will receive is $372.75 per month.

3. The San Anselmo chapter of the Classified School Employees Association takes pride in the fact that a great deal of reserach in job comparison within the county is done before negotiations . . .

I feel our members are doing an outstanding job in cutting expenses in our district in performance of duties which command much higher salaries in other districts.

AN EDUCATOR'S VIEW

Unification Panacea Proves Bad Medicine For Schools

By JOHN W. GILBAUGH
(Professor of Education, San Jose State College)

School unification propagandists have done irreparable harm to public education. Most of the benefits they claimed for bigness have been outweighed by a multiplicity of disadavantages. The bait used to lure support from parents for large unified school districts contains numerous, well-concealed hooks. One of these is the surrender of local school control for lower costs of improved education. In most instances the promises of reduced costs and better education are never fulfilled. The pattern has been one of soaring taxes and deterioration of education.

The high costs of maintaining administrative staffs in small school districts is generally cited as an unnecessary expenditure which unification eliminates. With unification or district consolidation, it is pointed out, a single staff can administer one large district more efficiently than several administrative staffs can manage several small districts.

WHAT BECOMES of the administrative staffs of small schools when their districts become part of a consolidated district? Most of them are absorbed and given new titles at higher salaries in the unified district. They become assistant superintendents, business managers, curriculum supervisors and counselors in the new administrative apparatus. And, whereas, most of them were available and responsive to their constituents before consolidation, they become the unresponsive unreachables in a bureaucracy remote from school patrons in the large unified district.

A new twist is developing on the large unified district scene. The large district unit has become a patsy for activist judges and a sect of social engineers who have presumed to know more than parents about the welfare of children.

So they have begun the erosion of the foundation on which the free enterprise system operates by busing children, whose parents worked a lifetime to get out of the slums, back to the slums. If foresight were as keen as hindsight, the battle for neighborhood schools would have been settled when proponents for school district unification first disseminated their propaganda decades ago.

SCHOOL DISTRICT unification has decimated the ranks of school board members. With thousands of viable, small districts consolidated into large districts, the opportunity for hundreds of parents to participate in a meaningful way in school affairs has disappeared. Of course, there remain the relatively impotent PTA and often "rigged" study groups appointed by the bureaucracy to parrot preconceived notions advocated by the appointive agency.

Recognizing the futility of improving public education through such activity, increasing numbers of parents seek to send their children to private and parochial schools which more nearly reflect their own values.

Thieu's Non-Contest Election Speeding Nixon's Troop Pull-Out

WASHINGTON — There is growing evidence that President Nixon is preparing to advance the date for ending completely the U.S. combat role in Vietnam.

There is good reason to expect that by early November the President will announce a new stepped-up pace of troop withdrawal.

Four powerful factors contribute to this prospect:

2 — The rapidly deteriorating discipline and morale of the American force remaining in Vietnam.

3 — The increased strength of the South Vietnamese army.

4 — The decline in the fighting.

Getting out is going to come faster than ever. There is no doubt that President Thieu's recent political actions are strengthening the arguments for increasing the speed of withdrawal.

Thieu cannot fail to be aware that his part in bringing about an election in which he would have no opponent alienates U.S. public opinion and reduces the range of flexibility open to Nixon.

This is a consequence Thieu could not fail to foresee and it wasn't long in coming in the sharp criticism by the Democratic Party's strongest supporter of the Vietnamese war, Sen. Henry Jackson D-Wash. President Thieu could hardly have received a more ominous warning than the statement that Senator Jackson "must now reserve his position regarding future U.S. military and economic aid to the South Vietnamese government."

THE FACT THAT THIEU persists in holding an uncontested election in which there is not even a provision on the ballot to vote against the one-candidate ticket certainly justifies American officials in concluding:

That President Thieu, aware that his actions would move U.S. sentiment still more strongly against the war, must believe that faster and earlier withdrawal is acceptable — that South Vietnam can soon manage its own defense.

It is hard to see how Thieu would pursue a course which he knows would turn American opinion more against the war unless he felt that the U.S. combat role can be ended soon.

This appears to be his premise and it seems likely that most American officials, including the President, read Thier's signals to mean exactly that.

Nixon has always geared the pace of troop withdrawal to the ability of the South Vietnamese forces to assume the burden of defending their own country. Nixon has always wanted to get out of Vietnam as soon as yossible. The evidence that the Thieu government has concluded that continued U.S. presence is no longer critical will speed up the process.

AMERICAN COMBAT strength in Vietnam is already at a low level. In another few weeks U.S. combat maneuver battalions will have been cut to less than 20 per cent of their peak. Further reductions will almost certainly be announced by the President in November.

This means that the terminal point of U.S. combat operations in Vietnam is in sight.

Nixon, however, does not propose to end arms and economic assistance in the early future and it seems to me he is right. Thieu has done his people a disservice in arranging a no-contest presidential election, but it is still in the interest of the United States that South Vietnam should be able to defend itself. American arms and economic aid is unquestionably essential to that end.

We should not let Thieu's mistake keep us from acting in our own national interest to provide some of the means to help South Vietnam defend itself. But from the standpoint of U.S. combat, the war in Vietnam is about over.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Black Realists See Truth Of Muskie's Statement

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — The flap over Edmund Muskie's comment on the electability of a black vice presidential candidate is now over, or should be. Now it is instructive to examine the two kinds of reaction to Muskie's remark, and what that remark did and did not do to his presidential prospects.

There were, most loudly, the opportunists who tried to make Muskie's statement seem an outrage, "a libel upon the American people." They were the politicians who are most directly threatened by his campaign for the presidency. Having had their say, they have turned back to their jobs, and it is there that the sincerity of their outcries will be judged best. Watch Mr. Nixon's enforcement of voting rights laws and other measures intended to bring blacks into full political participation, for example.

There also were the realists, who heard Muskie's comment for what it was — the truth. They know that what he said, that no ticket featuring a black man in the No. 2 spot is likely to win a national election, is simple fact. Many of them in response have geared up that much higher to change the fact.

THESE REALISTS include, conspicuously and specifically, black politicians.

A national caucus of them is planned in Chicago this week end. Its principal aim is to hold the black vote together, in precincts, districts, states and nationwide. Black candidates at each level will be important means toward that end. But for now, if the furtherance of black Americans' welfare is the objective, merely getting black faces on campaign placards will be secondary to supporting a national candidate whose commitment to black progress is firm and longstanding.

Of course there will be oratory at Chicago about an independent black party, and about joining forces with a fourth party movement. There will be daydreaming and morale boosting and threats. Not all of the invited participants are as zeroed in on elective politics as is Julian Bond, the Georgia legislator, who is the principal organizer of the meeting.

Ralph Abernathy of the SCLC, for example, was invited but had scheduled a speaking trip to Russia. He has been talking about holding hands with the Black Panthers, and also has sent an aide with a letter to Mao Tse-tung, saying he wants to learn all about the Cultural Revolution, development of leaders and mass participation in the Chinese People's Republic.

He could learn a lot more if he hired a hotel room, puffed it full of cigar smoke, and somehow prevailed on one of Dick Daley's ward captains to come up and give him an evening's seminar on getting out the vote.

DESPITE THE ENLARGEMENT of the black voting roles since the Voting Rights Act of 1965, the percentage of registered blacks voting has slumped since then. When the Chicago caucus gets past the mutual admiration oratory, the self-defeating talk about black parties and fourth parties, it is going to have to settle down and discuss how best to swing its weight within the Democratic Party in 1972. And that weight is measured in numbers of blacks registered — and voting.

Julian Bond knows that. So do most of his colleages en route to Chicago. So do most of the potential presidential nominess, including Edmund Muskie.

As of now, he is the politician with whom those black leaders are most likely to be bargaining next summer. In his long career as state legislator, governor and senator, he has been a consistent advocate of civil rights and a supporter of black people's aspirations. There's nothing whatever in his record to suggest that in his comment about the vice presidency, he was speaking from either malice or ignorance.

THAT IS ONE REASON why comparison of Muskie's remark with George Romney's famous slip about being "brainwashed" is inappropriate. Like Muskie, Romney was the front-running candidate of the out party at this point in 1967. But what he said about being brainwashed on Vietnam merely gave a final point to his inability to cope with that subject, which had become clear six months earlier and was never remedied until his eventual withdrawal another six months after his faux pas.

Muskie is not in that awkward posture. The black leaders realize he is not, that in fact he had said the same thing before without creating any sensation. The ones who count most among them also realize that the harder they concentrate at their Chicago caucus and later on organizing voters instead of picking gratuitous fights with their friends, the sooner they will be bargaining realistically with him or someone like him for the vice presidential spot on the national ticket.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

$20,000 Administrative Cost Grows To Third Of A Million

It was another hour of delightful Summer Pops on Channel 9 last Sunday evening — the Boston Symphony directed by Arthur Fiedler, with guest artists from the New York Opera Company (a mixed quartet) and a fine large chorus from the New England Conservatory of Music.

The entire program was made up of Rogers and Hammerstein. Nostalgic? You bet! Wonderful to relax in the big easy chair with cherished memories.

Those of you who are going to the opening performance at the Veterans' Memorial Auditorium should also have a wonderful evening. My wish for the event and those to come is for every success.

CONTINUING THE OBVIOUS need for restructuring the operation out at Brasilia: — Fourteen years ago the promoters of an administrator type constantly made the claim that by putting all personnel and purchasing under an administrator, millions would be saved annually and the cost would only be $20,000 a year.

I made a tape recording of a "Sounding Board" program on KTIM, on which the then auditor-controller contradicted that and said it would cost $30,000. Well, the first year's tab was over $50,000. How that brain child has grown!

It will run over a third of a million dollars this year (1971-72). This is an outrage!

THERE ARE THINGS we are entitled to know. First: How many new employees were taken on last year and how many left county employment? Then how many are expected this year? It will be simple to work out the per capita transaction cost. Second: How much in dollars has been purchased and what is expected this year? I think it will be mighty hard to show any profit. As a matter of fact somebody is going to have a heck of a time showing that they have saved anywhere near the cost of operating this administrative setup.

If it can't be proved that it saves more than the third of a million dollars a year it costs to maintain, this board of supervisors had better look alive. This is their Achilles heel and they should realize it and take steps to restructure. There are people around who might not be so adept at board meeting debate but would get the job done in fine style — people who would not abdicate their duty while reaching for more and more extra committee pay.

It should be plain by now that the board goofed when they followed the former administrator's vengeful scheme to turn all health matters plus other unrelated activities over to the coroner. The man is proving early in the performance that he just isn't that good. These recent two boo-boos, so serious that he went on TV to explain, could have serious aftermaths.

(If the gentleman who telephoned me last Saturday evening will get in touch with me, I think he will find that I now have the answer to his question.)

Youths Die In Belfast Explosion

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Five pounds of gelignite exploded in a house in the Roman Catholic Falls Road area of Belfast last night, killing a teen-age boy and girl and virtually demolishing the building, army officials said today.

The deaths brought to 110 the number who have died in two years of civil strike in Northern Ireland and to 78 the number killed this year. So far this year 24 soldiers, 3 policemen and 51 civilians have died.

Officials said the bodies of Rose Curry, 18, and the 17-year-old youth who died with her in the house were badly mutilated by the explosion on Merrion Street. The blast tore off the roof of the house and shattered windows in nearby houses. The area reputedly is a stronghold of the Irish Republican Army (IRA).

The boy was not immediately identified.

Hoffman Abides By Panel's Book Ruling

NEW YORK (UPI)—Two members of the anti-establishment movement have found a non-establishment way of solving their differences.

The panel ruled yesterday that Hoffman should pay $1,000 in cash to Forcade and provide him with 10,000 copies of the book at cost. Forcade will make a profit of $5,000 from the books which are to be sold through an "alternative distribution network" of collectives and communes. Both men said they were satisfied with the decision.

Forcade had asked for $5,000 for his work on the manuscript, another $3,500 for the trouble he had collecting the money and legal fees incurred in a suit which he since has dropped. Hoffman had offered $500, but said he would pay as much as $1,500 for Forcade's troubles.

The book's publisher, Grove Press, must agree to give up the 10,000 copies at cost. If the publisher refuses, the arbitration panel will work out another settlement, one member, author Craig Karpel, said. However, Karpel said Hoffman has talked to Grove Press and reported an accord is likely.

Beside Karpel, the panel included Mayer Vishner of the War Resisters' League and Dr. Howard Levy, a former Army doctor who was imprisoned after refusing to train Special Forces bound for Vietnam.

Innocent Plea To Battery

James Michael Peppard, 28, of Stinson Beach, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a misdemeanor charge of battery.

Pretrial conference was set for Oct. 13.

Peppard was arrested Sept. 7 on suspicion of possession of marijuana and dangerous drugs, as well as battery, but only the misdemeanor charge was filed against him.

The charge stems from a report by a Sausalito woman that Peppard grabbed her while she was walking down Bridgeway with her husband.

Miranda Convicted Of Arizona Robbery

Superior Court Judge Philip Marquardt did not set a date for sentencing for the defendant, who was tried under a fictitious name to avoid publicity.

Miranda was retried on the robbery charge due to the 1969 U.S. District Court decision that overturned his earlier conviction on grounds his confession was "involuntary and illegal."

Miranda's identity was kept from the jury until after the verdict was read because of the publicity he received over a Supreme Court decision regarding unrelated convictions for kidnaping and rape.

The high court's ruling held that criminal suspects must be advised of their constitutional rights before giving a confession. Miranda was retried on the kidnap-rape charges, convicted and sentenced to 20 to 30 years in prison.

Miranda was retried on the robbery charge under the name of "Jose Gomez" although lawyers and witnesses usually referrred to him as "the defendant" to avoid revealing his true identity.

Marquardt told the jurors Miranda was tried under the fictitious name "to protect the interests of the defendant and the public."

Miranda was accused of robbing Mrs. Barbara Sue Johnson of $8 in November, 1962.

Hong Kong Paper Says Ex-Mao Aide Escapes

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A Hong Kong newspaper said today Communist Chinese President Liu Shao-chi, who was ousted during Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung's Cultural Revolution, has escaped from house arrest.

The rightwing newspaper Daily Express said Liu was rescued from detention by Huang Yung-sheng, chief of staff of the Chinese People's Liberation Army.

"Liu Shao-chi is now missing in Communist-China and Huang Yung-sheng might have been arrested by the army of Mao Tse-tung's faction," the newspaper said.

All civil and military air traffic has been halted in an effort to keep Liu from escaping, the Daily Express said.

The newspaper said Huang was a close follower of Liu's in 1966 during the Cultural Revolution.

For day, reports and rumors have circulated that major changes have occurred in Communist China. Some reports have said Mao was ill, but this has been denied by Chinese embassies in world capitals.

The latest such report came from the English language Hong Kong Star which said Mao suffered a heart attack and collapsed at a meeting of the politburo Sept. 9.

China anaylsts in Hong Kong were dubious of the report in the Star, which frequently prints sensational reports on alleged events in China.

The New China News Agency (NCNA) in a report from Peking said today that Chinese Premier Chou En-lai met Thursday with a group of Japanese businessmen but the dispatch made no mention of any unusual developments in China.

Earlier reports from diplomatic sources in Tokyo said Chou had called off some appointments last week. Some of the reports led to speculation that some important changes may be taking place on the Chinese mainland.

Man Denies Hashish Count

Gregory John Golden, 22, of Larkspur, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to misdemeanor charges of possessing hashish and narcotics paraphernalia, being drunk in public and disturbing the peace.

A pretrial conference was set for Monday.

Golden was arrested Sept. 11 at Jones Way and Madrone Avenue in Larkspur after police were told he and another man were yelling and using abusive language.

While searching Golden at Marin County Jail, officers said they found a small amount of hashish and a pipe which could be used for smoking the drug, police said.

Drugs Used In Transplant Cases May Cross Placental Barriers

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ten months after a dying young woman was restored to health with a transplanted kidney she became pregnant. Doctors took a blood sample, from her apparently healthy baby one day after its birth and in the blood found broken chromosomes.

That is the culmination so far of science's growing suspicion that recipients of transplanted organs face more risks than the risk of losing them by "rejection." Another risk may be enhanced susceptibility to cancer. A third may be the reproducing of a faulty offspring.

Chromosomes carry the genes which are the recipe for a new individual. If they're messed up, the new individual will be ineffective in one or many ways and may not even make it through gestation.

To transplant an organ successfully medical scientists must suppress the recipient's defensive chemistry. If unchecked it will attack and kill this "foreign" tissue. That is rejection. One of the most effective suppressing drugs is azathioprine.

In experimental animals it reacts on the unborn, by killing, by stunting growth, by deforming. It could be it is breaking up chromosomes. But understandably, relatively little is known about its effects in human reproduction.

Drs. Daniel E. Leb of the University of Pittsburgh and Bernard Weisskopf and Bob S. Kanovitz of the University of Louisville reported the instance of the young woman to the American Medical Association.

Through her pregnancy she was given azathioprine regularly, to maintain the suppression of her defensive chemistry. When the newborn's blood revealed broken chromosomes the assumption had to be that the drug had crossed the placental barrier, from mother to fetus.

Especially when the mother's blood, in a sample taken a day after the infant was tested, showed broken chromosomes. Yet in both mother and baby, the chromosome abnormalities disappeared with time. The infant still appears both normal and healthy.

This they couldn't explain, the scientists said. In reproduction such surface chromosomes as those of blood cells are not important., they reminded. The controlling ones are in the ovum and sperm which upon union begin a new life. If broken up by a drug, will they right themselves? The scientists didn't know. At present those chromosomes are not open for routine checking.

In recipients of heart transplants it is no problem because in general they are beyond the reproductive years. But many kidney recipients are not, and they are much more numerous because kidney transplanting has been much more successful. A number of women, healthy with kidneys not their own, have had uneventful pregnancies and healthy offspring.

Assembly Nod To Access Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly yesterday agreed to a compromise bill aimed at overcoming a state Supreme Court ruling which gave the public legal access to private land.

On a 54-0 vote, the lower house endorsed a conference committee report which sought to iron out differences between the Assembly and Senate. The Senate still must approve the bill, by Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai.

Backers of the measure say it will discourage the threatened closure of up to 9 million acres in recreational land by private property owners who fear their ownership rights can become clouded by continued public access. Much of the land is mountain and agriculture terrain.

The state Supreme Court has ruled that private land open to public uses for at least five years can become public land.

London Expelling 90 Soviet Aides On Spy Charges

LONDON (UPI)—The British government announced today it was expelling 90 Soviet officials on spy charges and said it acted on information supplied by a high ranking Soviet KGB (Secret Police) official who defected to Britain.

It said another 15 Russians would be banned from reentering this country and that all 105 "have been confirmed in intelligence activities" by the KGB defector. The Foreign Office said the extent and nature of Soviet espionage in Britain was provided by the KGB agent.

The story broke earlier today when the newspaper Evening News said a highranking KGB official defected three months ago in what it called a triumph for the British Intelligence Service.

It said the suggestion was that the Russian was persuaded by British blandishments to come to London, that "interrogation of the defector has produced material of high importance" and that Britain had been in touch with the American CIA.

The Foreign Office declined comment at first today and then made the wholesale espionage announcement, attributing its information to the defector.

"This man, an officer of the KGB, brought with him certain information and documents including plans for infiltration of agents for the purpose of sabotage," the statement said.

British officials said the Soviet Union has a total of 550 officials attached to diplomatic, trade and other missions in Britain.

The Foreign Office said the British government acted only after lengthy discussions with the Soviets and after Moscow denied that it was engaged in intelligence activity on the scale alleged by Britain.

The statement said that on the instructions of British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home, the permanent undersecretary of state, Sir Dennis Greenhill, asked Soviet charge d'affaires Ivan Ippolitov to call at the foreign office today and handed him an aide memoire setting out the British decision.

Britain asked the Soviet Embassy to arrange for a number of Soviet officials "all of whom have been concerned in intelligence activities to leave the country within two weeks."

The Foreign Office statement said Britain has decided to limit in future the number of Soviet officials who will be permitted in the country after those expelled have left.

This level will be further reduced if a Soviet official is in future required to leave the country as a result of involvement in intelligence activity, the statement said.

The statement said "the number of Soviet officials in Britain and the proportion of them engaged in intelligence work has been causing grave concern for some time."

The statement said that in the last 12 months several Soviet officials have been withdrawn at the request of the Foreign Office after being detected in intelligence activities while others left the country of their own accord after being detected.

Puzzling Crash Is Fatal To Two

An auto-truck collision killed two persons and seriously injured two others on Highway 37 east of the Marin County line at 4:30 p.m. yesterday, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Investigators today were still puzzling over the cause of the crash.

Dead were Sylvester Beard, 46, resident of a hotel at 825 Fourth Street, San Rafael, and Douglas R. Quinn, 15, of Sonoma. Both were passengers in a sedan driven by Don Robert Hurd, 22, of Vallejo, who was reported in serious condition today at Marin General Hospital. Also in serious condition at the hospital was Gina Elizabeth Waldron, 47, of Vallejo, another passenger.

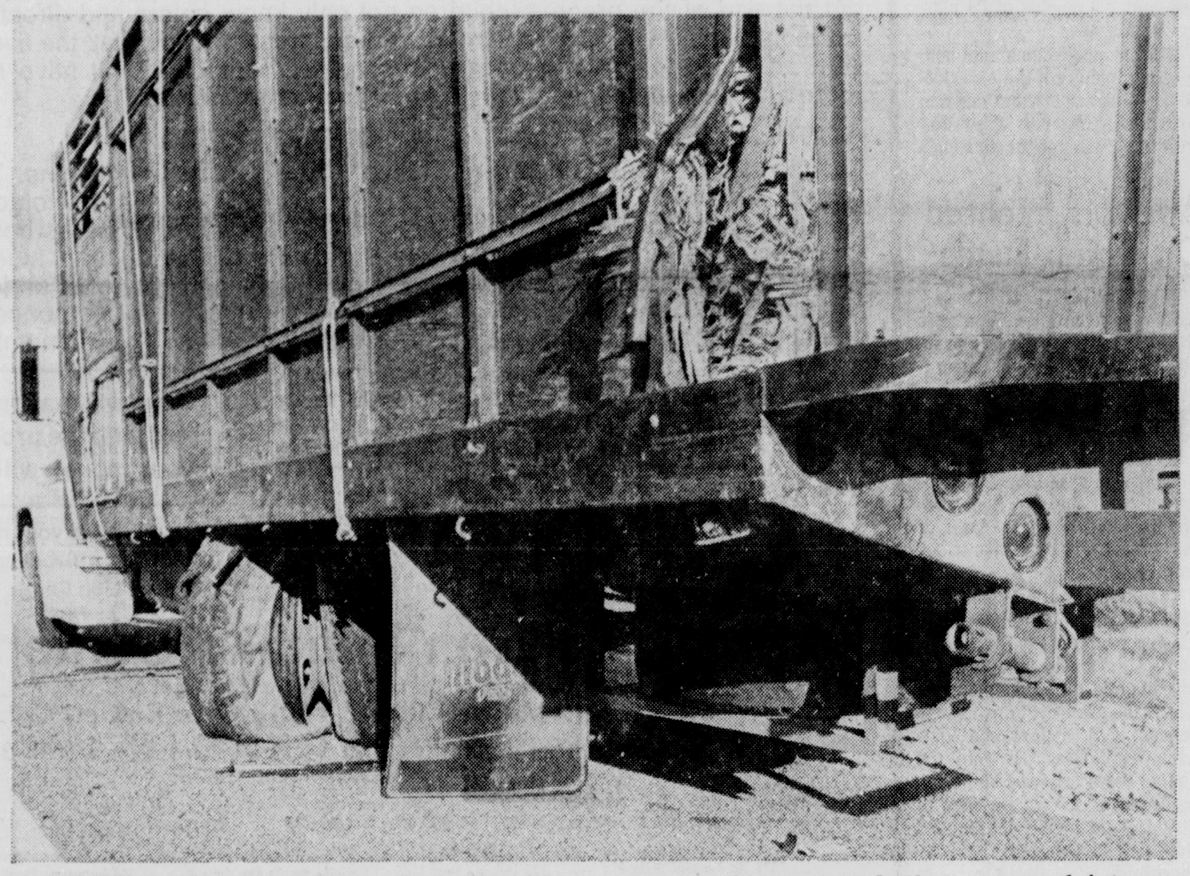
Patrol officers said the heavy flatbed truck driven by Arthur C. Williams, 29 of Santa Rosa, was parked, disabled on the southerly shoulder of the eastbound lanes of Highway 37, when Hurd's auto plowed under the truck's left rear end, swerved into the highway again, then through a fence and into the field past the truck.

The accident happened just east of the intersection of Highway 37 and Lakeville Road, in completely clear, dry conditions, investigators said.

Hurd's auto was demolished. Williams was not injured.

The Marin County coroner's office said Beard was sitting in the right-hand passenger's seat in front, and Quinn in the rear seat. Quinn reportedly was a hitchhiker, the coroner's office said.

The deaths were the 25th and 26th traffic fatalities within the jurisdiction of Marin's CHP office this year, compared to 23 on the same date last year.



GRINDING CRASH — Battered wheels and crushed siding on a parked truck bear mute witness to the violence of a crash in which two persons died. California Highway Patrol officers said a passenger truck drove under the truck's rear end, then careened into a field off Highway 37 east of Black Point yesterday. The truck belonged to the Ash Bag Co. of Petaluma.

Student Slaps Willy Brandt In The Face

MUNICH, Germany (UPI)—A 23-year-old German political science student slapped Chancellor Willy Brandt in the face on a downtown Munich sidewalk today as a protest against Brandt's conciliatory East European policies, police said.

Mandatory Smog Controls Are Hinted

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area smog officials conceded yesterday that their first alert last week had been ignored by most motorists, and cautioned that mandatory controls on driving may replace appeals to cut driving voluntarily. (Another smog control story, page 5.)

The three-day alert during last week's record hot spell apparently was ignored by the public, with only industry cutting back production voluntarily, according to the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District's air pollution control officer, D.J. Callaghan.

"We were very pleasantly surprised by the voluntary compliance by industry," he told district directors. He had no data to back his claim, but said information backing it will be released when complete.

The district's authority to impose mandatory controls on driving remained unclear, according to the district's attorney, Matthew S. Walker. He promised an opinion of the board's powers by its Nov. 3 meeting, but said he believed the board already had such power.

Callaghan warned that "there are going to be a lot of legal hurdles involved if this district goes for something mandatory."

But San Francisco Supervisor Dianne Feinstein declared that if voluntary controls "are not going to work, we are going to put in a mandatory alert."

Agreeing with her, Portola Valley City Councilman Nevin K. Hiester said depending on voluntary controls was "just playing games."

Alameda County Supervisor Joseph P. Bort added that voluntary controls on driving will not work "until we find some gentle method of making it a little more difficult." He revived his previous suggestion that tolls be doubled on bay bridges, but no one else supported this approach.

Oklahoma's Fred Harris To Seek Demo's Presidential Nomination

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Oklahoma's Fred R. Harris today announced he will seek the Democratic presidential nomination and proposed breaking up General Motors as one of his first campaign pledges.

In the crowded Senate caucus room, where John F. Kennedy launched his White House candidacy, Sen. Harris said he would seek the nomination in an effort to "try to turn this country around before it's too late."

"I believe that a President can call this country back to greatness," Harris told a newsconference. "I mean to try."

In response to a question about the economy, Harris quoted Ralph Nader's claim that car prices are inflated 20 per cent because of the industry's monopolistic structure and suggested that General Motors should be broken up into five companies.

"If they have competition, prices would come down," Harris said.

Harris said he planned to enter most of the primaries. But he added, that "my present thought is I might not go into New Hampshire" which holds the first primary.

The 40-year old, self-styled modern-day populist said his campaign would take him to the elderly, to Vietnam veterans in hospitals, to the prisons, and to the streets.

"A campaign itself can give power to the powerless," he said. "I mean to do that."

Harris joined Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota as an announced candidate for the

Tribunal Pares Its Calendar

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court, absent two senior members just two weeks from the opening of its 1971-1972 term, today dropped most of the controversial cases from its scheduled docket of arguments — including the crucial question of the death penalty.

The cases of four men on death row which had been consolidated for argument at the start of the Court's working session Oct. 12 were postponed indefinitely. The Court opens with formal ceremonies Oct. 4.

Also eliminated from the calendar were cases involving sex discrimination, pollution and a major smog suit filed by 15 states against the nation's automobile manufacturers.

The revised calendar was announced by the seven-member Court without comment but the action was prompted obviously because of the retirement of

'GOOD TRY' BUT GIFTS NOT FROZEN

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Office of Emergency Preparedness today gave a Bay Area man a "good try," but ruled that his wife's birthday present was not included in President Nixon's freeze.

The office received a letter, "My wife's birthday is coming up and she wants a present. Under terms of the wage-price freeze can it be more expensive than I gave her last year?"

OEP regional Director Ralph D. Burns answered that gifts were not frozen.

"You are therefore free to give her any gift you feel she deserves," Burns told his correspondent.

Dynamite Tossed At Jetliner

DETROIT (UPI)—A psychology professor, armed with a pistol and a satchel of explosives and about to board a jetliner with 71 passengers, threw two sticks of dynamite at sky marshals who chased her up a stairway at Detroit Metropolitan Airport today.

"We'll all die," she yelled. The dynamite did not explode and the woman was captured.

The jetliner, American Airlines Flight 124, was evacuated shortly before takeoff. The plane was searched but no other explosives were found, and three hours later the

Auditorium Is Ready For Gala Opening Tomorrow

Everything is ready to go tomorrow when — after long years of preparation — the new Veterans Memorial Building opens at 8:30 p.m. with a Marin Symphony concert featuring soprano Dorothy Kirsten as soloist and the world premiere of Darius Milhaud's Suite in G.

An on-stage champagne supper will complete the evening.

Surprise last minute attractions include a display of painting and sculpture and performance during the buffet supper by the Generation Gap, a contemporary singing group made up of 14 Marin people accompanied by piano, bass and drums. They will sing music by Bacharach, Jim Webb and the Beatles and other contemporary composers.

Iran-born Farhad Moezzi, a graduate of the University of Teheran, will exhibit his bronze and nickel silver works, and paintings by Bruce Lauritzen of Larkspur will be on display. His sketches, paintings and photographs recording his travels on the European and African continents have been shown in one-man exhibits in Milan and Rome.

What will acoustics be when the Marin Symphony tests them for the first time with a full house?

Conductor Sandor Salgo, judging from rehearsal, has said, "I think we have a wonderful house here."

And Charles Meacham, assistant conductor and concertmaster adds, "It seems to be a very live and responsive auditorium. A large audience should tone it down to just about the right sound, but the problem for

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Boycott Off

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI)—The chief organization of white mothers opposed to busing to desegregate schools relented Thursday and agreed to allow their children to go to classes for the first time since school began Sept. 7.

The National Action Group (NAG), in a surprising about-face, called off its boycott of Pontiac's schools and, at the same time, canceled a statewide boycott planned for Oct. 1.

"We feel the boycott has been most successful and very effective in demonstrating the unity and depth of the feeling of the community in its total opposition to the busing program," said Mrs. Irene McCabe, NAG president.

But, she said, "Any further boycott of the schools would only injure the children whom we are all interested in helping."

Black Critical

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hugo L. Black, 85, remained on the critical list today at Bethesda Naval Hospital with doctors saying the recently retired Supreme Court justice's chances of recovery from a stroke were "poor."

Black suffered a serious "cerebral vascular accident" Sunday night and his condition grew progressively worse until he was placed on the critical list Thursday.

"Justice Black's condition has remained unchanged since the issue of the 10:30 a.m. and subsequent reports," the hospital reported at 11:45 p.m. Thursday. The next report was expected about midmorning.

Texas Speaker Indicted—Bribery

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Gus Franklin Mutscher, the Democratic speaker of the Texas House of Representatives, was indicted Thursday on a charge of accepting a bribe to pass two banking bills during a special legislative session two years ago.

Mutscher

"I am confident I will be acquitted," said Mutscher, 38, of Brenham.

The Travis County Grand Jury indicted Mutscher, another legislator, a legislative aide and a former state insurance commissioner on the bribery charges which came to light during a federal investigation of fraudulent stock manipulations in Texas.

The other officials indicted were:

John Osorio, 49, an attorney, former state insurance commissioner and former president of National Bankers Life Insurance Co.

Lake Effort

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Communist party and government today ordered vast anti-pollution measures to try to save the pristine waters of Lake Baikal, which contains one-fifth of all the fresh water on earth.

A resolution of the Council of Ministers and the Central Committee of the Communist party ordered purification facilities installed at a huge ceilulose plant on Baikal's shores.

It also forbade further paper plants on a river that empties into Baikal until purification of the other plant's wastes are guaranteed.

It was a major triumph for scientists who have campaigned for 10 years against industrial spoilage of Lake Baikal. The 400-mile-long lake is 5,000 feet deep.

Heroin Addicts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon said today that tests show slightly more than one of every 100 Air Force personnel in Vietnam are heroin users.

The percentage was listed at 1.1 per cent. Officials said 0.4 per cent of recruits entering the Air Force service at Lackland AFB, Tex., were found to be heroin users. They said that of 7,142 basic trainees tested, 30 proved to be users.

Launch Delayed

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The launch of a $28 million orbiting solar observatory has been delayed until Monday at the earliest because of continued difficulty in tracing the source of a rocket control system problem.

The delay, announced Thursday, was the fourth this week. The shot originally was set for Thursday.

Verdict Flayed

TOKYO (UPI)—North Vietnam's official newspaper today denounced the acquittal of Capt. Ernest Medina in the 1968 My Lai massacre and said President Nixon ordered the verdict.

The newspaper Nhan Dan, published in Hanoi, said Nixon obtained the release of Medina and the reduction in sentence given earlier to Lt. William Calley.

"The Nixon clique's attitude in the Son My case is utterly sinister and despicable," the North Vietnam newspaper said, according to an account broadcast today from Hanoi.

Man Booked On Assault Probe

Arthur Vette Hatter, 22, of 807 Fourth Street, Apt. 15, San Rafael was booked into Marin County Jail shortly after 6 p.m. yesterday on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

Witnesses called San Rafael police to an empty lot in the 400 block of Fourth Street and said they had seen Hatter beating Jerry N. Levaro, 34, of 830 B Street, San Rafael, with a two-by-four. Police reported they also found there was a bench warrant against Hatter, on charges of marijuana possession and transportation plus possession of narcotics paraphernalia.

Bail was set at $5,000 on the assault charge and he was held to appear in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon.

Police said Hatter and Levaro had been drinking together during the day and the beating resulted from an agrument. Levaro's cut chin was stitched at Marin General Hospital and he was released.

GIs In Vietnam On 'Grey Alert'

SAIGON (UPI)—The 215,000 American GIs in Vietnam were confined to their bases tonight in a special 12-day "Grey Alert" in case the Communists try to disrupt the forthcoming South Vietnamese presidential election.

The alert was ordered by the U.S. command "in anticipation of possible enemy activity" before, during and after the Oct. 3 balloting.

The alert took effect at 5 p.m. (5 a.m. EDT) today and will run at least until 5 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 6 (5 a.m. EDT). American troops were forbidden to enter populated areas "except on essential official business or travel between billets and place of duty."

On battlefronts, the military command reported that two American F4 Phantom fighter-bombers swept into North Vietnam again Thursday to bomb antiaircraft guns in the third consecutive day of crossborder strikes.

As the Phantoms struck north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) U.S. B52 bombers pounded North Vietnamese bunkers inside the DMZ.

Near the northern city of Hue, five 122mm Communist rockets hit the U.S. 101st Airborne Division headquarters at Camp Eagle Thursday night but caused no casualties.

The South Vietnamese command reported government infantrymen Thursday seized a Communist base camp near Tay Ninh City, 50 miles northwest of Saigon after it had been hit by allied air strikes. The troops found the bodies of 15 Viet Cong and captured 800 pounds of rice, 100 pounds of salt and 200 pounds of C4 plastic explosives.

Military spokesmen said helicopter gunships of the Americal Division killed 35 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese Thursday within 38 miles of the division's base at Chu Lai south of Da Nang.

The two Phantom jets were bombing Communist truck convoys on the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos Thursday when fired on by antiaircraft guns from nearby North Vietnam, military spokesmen said.

The jets turned east into North Vietnam and divebombed the gun battery 37 miles north of the DMZ. Results of the attack were unknown and the planes were not damaged.

It was the third consecutive day of what the U.S. command calls "protective reaction" strikes into North Vietnam. F4s carried out similar attacks Wednesday and more than 200 planes bombed fuel storage sites and antiaircraft emplacements north of the DMZ on Tuesday.

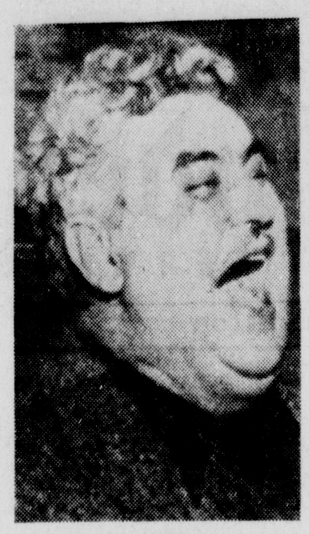
The Tuesday raids were personally approved by President Nixon, a White House spokesman in Washington said.

Answers Wanted On Thieu Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A House subcommittee contends the United States secretly provided $500 million to the government of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu during the past three years.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers was asked for an explanation Thursday by Rep. Torbert H. MacDonald, D-Mass., of the House Foreign Operations subcommittee.

The subcommittee found that $500 million had been shipped "under the table" to South Vietnam, MacDonald said, when it investigated the exchange rates which the United States uses to convert U.S. dollars into Vietnamese piasters. He said the United States allowed an "artifically high rate to be used to disguise aid above and beyond that which Congress has authorized."



COMEDIAN DIES — Billy Gilbert, whose acting career stretched from the vaudeville days to the era of television, died yesterday in a Hollywood convalescent hospital. Gilbert, 78, appeared in 300 films, usually popping into the middle of a scene to provide some quick comic relief and then disappearing. The comedian (shown in a 1946 photo) is survived by his wife, Lolly McKenzie Gilbert.

U.S. To Delay On Saving Taiwan Seat

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The United States will hold off an all-out effort to save a U.N. seat for Nationalist China until next month's debate in the General Assembly, diplomatic sources said today.

The American effort already has suffered a setback with the recommendation of the U.N. steering committee Wednesday that the U.S. proposal to retain the Nationalist seat be considered along with a proCommunist proposal by Albania.

American diplomats felt the proposal would stand a better chance if both were considered at the same time, but the 24-nation steering committee recommended they be taken up separately.

The United States is pushing companion resolution on the China issue. One would seat Communit China in both the General Assembly and the Security Council. The other would require a two-thirds vote of the assembly to expel the Chinese Nationalists.

the assembly to expel the Chinese Nationalists.

The Albanian resolution, also sponsored by 20 other nations, calls for "restoration of the lawful rights of the People's Republic of (Communist) China" and expulsion of the Nationalist Chinese from all U.N. bodies.

The full General Assembly today was expected to give its approval to the steering committee recommendations. Under the rules, debate on the steering committee recommendations could be reopened in the General Assembly, but a U.S. spokesman said U.S. Ambassador George Bush had no intention of doing so.

Fairbanks, Alaska, is the second largest city in the state.

NEW FROM SULLIVAN!

A PRICELESS OPPORTUNITY FOR CHILDREN AGES 3-6

The Sullivan Early Achievement Program Costs Less Than a Babysitter!

READING:
At the end of the program children not only know colors and direction, but they'll know straight lines, curved lines, circles and squares, the alphabet, the five short vowel sounds and the common sounds of the consonants. Your child will have mastered the understanding and spelling of 126 two and three letter words.

MATHEMATICS:
At the end of the Math program children will have learned to recognize numbers zero to nine and write the numeral corresponding to the number, and to count any number of objects from one to nine. They will also know how to add and subtract numbers whose sum is not greater than nine. They will have a solid understanding of the basic concepts needed to work with numbers.

The Sullivan Early Achievement Program consists of 10 week sessions. Each child attends three 80 minute classes a week. Each group is limited to ten students. This small size enables teachers to give the children lots of individual attention. The cost of a 10 week session is $60.00.

The Sullivan Early Achievement Program will start October 4th. Please dial R-E-A-D-I-N-G for further information.

Please sign up early, enrollments are limited.

If for any reason you are not satisfied with the progress of your child your money will be refunded.

FROM ONE BABY TO ANOTHER

There's no generation gap between 3-year-old Heather Simmons and a baby gorilla born Wednesday at the Henry Deerly Zoo in Omaha, Neb. — quite the opposite, in fact. The little gorilla will be cared for at Heather's house — her father is the zoo director — until it's old enough to care for itself, when it will be sent to the Como Park Zoo in St. Paul, Minn. The foster home arrangement is necessary because the gorilla's mother, Benoit, accidentally killed her first baby.

Space For Learning Center Plea Slated

Marin City Council will urge the Sausalito School District board to reconsider its refusal to allow the Marin City Learning Center's plea to use the Manzanita School in Marin City for classes.

The council also will file a complaint with the Marin County Housing Authority, stating that the school is an educational facility and should be in use rather than sitting vacant.

According to Rev. Samuel L. Banks, chairman, the unanimous action came last night on the heels of the school board's refusal to open the Manzanita School doors to about 55 students (kindergarten through eighth grade) who temporarily are attending classes in the Village Baptist Church.

The learning center was established this year by Marin City parents who were dissatisfied with the education their children were receiving in Sausalito schools.

Banks said he will send letters to both groups today in the hope that the council can influence their decision.

The complaint to the housing authority also will mention the vandalism that has been occurring at Manzanita School since the Sausalito board decided not to open it, Banks said. All district students have been placed in Martin Luther King and Bayside schools.

Council member Frank Phillips Sr. said the council took the action on its own and was not prompted to do so by a request from the learning center. "We just want to make them (school board) aware of the consensus of this community," Phillips said.

The property on which the school is located was donated to the district at no cost by the housing authority and the Marin County Redevelopment Agency to build an elementary school.

However, at the school board meeting Monday, Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the housing authority, said he was in the process of trying to reacquire the land for the Marin City community.

In other business, the council changed its regular meeting night from the second and fourth Thursdays of each month to the second and fourth Mondays of the month.

Also, the council went on record as supporting the housing authority and the redevelopment agency in efforts to negotiate with the California Development Co. to regain control of 60 acres of redevelopment land.

The council also voted to coordinate its efforts with the redevelopment agency in developing the Marin City master plan.

Fairfax Holds Closed Hearing

The Fairfax City Council last night held another in a series of closed meetings on charges against an unidentified employee, but officials were tight-lipped about the outcome.

Beyond previous statements that the matter was a serious one, City Mgr. Robert E. Crowe would say only that the council asked him to obtain from the city attorney answers to unspecified questions surrounding the employee's conduct.

Last night's meeting was the third held on the issue.

Juvenile Panel Names Leader

Named vice chairman of the commission was John Donovan, assistant administrator for San Rafael city schools.

The juvenile justice commissioners on Wednesday decided not to consider a merger at this time with the Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission.

Court Rejects Highrise Plea

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The state District Court of Appeals Thursday rejected a petition from Alvin Duskin to halt permits for any new highrises until the November election.

Duskin, a candidate for the board of Supervisors, was turned down last month by San Francisco Superior Court in his bid to halt any permits for buildings more than 72 feet in height.

His lawyers, as a result, asked the appelate court for a restraining order. The denial was without comment.

Duskin previously backed a successful citizens' drive which placed an election initiative on the November ballot next month to limit the highrises.

Vandals Damage Three Tractors

Someone put dirt into the gas tanks, radiators and crankcases of three tractors owned by A. G. McDonald Co. of Napa, causing damage estimated at $1,000, Novato police reported today.

The tractors, parked at the end of Santa Maria Drive, were damaged between 4:30 p.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. yesterday, police said.

Rohnert Park Residents Due Garbage Fee Rebate

Rohnert Park residents will get a rebate on garbage collection fees since the recent rate increase has been held in violation of the federal wage-price freeze.

City Atty. Richard D. Maxwell told the city council last night that the increase, which has been in effect two months, was held illegal by the office of emergency preparedness although increased service accompanied the rate hike.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said residents will receive credit for the $1.60 overcharge on the next billing.

In other action, the council approved the installation of a new water main on Snyder Lane to service the Los Companeros mobile home park. The council directed the C & G Development Co. to install the line to its park to be reimbursed by the city later.

Present Pamela Court Family Is Not Involved

A story in last Saturday's Independent-Journal reported that an investigation over a six-year period had resulted in the arrest of seven Marin residents in connection with a huge marijuana smuggling operation and reported one destination of the contraband to have been a house at 70 Pamela Court in Tiburon.

At the time of the alleged smuggling operation the Pamela Court residence was occupied by Will Walker, 27, and Joanne Gail Fahey, 31, according to the indictment which states that between March 1970 and May 1970 they "permitted their rented house to be used for concealing marijuana."

The present owner of the property has advised the Independent-Journal that — because the story did not give the dates of the alleged offense — many friends and neighbors have indicated they thought his family was involved in the smuggling.

The I-J hastens to report that any such inference is without foundation and that the present owner is in no way connected with the case.

Walter B. Boyd, an American Airlines official, said the airline was told by state police shortly before the flight was scheduled to leave Detroit at 7:45 a-m. that a woman carrying explosives might try to board.

Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas identified the woman as Barbara Pliskow, 39, a former professor of psychology at Wayne State University.

Lucas said the woman had a note in her purse. "She said she planned to take this drastic action because she was 'disillusioned with our system' of government," Lucas said.

Lucas said that in addition to the two sticks of dynamite the woman threw at sky marshals, sheriff's deputies found on her person "explosive substances with a higher potential than dynamite."

The woman was questioned by the deputies and FBI agents at the airport sheriff's office before being taken by car into the custody of the FBI.

Wearing a blue skirt and a vest over a patterned blouse, the woman stared straight ahead as she was taken to the patrol car. "She looked like she wasn't in contact with what was happening," an observer said.

Lucas described the woman as "depressed over failing to succeed in her drastic action which was to blow up the plane."

"At 7:35 this morning our reservations department got a call from the state police, stating that a passenger by the name of Barbara Pliskow was booked on Flight 124 to New York," said Boyd.

"The flight was scheduled to depart at 7:45 and they advised us at the time that she, according to the check they had, was planning some activity.

"At this point, Boyd said, "the suspect tried to flee the scene. She was apprehended by the ski marshals."

As the marshals were pursuing the woman, Boyd said, she stopped at the top of a stairway and threw the dynamite.

"We'll all die," the woman yelled.

Boyd described the woman as very excited. "It took three people to subdue her," he said.

Boyd said the passengers were taken off the plane, prior to the takeoff, so the plane could be searched and the passengers checked. They were being lined up for a security check in an area normally used for loading, when the woman broke from the crowd and ran.

There were a number of passengers in the area when she threw the dynamite. "It's a good thing it didn't go off," Boyd said.

Boyd said the woman was identified by police as Barbara Pliskow, 39. He said officials had difficulty checking out the police tip that a woman by that name might be considering an inflight bombing because there was no woman by that name listed as a passenger.

"The description we had was a rather flimsy one," Boyd said.

He said the woman did not give a motive.

Board Approves Bigger Facility

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Zoning Adjustments yesterday approved the expansion of a group care facility in Petaluma.

Louise McKittrick had requested to enlarge her facility at 365 Kuck Lane for the mentally handicapped from six to eight persons.

In other action, the board approved the request of Ray R. and Margaret Ainsworth for a trailer sale and storage yard at 1248 Petaluma Boulevard North.

Also approved were requests for placements of mobile homes by August B. Deniz, 421 Sonoma Mountain Road, Petaluma; and George V. Menchen, 8958 Cypress Avenue, Cotati.

COURT

ailing Justices Hugo L. Black and John M. Harlan.

President Nixon's new appointees probably will not be confirmed by the Senate in time for the first part of the new Court term. Rep. Richard E. Poff, D-Va., was favored as one of the nominees. There was speculation a woman might be named to the second vacancy.

The Court was scheduled to open its working session with arguments raising the basic question of whether the death sentence constitutes the kind of "cruel and unusual punishment" forbidden by the 8th amendment.

A decision has been pending since 1967 and no execution has taken place in the nation since June 2, 1967. There are 653 persons on death row awaiting the outcome.

Black resigned from the Court a week ago today and Harlan sent his resignation to the White House Thursday. Harlan, 72, a member for 16 years, has spinal cancer, his doctor reported.

The resignation of Harlan, known as "The Great Dissenter" followed by six days the resignation of Justice Hugo L. Black, 85.

At a question and answer session at the Detroit Economic Club, Nixon said his choice need not be a judge, as his previous appointments have been, but could be "a legislator with experience in the judiciary committee of the House or Senate."

"That gives you an idea of where I am leaning," Nixon said.

Poff, 48, is the second ranking Republican on the House Judiciary Committee and is considered an able constitutional lawyer. He has been mentioned frequently as a possible appointee.

But already some opposition had risen to Poff. The Americans for Democratic Action charged Poff has a record of opposition to civil rights legislation.

The ADA's national director, Leon Shull, said Poff was a signatory of the Southern manifesto in 1956 and would "become the first justice in more than 20 years to have declared that segregation is constitutional." In Congress, Shull said, Poff had voted "against every civil rights bill to come before him."

The opening salvo against Poff called to mind Nixon's two earlier, and unsuccessful attempts, to win confirmation of a southerner to the Supreme Court. Two years ago the Senate rejected Nixon's southern nominees, Clement Haynesworth and G. Harrold Carswell.

The Washington Post said today Attorney General John N. Mitchell told the newspaper in an interview Nixon was "very seriously" considering nominating a woman to the court.

At the same time, the White House announcement of Harlan's retirment carefully avoided saying Nixon was looking for a man to replace Harlan, as it did when Black resigned.

Ronald L. Ziegler, the White House press secretary, said Nixon would try "to find highly qualified persons for these position."

Mitchell also told the Post he thought Poff was "an oustanding individual" who would "be great in any job."

The appointments gave Nixon an opportunity to continue tailoring the court to his strict constructionist philisophy. It was considered likely he would act quickly on the appointments.

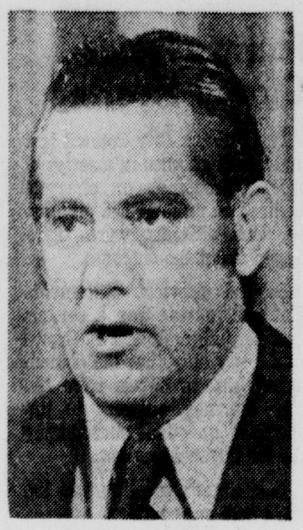
Harlan had been a leader of the court's conservative minority.



FRED R. HARRIS

Democratic nomination. McGovern announced last spring.

Over the past two and a half months, Harris has sought to put together a coalition of senior citizens, disenchanted youth, blacks, Mexican-Americans, Indians, farmers, and blue collar workers.

—"A lot of people can't believe America has ever been to the moon. That's because they doubt the credibility of the government and because it seems so illogical to them that our nation could spend so much money on space when so many of our people here on earth can't buy medical care.

—"Most people don't believe that it makes much difference what politician is elected. They don't really believe things are going change."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine is expected to enter the race before the end of the year. Sens. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Birch Bayh of Indiana, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota; Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas; and Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City are other possible contenders.

Harris announced July 16 that he would not seek re-election to the Senate and would begin testing his support as a possible presidential candidate. He toured 19 states, some as often as three times, to determine his chances.

The 40-year old Sooner was born in Lawton, Okla., Nov. 13, 1930. After going through Walters public schools, he received a bachelor of arts and a law degree from the University of Oklahoma.

He served in the Oklahoma State Senate from 1956 to 1964 and was elected to the U.S. Senate in 1964 to fill the unexpired term of the late Sen. Robert S. Kerr. He was 33 at the time, the second youngest member of the Senate.

In 1968, Harris and Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., teamed as cochairmen of Citizens for Humphrey, which guided then Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey to the Democratic nomination.

After the elections, Harris was elected chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Under his chairmanship, two committees began the task of writing new rules for the selection of delegates to the convention.

Spread thin by his dual role as senator and national chairman, Harris resigned the chairmanship last year and began concentrating on reelection.

an orchestra with an initial experience in a new hall is that they can't hear anything they heard before in practice. It's a matter of adjusting the ear. So we won't really know until tomorrow night."

That there will be a full house seems likely, according to Leon Kalimos, executive director of the building, who says that tickets are going very well, with a few full view seats still available.

Last minute preparations are complete, he says, even to planting of trees and parking and ushering arrangements.

College of Marin students with flashlights will direct the public into the parking lots, and if they are full, a minibus will take people to and from these lots to another lot.

Two Brinks Guards Shot During Holdup

BERKELEY (UPI) — Two Brinks armored car guards were shot today in a holdup at a supermarket.

It was not determined immediately whether the two gunmen got away with any of the cash.

Dissolving into an hour of rambling discussion of the problem, the board finally gave a resounding unanimous vote to form a new committee to study the problem.

But not a single hand came up nor a single voice was heard when chairman Robert W. Hoyer asked if there were "any volunteers" for the committee. Hoyer, a Clayton city councilmen, said he would make the appointments later.

Santa Clara County Supervisor Victor Calvo said that creation of the study committee did not mean the board should "wait three months for them to report back to us. By then the smog season will be over."

He urged each member to "get busy" in his home county organizing programs to implement smog alerts. Perhaps using county civil defense officers ("give them something to do"), Calvo said, these programs should encourage employers and local government to organize car pools and to get word of alerts to every citizen.

"People want to help," he said, but feel they can do little as individuals.

San Francisco Supervisor Peter Tamaras suggested that the study committee consider the need to wear face masks like those worn by the population in influenza epidemics earlier in history.

Robbery Case Arrest Made

Marshall Ervin Craig, 23, of 205 Drake Avenue, Marin City, was arrested last night by Mill Valley police on a warrant charging him with robbery.

The warrant includes an affidavit from a 14-year-old boy that Craig knocked him to the ground and took his walkie-talkie on Sept. 9 in front of the Mill Valley Bus Depot, police said.

Craig was booked into Marin County Jail at 6:20 p.m. yesterday and was held in lieu of $5,000 bail. He was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

OBITUARIES

Loran H. Darnell, 65, Dies

Darnell was born in Greeley, Colo., and lived in Illinois, Missouri and Kansas before moving to Petaluma in 1922. He had been employed in radio construction and maintenance for the federal government and also worked for Petaluma poultry producers and feed and grain companies until his retirement in 1965.

Darnell was a member of Petaluma Masonic Lodge 180, Royal Arch Lodge 22 and Morningstar Cahpter 61, Order of Eastern Star.

He is survived by his wife, Daisy; three daughters, Arlene Blunt of Petaluma, Grace Mitchell of San Francisco and Dorothy Truitt of Artesia, N.M.; a son, Douglas H. Fehler of Vallejo; two sisters, Myrna Whittington of Walla Walla, Wash., and Wilma P. Riggle of Springdale, Wash.; seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be held Monday at 2 p.m. at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma; followed by burial at Cypress Hill Memorial Park. The family prefers that contributions be made to the American Heart Fund.

MRS. SHINN

Memorial service has been held for Mrs. Joseph Clark Shinn of Fremont, matriarch of an early Santa Clara Valley family and mother of Mrs. Frank J. Solinsky of Sausalito.

Mrs. Shinn, who was 90, died Monday in a Marin convalescent hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Shinn and her late husband, Joseph, were instrumental in the growth of Niles and Washington Township. Born in East Oakland, where her father, Harrison Allen Mayhew was the first mayor, Mrs. Shinn graduated from the University of California in 1902 when Berkeley was the university's lone campus.

The Shinns were leaders in development of the Washington Township school system, and she later taught for several years at Union High School.

Surviving besides Mrs. Solinsky are another daughter, Mrs. Moshe Shifrine of Davis; a son, Vice Admiral Allen Mayhen Shinn of Oxon Hill, Md.; 13 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

EVA WHITTAKER

Mrs. Whittaker was the widow of Harry Whittaker, a chicken and egg rancher. A former resident of 84 Palm Lane, she was last a resident of the Novato Manor Convalescent Hospital.

She was one of the founding members of the Novato Senior Citizens and . in 1966 that organization nominated her for the Marin County Senior Citizen of the Year award.

Mrs. Whittaker and her husband were known in the Novato area for their whist parties.

She was a native of Ohio and had lived in California for 50 years and in Novato for 30 years.

She leaves no immediate family.

There will be no service, but a memorial tribute at a meeting of the Novato Senior Citizens at noon Monday at the Novato Community House. Inurnment will be at Marin Memorial Gardens, Novato.

JOHN HINKSON

Funeral for John E. Hinkson of San Rafael will be Monday at 2 p.m. at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Greenbrae.

Hinkson, who resided at 285 North San Pedro Road, died at his home Wednesday. He was 86.

A native of Pennsylvania, Hinkson moved to California 42 years ago and to Marin County 12 years ago.

He was a retired house painter and was self-employed for 50 years. He was also active in several Marin County senior citizen organizations as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

He is survived by two sons, Floyd E. Hinkson of San Rafael and Howard E. Hinkson of San Francisco; a daughter, Virginia M. Wallace of Modesto; a brother, Royal J. Hinkson of Salt Lake City, an seven grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery in San Rafael.

Friends may call at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael, after 7 p.m. tomorrow until 9 p.m. Sunday.

The family requests memorial contributions be sent to the Latter Day Saints Childrens Hospital, Salt Lake City.

Shell To Close Petaluma Plant

Shell Oil Co. has announced it will close its marketing truck terminal and bulk storage facility in Petaluma on Oct. 15.

Company officials said increased operating costs and the need for new equipment forced the closing. It had been in operation on the Petaluma River since 1941.

The plant has a storage capacity of 35,000 barrels and was one of the company's last facilities to be served by river barges. The eight employees will be transferred to other plants.

Agreement Denied

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Negotiators for the Pacific Maritime Association and the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union issued a special announcement today denying reports of an agreement on the key issue in the 84-day-old dock strike.

Industry Wins Pollution Round

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area smog officials, heeding pleas by industry that extensive measuring of pollutants inside smokestacks would be too costly, yesterday rejected a proposal to require the measuring by all major industries. (Another smog control story, page 1.)

The proposal was made by a director of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, Mountain View City Councilman William R. Jelavich. He argued the district had "a serious responsibility to ensure that the level of pollution is always at its lowest."

The Bay Area League of Industrial Associations, however, claimed that it would cost each major plant up to $1 million to install in-stack instruments. Operation and maintenance of the instruments also would be expensive, the league said.

Pollution from each plant now is computed indirectly by measuring the amount of material processed in the plant, and by checking periodically the air quality in the vicinity of the plant. District officials long have stressed that the final figures were only engineering estimates.

Jelavich said the in-stack instruments would "take a lot of the guesswork out of a lot of problem areas."

His only support on the 18-member board, however, came from San Francisco Supervisor Dianne Feinstein. She said the instruments would enable inspectors for the first time to detect nighttime violations of district regulations.

But the other directors preferred to stick with the present system, which leaves it to the district's air pollution control officer, D.J. Callaghan, to decide if in-stack monitoring is warranted. He has the authority to order it if he finds a source of pollution "in potential violation" of district emission limits.

In other business, the board extended to Napa the southern portions of Sonoma and Solano counties the district's requirement that 1955 through 1962 model year motor vehicles be equipped with crankcase control devices on transfer of ownership, effective Oct. 1.

The board also approved purchase of air measuring instruments for $22,107 and of 12 new

State Colleges' High Turnover

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A staff report revealed Wednesday that resignations by senior California state college faculty members rose 60 per cent last year as the turnover rate hit a three year high of 10 per cent.

College authorities agreed two years without a pay raise, plus an increased work load probably contributed to the rise.

The report noted the "overall mix of departures remained unchanged with nearly half caused by nonreappointment and 40 per cent by resignations."

Sentencing On Avoiding Draft

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Philip M. Ayala, 23, will be sentenced Oct. 18 for falsely claiming he was undergoing orthodontic treatment so he could avoid military service.

Ayala, allegedly involved with a dentist in a draft evasion scheme involving the use of phony braces, was convicted by a federal court jury of violating Selective Service regulations.

He was one of 10 Selective Service registrants indicted along with Dr. Bernard Bender, 52, a dentist.

One of the counts against the dentist is that he aided and abetted Ayala to evade the draft. Evidence showed that Ayala's claim that he was required to wear braces on his teeth for four months was false.

Ayala faces a possible maximum penalty of five years in prison and $10,000 fine.

Second Shot In Air Fare War

NEW YORK (UPI)—A West German charter airline has announced that effective Feb. 1 round-trip transatlantic fares during the off-season will be $135 —an all-time low —and $190 during the peak summer season.

The announcement Wednesday by Atlantis Airways was the second shot fired in the air fare price war that Lufthansa began a week ago when it unilaterally reduced transatlantic rates by 30 per cent.

Some airline sources said the price war could drive round-trip charter rates between New York and western Europe to as low as $120 or less.

Panel Wants Reports On Development

I-J Special Report

CONCORD — Cities and counties in the Bay Area were ordered yesterday to report to the Regional Water Quality Control Board all new land development as an early warning system against overloading sewage systems.

Cities and counties found to be approaching the capacity of their sewage systems would face construction bans until expansion of the systems was completed.

The reporting requirement will apply to residential, commercial and industrial subdivisions.

The regional board was empowered to require subdivision reports by the state's tough 1970 antipollution law, but had not applied it until yesterday's unanimous action.

The reports will be required quarterly.

In other action, the board eliminated private hardship as a ground for exemption from construction bans. Only two exemptions have been granted since the 1970 law empowered the board to order such bans.

Both exemptions were in Marin, but the board's policy of allowing them was contrary to state administrative procedures that allow exemptions only for public hardship, such as for low cost housing or a hospital.

Environment Report Readied For Study

The San Rafael Planning Commission has approved a detailed environment and design review amendment to the city's zoning ordinance.

The amendment, to go before the city council for a public hearing, spells out what the planning department believes to be a proper balance between the natural environment and manmade structures, according to Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner.

It deals with architecture for structures, color, landscaping, lighting and other factors in the design of buildings, Hotchner said.

He called the amendment a "major step in improving the appearance of the city in the futute." He added that many conservationist groups, citizen organizations and real estate associations have expressed approval of the architectural control amendment.

In other action, the commission said the planning staff could routinely approve adding a bedroom or bathroom to a single family residence or duplexes, but the commission would have to approve adding a kitchen.

Hotchner said the commission felt that an additional kitchen "goes beyond the scope of a single family home," and gives rise to illegal rooming houses in areas zoned for single family dwellings.

For the second straight meeting, the commission spent more than an hour debating the legality of imposing an access park to the Smith Ranch Airport that would cut across the property of a proposed mobile home site.

Hotchner said city attorney Fred C. Robbins said the city should not get into the act because at this time the ownership of the airport is in doubt.

While DSI Co. of Los Angeles holds the title, the First National State Bank of New Jersey and the Fidelity Bank, holders of the first deed of trust, say the trust is in default.

The commission carried the item over to its next meeting, Sept. 28.

YMCA Plans Youth Program

The Marin Young Men's Christian Association has announced plans for a program which will bring together elementary and high school students with similar interests.

According to the YMCA, the groups will be self-directing, with members planning and organizing their own activities with the help of a young adult adviser.

Additional information may be obtained at the Marin YMCA headquarters at 241 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia.

Pope Launches Crusade For Relief To Pakistan

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI launched a crusade today for increased aid for East Pakistan, where Roman Catholic relief officials say a disastrous famine is near.

A Vatican announcement said the Pope, who stopped over briefly in cyclone-ravaged East Pakistan during an Asian tour last year, was deeply worried by the additional plight brought to that country by civil war.

"Pope Paul VI is deeply concerned over the steady worsening in the condition of victims of the Pakistan conflict," the statement said. It said the pontiff asked leaders of Roman Catholic relief organizations to meet in Rome Saturday to discuss ways of stepping up aid programs.

Vatican sources said the announcement indicated Pope Paul intended to make East Pakistan relief the subject of one of the great crusades of his pontificate, comparable to his past campaigns for Vietnam peace and for victims of a 1966 famine in India.

The largest Roman Catholic relief organization, Caritas International, said in a statement two days ago that "unless adequate measures are taken within the next few weeks to implement an extraordinary plan of international mutual aid, East Pakistan will be ravaged by a terrible famine, which will likely cause a new and even larger influx of migrants to India."

ROCKEFELLER RESIGNATION DEMANDED

About 1,300 demonstrators gather on the steps of the New York Capitol in Albany in support of demands that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Corrections Commissioner Russell Oswald resign. The number of persons attending yesterday's orderly but noisy two-hour rally fell far short of the 8,000 to 10,000 predicted by organizers. Meanwhile, Attica inmate Richard Moore, 48, died at a hospital from wounds suffered when law officers retook the prison Sept. 13, sending the dath toll from the five-day revolt to 41.

Hearing For Hub Woman Scheduled

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A preliminary hearing has been set for Nov. 11 in San Francisco Municipal Court for Nancy E. Waldroth, 27, of San Anselmo, on narcotic and weapon charges.

Mrs. Waldroth was arrested Sept. 11 along with a San Francisco man after being stopped for going through a red light. Police said they found pills and white substance in boots worn by the pair as well as a hypodermic needle. While taking the couple to the police station, officers said they heard an ominous click from the back seat where Mrs. Waldroth and her companion, Theodore Jones, 33, were seated.

They said they found a small derringer pistol tucked into the seat.

Mrs. Waldroth has been charged with felony possession of narcotics and a misdemeanor count of having drug paraphernalia and a loaded gun in a car.

Rock Group Member In Fair Condition

Ron McKernan, harmonica player for the Grateful Dead rock group, was reported in fair condition today in Novato General Hospital, although officials declined to disclose the nature of the illness.

Child Care Center Approved In Cotati

The commission granted a one-year permit for the center at 768 East Cotati Avenue and said that street improvements need not be made until a permanent permit is issued.

The commission heard that the center will open at 7:30 a.m. and will operate a nursery school program as well as caring for children before and after school hours. Representatives of the nonprofit organization said parents who cannot afford school fees may work for the school instead.

In other action, the commission approved the request of William Klebe to build a single-family home in a multifamily district at Valparaiso and West Sierra avenues and the plans of Joseph Dorfman to build a 36-unit apartment complex on Arthur Street.

7 Acres Burned In Grass Fire

A wind-whipped grass fire apparently set by youngsters burned about seven acres behind Hidden Valley School in Sleepy Hollow yesterday.

The San Anselmo Fire Department sent five trucks to the fire which started at 5:30 p.m. Firemen said that a house at 335 Fawn Drive was threatened by the blaze but did not catch fire.

The fire was contained within about 20 minutes but firemen remained for several hours mopping up.

Firemen said today two young boys had been seen in the area just as the fire started on school property.

Athletes Escape Injury In Crash

SANTA MARIA, Calif. (UPI) —A bus with 53 members of a high school junior varsity football team blew a tire on busy U.S. 101 Thursday, plunged through a divider and ended up in the opposite lane.

The California Highway patrol said the vehicle narrowly missed several autos and came to an upright stop on a shoulder of the highway. None of the members of the Santa Barbara High School team was injured.

Fill Committee Backs Houses

Marin County Fill Committee yesterday gave conditional approval for eight or nine waterfront homes planned along the Richardson Bay shoreline below East Strawberry Drive, south of Island Drive.

Before developer Stanely W. Taylor can go ahead with construction, he must submit development plans that are acceptable, the fill committee decided. Committee members said the plans presented yesterday by Taylor lacked sufficient detail.

Irving L. Schwartz, executive director of the fill committee, said Taylor wants to build nine homes on pilings, with boat docks, but the fill committee wants to limit the number to eight.

Marin County Fill Committee members who met with Taylor were Lawrence Loder, acting public works director; Pierre W. Joske, parks and recreation director; and Raymond Smith, representing the county planning director.

First Hall Of Justice Visit For Mrs. Jackson

The mother of Jonathon and George Jackson today visited the Marin Hall of Justice — sitting in the courtroom where Jonathon triggered the bloody events of Aug. 7, 1970.

The visit was believed to be the first time Mrs. Jackson had been in the building where Jonathon Jackson smuggled weapons into the courtroom of Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley, launching an escape attempt by three San Quentin prisoners.

Young Jackson, Judge Haley and two of the prisoners were killed in a resulting shoot-out outside the building.

Mrs. Jackson, of Pasadena, accompanied her attorney, Edward C. Bell of San Francisco, to the building today for a hearing on her petition for a court order directing San Quentin officials to turn over to her personal property of her son, George.

Mrs. Jackson declined to discuss it with reporters today, but she is believed to have refused to testify in the Hall of Justice before the Marin County Grand Jury last January in connection with the case against Angela Davis and Ruchell Magee stemming from the 1970 shoot-out.

A room was rented at the San Rafael Holiday Inn for the grand jury session when Mrs. Jackson reportedly said entering the Hall of Justice would be too "emotionally upsetting" for her.

She appeared clam today as she sat in the courtroom, now occupied by Judge Henry J. Broderick.

She claims that San Quentin officials have returned some of George Jackson's property, but that some of it was given to Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales.

Bales has declined to say what property of Jackson's he has, but Bell says it includes a manuscript of a book Jackson was working on, various correspondence dating from 1960 and legal documents pertaining to the defense of the Soledad Brothers.

Because of a crowded court calendar, Judge Broderick was unable to hear Mrs. Jackson's motion today, but continued the hearing until Monday before Judge Samuel W. Gardiner.

Protection On Car Repairs Bill Clears A Major Hurdle

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation which would help protect automobile owners against fraud by requiring state licenses for auto repair dealers has been approved by an Assembly committee over strong dealer opposition.

The measure, by Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, was approved by the Government Organization Committee and sent to the Ways and Means Committee on a split voice vote.

The measure has already been passed by the Senate.

Before the bill was approved Thursday, it was amended to put regulation of the $2.5 billion a year business under the Department of Consumer Affairs instead of the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Automobile dealers strongly opposed the bill, and Kent Redwine, representing the Northern and Southern California Motor Car Dealers Association challenged the voice vote.

"My ears are a little bad, I didn't hear the vote," he told acting committee chairman Jack R. Fenton, R-Montobello.

Fenton replied, "My ears are very good, I hear 5-2."

The bill would require licensing of auto repairs under a self-financing agency similar to the one which now licenses television repair dealers.

Licenses would cost $25 to $50 and could be suspended or revoked for fraud or negligence.

Representatives of new car dealers opposed placing the regulation under consumer affairs saying it would mean "dual regulation" since the DMV already partially regulates them.

ENVIRONMENT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan's plan to consolidate all environmental protection agencies has been rejected as "limited and superficial" by the Assembly Governmental Organization Committee.

In an 88-page report written after a public hearing on the plan, the committee said Reagan's proposal "fails to offer any substantial improvement in current state pollution problems and may, in fact, be detrimental to certain existing environmental activities."

The report, released Thursday, said the main problem with the proposal "is that it offers only a limited and superficial consolidation of the state's environmental agencies and programs."

Conservation groups, including the Sierra Club, opposed the plan at the public hearing. They blasted the plan for failing to deal with the problems of noise pollution, solid waste disposal, land use and pesticide contamination.

CREDIT CARDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill barring sex discrimination in issuing credit cards and providing strong consumer protection against merchant errors and deception has been overwhelmingly approved by the Assembly.

The bill, by Sen. Alfred Song, D-Monterey Park, was sent to the Senate Thursday on a 56-4 vote.

It requires credit card companies to correct billing errors within 60 days or lose the amount in contention. It also bars the companies from spreading false or unfavorable credit information about the card holder during such bill disputes.

The antidiscrimination section of the bill is designed to help unmarried, separated or divorced women. Supporters of the bill said such women often had difficulty in securing credit cards.

The antidiscrimination provision prevents companies from refusing to issue a credit card solely on the basis of sex, race, religion, color, national origin or ancestry.

The bill also provides for the first time that credit card buyers may refuse to pay for defective merchandise which cost more than $50 if the card holder is unable to satisfactorily settle the dispute with the merchant.

COLLEGE BOND

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has voted final legislative passage to a bill placing a $160 million community college construction bond issue on the 1972 general election ballot.

The measure by Sen. Albert Rodda, D-Sacramento, was passed Thursday by a 27-1 vote and sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan.

WELFARE DROPS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Californians on welfare declined for the fifth straight month during August, down 4,104 from July, the Reagan administration reports.

The figures did not reflect the changes resulting from the state's new welfare reform act which takes effect Oct. 1.

SCHOOL AID

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has approved a bill which would guarantee school districts an annual cost-of-living increases in state aid.

The measure was sent to the Assembly on a 25-1 vote with Sen. Clark L. Bradley casting the sole dissenting vote.

ODOMETER

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to allow a used car dealer to turn back to zero a vehicle's odometer has been shelved for this session.

Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, sponsor of the measure, asked Thursday that it be sent to a between-sessions study. He told the Senate the measure needed more refinement.

"Nobody likes the bill," Collier added.

'Never Had It So Good,' Visitors To Greece Declare

By JEFF GREER

A Marin County couple home from a month-long visit to their ancestral homeland in Greece declared that the Greeks "never had it so good" as under the present military regime.

John A. Manesis and his wife Alex, who live in Novato and operate a San Rafael restaurant, both speak Greek fluently. They said they were able to travel freely both in the popular tourist centers of Greece and in the tiny villages "11 hours by jackass or three and a half hours by taxi up the mountain."

The couple spent two weeks visiting kinfolk — some in remote areas of the old country — and two weeks in Athens. Both stressed that under the regime of former Colonel, now Premier George Papadopoulous, the country has "settled down" and at any

Under the more stable regime, Manesis said, roads have been pushed through to isolated hamlets in the mountains; water, gas and electricity have been provided, and mandatory schooling supplied for youngsters who used to grow up learning only how to toil in the fields.

When the military takeover "ended the constant turmoil of the governments and the king and queen, the villagers said 'thank God'," Manesis reported. The military leaders have encouraged development of a professional civil service in place of the bureaucrats who used to lose office each time there was a change in Athens, he said.

One result, Manesis said, has been an upsurge in industry and employment. The coffee houses — a Greek institution where jobless males usually spent their days — have virtually disappeared, he noted.

Thousands of political prisoners — including one of his own cousins — jailed since the civil war of 1946 and 1947, have been freed, Manesis reported. Still remaining in jail are only "the ones that threw bombs, maimed people. One whole prison complex in Athens is being torn out and a civic center's being built in its place," the Marin man reported.

The Greeks are intensely religious, abhor violence against each other, and obey police who are armed only with citation forms, Manesis said. "There's no muggings; no one is accosted at any hour."

SOUVENIRS — Alexandria and John Manesis have some tangible reminders of their recent trip to their ancestral homeland. Plates ornamented with paintings of the Acropolis, Greek dolls and a very special set of beads are among the trophies of the Novato couple. Those beads, Manesis said yesterday, are worry beads, carried by most male Greeks for toying with as a release from tension.

The new regime is encouraging creation of a Greek middle class, which is remaining in its native land instead of emigrating to Germany, Australia, Canada or the United States as it used to, Manesis said.

Greek drug stores are crammed with the products of West Germany and other nations; the markets are full of delicious vegetables and fruits, and lamb and goat meat are plentiful — but "Greece is no place for you if you want steaks."

The nation's pastures cannot support much cattle grazing, Manesis explained.

Greek groceries and other shops have have a centuries-old tradition of recycling, Mrs. Manesis recalled. "You bring your own sacks and bottles. You can buy 10 cents worth of sugar, or two shots of brandy for a cake. You can get your cologne bottle refilled at a pharmacy."

Private autos are common in Athens and other major cities. Rural travellers depend on buses or taxies — which Manesis said said are plentiful and inexpensive.

Both the travellers were struck by the lack of trees, shrubs and grass, which are scarce after centuries of peasants searching for fuel for cooking and heat. In addition to supplying utilities to ease the pressure on the forests, Greek officials are sponsoring tree planting programs, the couple said.

"What I saw over there made a real conservationist out of me," the husband reported.

The military government has reshaped higher as well as elementary education, Manesis reported. When he was in the U.S. Air Force, he visited Greece in 1951, and became godfather to a boy. Today his godson is attending the University of Athens under a merit scholarship and will go on to graduate studies in other countries if he passes competitive examinations.

"Getting into the universities used to be all political appointments," Manesis added. "Under the old system, the boy wouldn't have had a chance."

The traveller insisted that if there is any official censorship, it is light-handed with the Greek press and radio and nonexistant for the French, English, American and other newspapers sold daily in Athens, at hundreds of kiosks.

"I would read the U.S. paper; my uncle would be reading the same thing in the Greek papers," he said. Greece has only two television channels, neither anything to boast about, Manesis and his wife said.

"A Greek has to show no passes to go anyplace in Greece," they reported. "They come and go like Yo-Yos to America, Germany and everywhere. And they're the world's greatest seafaring men."

Tourism is a huge industry, Manesis said. "When we were there, there were 200,000 tourists from Germany and all over."

Foreign capitalists began buying up land from the peasants until the government put a stop to it, he said. But there are huge new tourist developments in many cities.

The Greeks tolerate all visitors, "even the hippies," Mrs. Manesis interjected. "The only filth we saw was the hippies."

"The poorest Greek always has a clean shirt," the husband added. "There are no slums. The only beggars are Gypsies."

His disabled grandmother, 96 years old, gets enough pension for a comfortable living in her tiny native village. "But there is no welfare for the able-bodied. If you don't work, you don't eat," Manesis said.

"There are no property taxes. My relatives couldn't understand how we ever could vote for them. 'How do you expect to retire if you have to pay property taxes!' they asked," the husband said.

Sales and income taxes and a national lottery provide most of the government's income, he explained.

Wages are rising enough and prices are low enough for "the Greeks to eat out a lot," the couple reported. They were enthusiastic in describing the traditional Greek delicacies they enjoyed on the trip.

Greek citizens are "100 per cent pro-American" because "this is is the only country that will go in and help without asking something back." Manesis said the Greeks disliked the English particularly, and blame British colonialism for much of the trouble in Cyprus, Israel and the Arab nations.

Harry S. Truman, the Kennedys and other U.S. leaders are heroes in Greece — "the bus drivers have their pictures in frames on the buses," Mrs. Manesis said. Giving a Greek a Kennedy half-dollar as a keepsake is a sure way to instant friendship.

The Greeks sympathize with the U.S. role in South Vietnam, recalling the years of the Truman Doctrine, Manesis noted. "They are willing to let us use the whole country as a base to keep things right" in the Mediterranean and Middle East, he added.

The couple left their children at home at 1423 Buchanan Street, Novato, during their journey, with Mrs. Manesis's mother. Today they were back at work in their restaurant, the Red Fox Grill at 1015 B Street in San Rafael.

One sight the Marin pair saw on their wanderings through Greek byways stuck in their minds.

"The Greek donkeys. They go out to the fields with the workers in the morning. Then they load the donkeys up and send them home without a driver," the husband explained.

"And a bus will come along. The donkeys move over to the side, let the bus go by, and then start walking down the road again," the wife completed the tale.

Maximum Back Pay Of Teacher Figured

Elizabeth Blodgett, the overweight physical education teacher ordered rehired in Marin, would be entitled to a maximum of $36,000 in back pay if she were put back on the payroll Oct. 1, a Tamalpais High School District spokesman said yesterday.

Miss Blodgett , who weighed 228 pounds at the time of her dismissal from Redwood High School in 1968, was ordered rehired on Wednesday by the state Court of Appeal.

Edward J. Neumeier, administrative assistant in the Tamalpais district, said the $36,000 figure does not include interest to which Miss Blodgett would be entitled nor does it take into account deductible pay earned by Miss Blodgett in other jobs while fighting her dismissal.

Also considered would be whether Miss Blodgett made earnest attempts to secure work after her firing, Neumeier said.

Richard V. Godino, assistant county counsel representing the Tam district, has announced the possibility of an appeal of Wednesday's decision.

Medics Will Give Views On Growth

Petaluma Hospital District directors heard last night that members of the medical community are preparing their own policy on measures needed to meet future growth and medical need.

Hillcrest Hospital Administrator Joseph Horner said the board tentatively set a special meeting for Oct. 11 at 7:30 p.m. to receive the report.

The hospital board in March adopted a growth plan that included construction of a second hospital on the eastside of Petaluma, saying it would be more economical than enlarging Hillcrest Hospital. The board also noted that a new location near Highway 101 would be more convenient for the hospital district that stretches from Marin County to Rohnert Park.

Some members of the hospital medical staff have opposed the plan, saying it would be an inconvenience to them and their patients to have the district operate two hospitals.

Plea For Larger Wilderness Area

By FRANK FARRARA

The National Park Service's two-day hearing on plans for the Point Reyes National Seashore closed yesterday with a unanimous call for a larger wilderness area.

Speaker after speaker of all ages presented a solid front on a single theme . . . the proposed 5,150 acre wilderness must be expanded.

Yesterday's hearing on the wilderness area was another variation on the theme expressed at the first day hearing on the tentative master plan . . . keep private cars out of the seashore area.

During the all-day hearing about 80 persons spoke and many backed the Sierra Club's plan for 33,000 acres of wilderness, while others merely requested the maximum feasible and a few the entire seashore.

The National Park Service's proposed wilderness plan covers 5,150 acres in the Mount Wittenberg area, north of Bear Valley Gap.

The Sierra Club advocated adding the Southern Cliffs and forest including the Lake Ranch, the Limantour and Drake's Esteros and the valleys draining into them and Tomales Point including McClure's Beach and Point Reyes Station.

A wilderness area can be designated only by an act of Congress and only Congress can change the designation. Several speakers urged that the land proposed for wilderness area be protected on an interim basis until a final determination is made. If it is lost to other uses in the interim period, then it would be lost as wilderness, they claimed.

In contrast the tentative master plan covering possible development, can be changed by National Park Service officials, and they indicated during the hearing they would take into consideration the public demands before submitting a final plan.

Louis F. Clarke of Alameda, a past president of the Sierra Club, urged including coastal area in the wilderness area because "there is no coastline in the entire state of California preserved as wilderness."

Other speakers said the wilderness area should be expanded because Point Reyes is "a tranquilizer," a place where youngsters can experience a sense of adventure, a spot that is "food for the weary body and mind," and a place of natural beauty near a major metropolitan area.

Jerry Friedman, chairman of the Environmental Action Committee of West Marin, presented a petition containing the signatures of 231 students from Novato High School supporting the Sierra Club.

Among those representing groups backing expanded wilderness were: Harold E. Gregg of the Marin Conservation League; William J. Duddleson, speaking for the Sierra Club and a coalition of conservation groups in West Marin; Dr. Easton Rothwell, Inverness Improvement Association; Jonas Morris, National Parks and Conservation Association; John Smail, executive director of the Point Reyes Bird Observatory; Walter Weyman, Tomales Bay Association; Lewis Crutcher, chief of plans and designs, East Bay Regional Park; Alex MacMillan, National Audubon Society; Frances Stewart, Bolinas Future Studies.

Joseph C. Rumburg Jr., director of the western region of the National Park Service, promised that the National Park Service would be responsible to the public testimony.

Written statements on the master plan and wilderness proposal may be mailed to John L. Sansing, superintendent of the seashore, at the Point Reyes National Seashore, Point Reyes, until Oct. 23.

Cyprus Tension Seen In Greece, Turkey

By VICTOR WALKER
Toronto Telegram News Service

ATHENS — After three years of almost fruitless regotiation, there are indications that a time of decision is approaching for the island of Cyprus.

Observers say either the talks between the island's two communities will soon peter out, risking violent developments, or a new impetus through concessions by both sides will develop.

The pressures for a settlement stem from three main sources: The full, if rarely stated, appreciation in Athens and Ankara that neither Greece nor Turkey can afford to war over Cyprus; the U.S. desire to reduce the number of potential trouble spots in the Mediterranean by eliminating Cyprus as one of them; and the financial difficulty for the United Nations in maintaining a multi-national force in the island to keep the peace between the two communities.

Some diplomats view these pressures as lying behind the decision of the Cypriot president, Archbishop Makarios, to pay a six-day visit to the Soviet Union in June.

The emerging situation in Cyprus, on the face of it, is highly threatening.

It now is just three and one half years since Greece and Turkey had their third, and narrowest, escape from a drift into war over the future of Cyprus. Finally negotiations between the island's two communities began in the summer of 1968. These talks now are clearly deadlocked.

Crux of the dispute is how the powers and privileges should be shared up between the island's 80 per cent Greek Cypriot population and 20 per cent Turkish Cypriot minority.

Complicating it is the vexed question of "enosis", union of the island with Greece, which was the banner under which the Greek Cypriots fought the British for their independence, and which had been a Cypriot aspiration since long before.

The division of the powers was supposedly settled by the 1959 agreement — between the two communities and Greece, Turkey and Britain as guarantor powers — on the basis of which the British pulled out of Cyprus.

It now is generally accepted that the agreement gave the Turkish community more than a fair share, though how much more is something that three years of negotiation has still not been able to resolve.

Recent statements by Archbishop Makarios and the Turkish Cypriot leader, Mr. Raouf Denktash, indicate that on fundamental issues the gap is still as wide as ever.

Makarios says the talks have resulted in agreement on the Turkish Cypriot share in government services and the island's political life. "Beyond this, however, the Turkish Cypriots are demanding autonomy with a central executive institution. Acceptance of such a demand would be tantamount to creation of a state within a state . . . (and) is entirely inadmissible to the Greek side."

Makarios, whose formal policy is that enosis is "desirable but not at present feasible," also rejected a Turkish Cypriot demand for a permanent renunciation of enosis.

Denktash declared that only renunciation of enosis can avert a war between Greece and Turkey "sooner or later". In the Turkish Cypriot view, it is impossible for the two communities to live together as one nation. But while "the Turkish Cypriots want autonomy, the Greek Cypriots offer administration."

The Turkish Cypriot inhabitants of Cyprus have now largely collected in a few areas of the island and, disdaining Greek Cypriot invitations to return to their homes have set up self-powered enclaves which could easily become a basis for partition.

There have recently been threats to make this situation official, with references in Anakara to the enclaves as "the 19th province of Turkey" and talk of establishing an "air bridge" between them and Turkey.

Makarios has pledged "reaction by all means" if these threats are implemented.

While the threat is clear, the possiblilities of settlement are in one respect greater than at any time before.

Before you look at their new ones, look at their old ones.

Now that new car time is upon us, gosh knows, we hate to be the ones to spoil all the fun.

After all, what's more exciting than taking the family down to see the shiny new models or to hear the fast-talking salesmen?

It's just that during all that hoopla, you may not want to pick up one of those exciting new cars.

For the unpleasant fact of the matter is that junkyards throughout the country are doing a thriving business on automobiles that seemingly just yesterday were showroom stars.

Which is why we suggest a trip to the junkyard before you decide to put a new car in your own yard.

And why we suggest that that new car be a Volkswagen.

For while we can't promise you how long one will last, we can tell you that over 13 million Volkswagens are still on the road.

And when one drops out, even then it's not always destined to be dropped in a pile. For old Volkswagens have a habit of becoming other things: like new dune buggys.

All in all, we owe it all to a decision we made 24 years ago: To spend very little time making our little car look better. And a great deal of time making it work better.

So far, that one decision has kept us out of a lot of trouble.

INSIDE IT'S DIFFERENT — Mill Valley Scout Hall appears relatively unchanged from the outside from the days when it was declared unsafe by the city. But since last June the hall's interior has undergone a complete transformation, thanks to $80,000 worth of volunteer labor and donated materials.

Hundreds Of Colleges Are About Broke

WASHINGTON (UPI) —As many as 254 of the nation's private colleges, "submerged in a sea of red ink," could be out of business within 10 years, the Association of American Colleges said today.

"If these institutions are permitted to vanish, our culture will have lost essential resources," the association's research director, William W. Jellema, said in a study of the financial status of private colleges.

"In all, there are 254 institutions in our study expecting deficits in 1970-71 that will have exhausted their total liquid assets under a policy of business as usual within 10 years," the study said. "Half of them have already depleted their liquid assets. They are broke already."

"Over 100 institutions we found can go less than one year. Seventy-four of these 107 private accredited four-year colleges and universities cannot even last a fraction of a year. They have exhausted their total liquid assets."

The 894-member organization did not name any of the colleges whose resources are exhausted but it did locate them by state and religious affiliation.

It said 21 of the 74 schools unable to last even part of a year are in Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota.

Others are in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin, California, Oregon, Washington, Hawaii, Alaska, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Of these, 20 are Catholic institutions.

MILL VALLEY SCOUT HALL

New Lease On Life For Building

By PAT ANGLE

Mill Valley Scout Hall, closed as unsafe in June of 1970, now has a new second floor, a completely remodeled interior and a new lease on life, thanks to a determined and dedicated group of Southern Marin residents.

If all goes well, the renovated building will reopen Nov. 1 as a well-equipped center for Scouting activities, according to Carl Haynes, president of the hall's board of trustees.

Construction and repair work is 90 per cent complete, he said, and the remaining work should be finished in the next several weeks. More than $30,000 in donated materials, $8,400 in cash contributions and thousands of hours of volunteer labor have gone into the huge effort, he said.

"We can't even thank people publicly," said Robert McVey, Explorer Scout advisor and former scoutmaster. "So many people have helped and given us their time and money and supplies that we simply would not be able to name them all."

Last summer the task of bringing the building up to minimum safety standards seemed formidable indeed. The structure, built in the 1880s, had deteriorated to the point that the City of Mill Valley had threatened to shut it down. "It was really a horror, a firetrap," Haynes said.

Contractors estimated that $20,000 was needed to bring the hall up to basic safety standards, McVey said. In 1954, a new foundation had been constructed for the old building and some structural repairs had been done.

But even so, it was obvious that the tired old hall, which had been a tavern and a laundry before being donated to the Scouts in 1919 by the Billings family, was on its last legs.

At stake, Tamal District scout leaders realized, was the only Scout meeting hall in Southern Marin, used by an average of 300 young people a week.

Raising such a large sum of money seemed almost impossible, but Scout officials believed it could be done. They chose Mill Valley Postmaster John Little and McVey to coordinate the effort.

At first it looked as though the men had overestimated the generosity of the public. "Save Scout Hall" donation boxes, constructed by the Cub Scouts and placed in stores and other businesses, collected only $200. A pancake breakfast, and garden and rummage sales, brought in a total of $1,300. "All we needed at that point," quipped one man, "was another $18,500.

Then the small group had some luck. The Mill Valley Teen Club, a youth group which folded about three years ago, turned over $3,300 left in its treasury to the Scouts. And the Mill Valley Lions Club decided to make the renovation of Scout Hall their community service project.

Soon, according to Little, donations of materials and offers of labor began pouring in "from all over the Bay Area." The amount of contributions and offers of help was so great that the men realized they would be able to accomplish much more than the necessary repairs.

Once the building's interior had been outfitted with plasterboard in the interests of fire safety, wiring was replaced completely and a new ventilation system installed. The old wiring had been pretty grim, according to Haynes. "At one time we couldn't have the lights and a coffee pot going at the same time," he said.

In the most ambitious projects of the renovation, a second floor, complete with troop rooms, meeting rooms and a new furnace system, was built into the high-ceilinged hall. In addition, the hall's kitchen was enlarged and remodeled, as were the restrooms, and a new roof was put on the building.

Today, despite the remaining debris of construction, the hall, interior with its clean walls and sunny rooms, could almost be taken for a new building. To date, a total of $80,000 worth of labor and materials has been donated to thecause.

One large front meeting room has been named the Harvey Chapman room, in memory of a retired engineer for the State Highway department who died in April. Chapman who took part in scout work for many years, was one of the people involved in the project from the beginning, even though he did not live to see it completed.

Not surprisingly, the delighted scout leaders have great plans for the hall, which will now accomodate a complete line of scouting activities, from courts of honor to father-son dinners.

In the past the hall was simply a meeting place. But the scout leaders are hoping it will become " a real scout hall," a place where boys and girls can come for scout activities, and to learn and have fun as well.

Ex-Convict Admits To 119 Burglaries

BIG BEAR LAKE, Calif. (UPI)—During the past two weeks Rex E. Keller has been in jail his conscience has bothered him. Keller, 42, held on charges of possession of a firearm by an ex-convict, told deputies Thursday he had committed 119 burglaries from Fresno to San Diego since 1968.

Keller estimated he had taken $1 million in diamonds and other gems, $100,000 in silver and watches and about $100,000 in cash.

Deputies said they recovered many of the stolen items at Keller's house here but did not disclose what they were worth.

Deputies quoted Keller as saying he confessed the crime spree to relieve his conscience.

Enrironment Said Most Important

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Dr. Robert Shane of the National Research Council said today new products may have to prove that they will not endanger the earth's ecology before they can be mass produced.

"Ecological consideration must pre-empt the profit motive where they conflict," he told the general session of the annual convention of the California Savings & Loan League.

Shane said that the only way to lower the quantity of trash and garbage is to launch a total national commitment which separates various basic materials that can be recycled.

"In addition to solving the problems of how to economically collect and dispose of the 1.2 billion tons of trash and garbage the nation now produces annually," he said, "we must also begin to look at products and judge them from the standpoint of ecology before they go into mass production."

Every year about $30 million is apportioned to the states for use in wildlife restoration.

STANDOFF IN DETROIT — Helmeted police and anti-Nixon demonstrators face each other outside a lecture hall in Detroit while inside the President addresses the city's economic leaders on the wage-price freeze. About 4,000 jeering demonstrators, both students opposed to the war and labor union members against the freeze, took part in the protest. The President, however, did not see the hostile crowd — he arrived and departed by way of a rear entrance for his talk before the Economic Club of Detroit.

Nixon Remark Baffles Auto Chiefs

DETROIT (UPI)—The chairmen of the big three auto companies were bewildered by President Nixon's reference Thursday night to a new nonpolluting engine the government would announce soon.

"I never heard of it," said a dismayed Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co., after the President's speech. "I have no idea what it was."

Similar expressions of ignorance of the engine were expressed by James M. Roche, chairman of General Motors, and Lynn M. Townsend, chairman of Chrysler Corp.

In his speech to the Economic Club, the President told Motor City business executives that William Ruckelshaus, director of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) would announce development of the exhaust-free engine in the next few days.

Nixon said Ruckelshaus had been "working with industry in the Detroit area" on the clean engine and that preliminary tests showed that it meets the "very strict standards of the clean air act."

Presumably the President was referring to the so-called "stratified charge" engine which essentially merges the standard internal combustion engine and a diesel engine. Auto engineers claim this engine has performed poorly in past experiments.

Ford and Roche expressed pleasure that Nixon said the government was weighing the cost of urther reducing automobile engine emissions against the value of the gains made.

On that point, Nixon said: "I think we have to realize that when Congress, or the administration carries out the will of the Congress, sets certain standards to clean up the air or clean up the water we must weigh against that how many jobs that is going to cost, and if it is going to cost a disproportionate number of jobs, what good it is going to accomplish."

Ford agreed. "The extra cost of a small improvement, which runs only about 2 per cent, raises serious questions about its worth," he said.

McCloskey's New Date To End War

McCloskey introduced a bill to that effect Thursday. He said President Nixon had failed to keep his promise to wind down the war, citing Tuesday's heavy American air raids in the North Vietnamese Panhandle.

Nixon Hints At Interest Curb If Rates Soar In Near Future

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon says he may curb interest rates in the next phase of his economic policy if lenders boost the cost of money in the next two months.

In a question and answer session with a business-dominated panel Thursday night in Detroit, Nixon also said the controls that will follow the 90-day wage-price freeze will last until inflation is checked and will cover the entire economy.

The President said interest rates were excluded from the current freeze because he feared that if rates were controlled, bankers might refuse to lend.

But he said no decision has been made yet concerning interest rates in the period after the freeze expires Nov. 13.

The President said he would base his action on "what happens to interest rates for the balance of phase I (the freeze), whether they continue to, shall we say, stay where they are or go down."

Nixon was questioned by 10 members of the Detroit Economic Club while an audience of about 5,000 of the city's top business leaders looked on.

Pickets, estimated by police at between 3,500 and 4,000, paced in front of Cobo Hall to protest Nixon's economic, civil rights and Southeast Asia policies. The President was whisked in and out of a side door and did not see the protesters.

The President appeared to change the impression he left last week when he told a news conference the post-freeze controls would affect only major industries.

"It will cover the whole economy," he said. "It will have to concentrate primarily on those areas of the economy, major industries for example, where there is greatest possibility of inflationary tendencies ... but all of the economy will be covered."

He also said the post-freeze controls would have no announced termination date.

"We are not going to set a limit on it because we believe its duration should depend upon how effectively it deals with the problem," he said. "Until we can deal with the problem of inflation . . . we believe that it is necessary to have controls."

In answer to a question, Nixon said that recent reports of possible changes in Mainland China would have no effact on his announced plan to visit that country before May.

"I would not expect the current developments to change our travel plans," the President said. Although he did not elaborate on the "developments," it was the first official recognizance by the administration of reports of a possible internal "crisis" situation on the mainland.

Nixon hinted strongly that he would fill one of two vacancies on the Supreme Court with Rep. Richard Poff, a Virginia Republican who 17 years ago signed the "Southern Manifesto" condemning the high court's school desegregation decision.

The President said that in naming replacements for retired justices Hugo L. Black and John M. Harlan, he would seek persons with a judicial philosophy similar to his first two appointees, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice Henry Blackmun. But he said he would not limit his consideration to judges.

"So teachers, legislators, for example, with great experience in the Judiciary committees of the House or Senate, they are always good possibilities," he said. "That gives you an idea of where I am turning."

Poff is second ranking Republican on the House Judiciary Committee and the only member of either chamber's judiciary committee to be prominently mentioned as a possible appointee.

Coins Stolen

Coins totaling $30 were stolen yesterday from Barney's Shell station, 421 East Washington Street, Petaluma, police reported. A window was broken to gain entry.

Sirhan Lawyers Hit The Death Penalty

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Attorneys for condemned assassin Sirhan Sirhan told the State Supreme Court Thursday the death penalty was cruel and unusual punishment.

Sirhan is in San Quentin prison where he was sent after being sentenced to death for the murder of Sen. Robert Kennedy.

The lawyers said in a brief to the court that defense attorney Luke McKissack of Hollywood was presenting the same argument to the U.S. Supreme Court which has agreed to hear a challenge of the death penalty in another case. McKissack said the death penalty was cruel and unusual punishment because it deprives a defendant of all liberties.

The short brief was a reply to the state's answer to Sirhan's original appeal that ran 700 words.

THE EDUCATION CORPS

Now Full-Time Program

By JOAN LISETOR

The Education Corps, founded in 1968 by a handful of volunteers who wanted to help young women from Marin City establish good job foundations, has grown into a career education program involving the Marin County Schools Office and the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council.

Coordinators of the original program, Barbara Boxer and Nancy Zakim, recruited volunteers to teach the women office skills and grooming tips. The following year they enlisted the aid of San Domenico School for Girls and classes were held at the school in San Anselmo.

As the program grew more services were needed and the women enlisted the aid of the EOC, which was able to provide transportation, babysitting stipends and books in some cases. As the program was about to go under from lack of funds the Novatoans for Racial Equality were able to contribute financial assistance, keeping the program going under the direction of Mrs. Kelley Litz, a member of the Education Corps.

Of the 18 students enrolled at that time at least eight found jobs while enrolled in the program. But personal problems incurred by students, plus problems the program had, mainly due to lack of funds, resulted in erratic attendance of students.

WITH FUNDS running out Mrs. Boxer and Mrs. Litz of the Education Corps and Annette Smail, education coordinator for the EOC, approached Virgil S. Hollis, superintendent of the Marin County Schools, asking for help.

The county was authorized through legislation passed in 1968 to offer courses with on-the-job training, according to Carol Horan, coordinator of vocational counseling and work experience for the Marin County Schools.

"Each county's program is flexible to meet its own needs," she explains. "The only stipulations are that classes be held in existing facilities and not be a duplication of a course already offered."

With a few changes, such as location of the classes from San Domenico to Sir Francis Drake High School and the Manzanita Center in Marin City, the county was able to provide funds to pay the teachers, transportation, business machines and text books.

Teachers are Muriel Lynch at the Manzanita Center and David Anderson at Drake. Anderson taught the course when it was sponsored by the Education Corps and EOC.

THE MAJOR change, according to Miss Horan, is that the courses, which began Sept. 13 is now open to anyone, while it previously served only the poor.

It does coincide with the EOC's goals and purposes, says Mrs. Smail.

"Our agency is seeking to promote rational change within existing public institutions," she says. "Traditionally the schools have discriminated against the poor and have only served the middle class with a rare policy to recruit the poor in their programs.

"We want to see the poor get their fair share of jobs for the future; we want to see them trained for the future, for, unless they are trained, the suburban ghettos will swell in numbers; we will have more unemployment, more hopelessness, and where there is hopelessness, violence is bred."

Surveys in Marin have shown there is a manpower shortage in the secretarial field, according to Miss Horan.

ANDERSON'S CLASS is set up as a simulated office running a mythical company, AM Enterprises, Inc. It incorporates most of the activities of a regular business, demonstrating the importance of certain skills and where they fit into the overall operation of an office.

"The program makes the employee (student) aware of the requirements of business as it relates to attitude, dress, productivity, quality of work, vocabulary, etc.," says Anderson. "We are equipped to train people for 20 jobs and in 25 different skills."

Jobs include file clerk, telephone operator, receptionist, cashier, stenographer, typist, key punch operator, accounting clerk, pay roll clerk and operators of various machines.

Skills include typing, filing, arithmetic, word usage, spelling, handwriting, shorthand, personal grooming, work attitudes, interviewing punctuality and many office techniques and procedures.

Anderson takes pride in the women he has taught who are now employed with private firms in Marin and in county and state jobs.

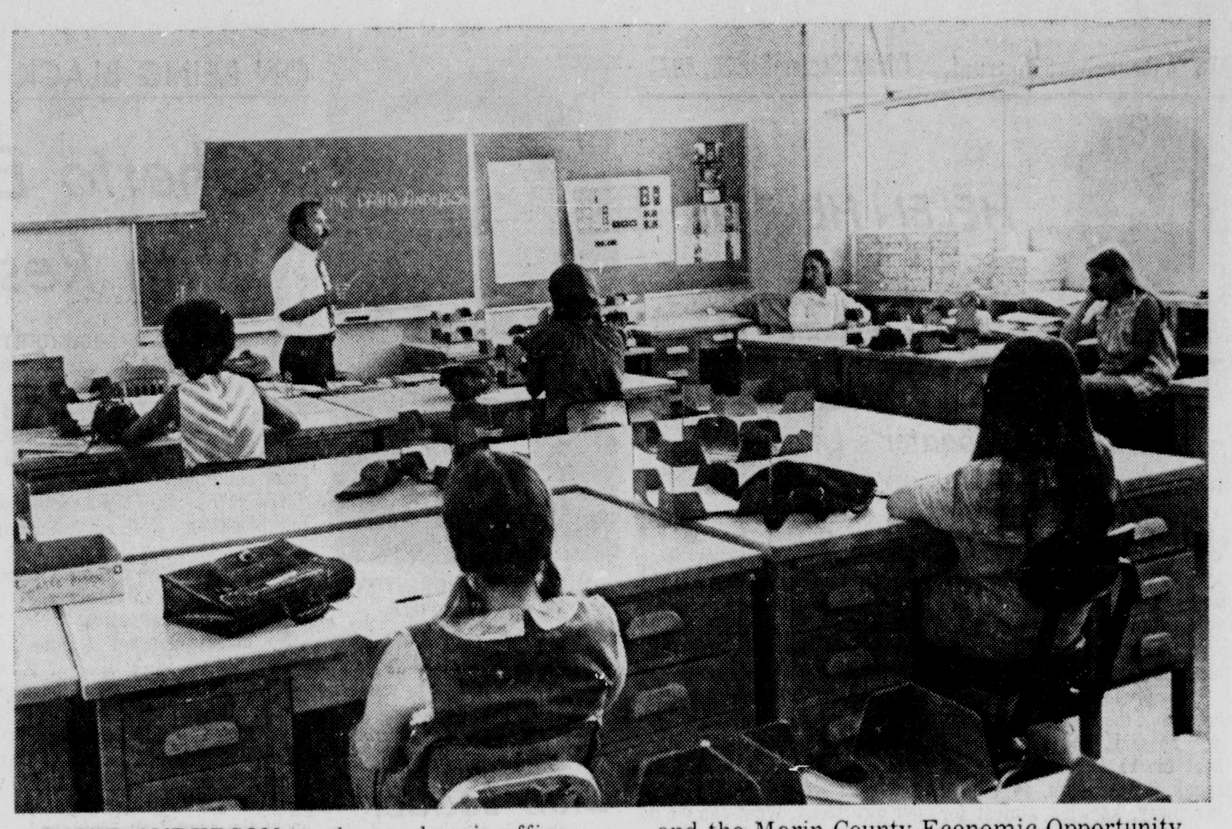
Sue, a Drake High School graduate, was an EOC volunteer when she heard about the classes. She continued there as a volunteer from September of 1970 until May of this year, when she finished the course and became a paid staff member.



DAVID ANDERSON teaches a class in office occupations which is set up as a simulated office running a mythical company. The class grew out of a program sponsored for the past three years by the Education Corps and the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council and held at the San Domenico School for Girls. Marin County Schools and EOC are now working together offering the class at Sir Francis Drake High School.

Interest In Child Care Centers Growing

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Adequate facilities to meet the needs of children of working parents are a major concern of the women's liberation movement, and various governmental agencies are beginning to express more interest.

The number of children whose mothers work has increased sharply the past 10 years. In 1960 some 16 million children under 18 had working mothers. Today there are nearly 26 million.

The U.S. Office of Education estimates only a half-million of the children are able to be housed in adequate licensed day care centers, and data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics and welfare departments indicate that more women would work if adequate child care centers were provided.

BUT CHILD CARE centers have been slow in coming.

However, the Office of Education is now providing $600 million each year in early childhood development programs, and this summer it opened its own child care center to serve 50 children of parents who work in its offices.

The children in the pilot project are three and four-year-olds, 60 per cent of whom come from low-income households. Ten per cent of the children have some sort of handicap.

Office of Education researchers feel the group of 50 offers a large enough sample to determine the impact of the center on the parents' morale, use of sick leave, and general work performance.

"In the past, day care has been either custodial, with children kept tranquilized by television or too many naps, or, if it included creative play, it was too expensive," says Dr. Martin Engel of the Office of Education's National Center for Education Research and Development.

The program provides a demonstration center on early childhood open to visiting experts in the field as an observation laboratory. It will also serve as a model training ground for people entering the early childhood professions.

DR. ENGLE explains, "We hope in this project to fuse custodial and nutritional care, creative play and education." The Office of Education generally hopes to use the center for several purposes. It will be able to implement recommendations which have emerged from research in various government-supported programs.

The center's programs include curricular materials, new strategies in training staff, and new concepts in teaching. By practicing what it preaches, the office hopes to encourage state and local governments and private employers to operate similar centers.

The Office of Education is not the first federal agency to have its own day care facilities. The Department of Labor has a program operated by a private non-profit group which is studying the effect of reliable day care for children upon employee morale and stability. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has a center serving 60 employees offering low-cost custodial and nutritional care.

Birthday Party In Mill Valley

By MOLLY MARIN

Mrs. Axel Gravander — known to her friends as "Mama" Gravander — was given a birthday party in celebration of her 83rd anniversary Sunday at her home in Mill Valley. Hosts were her daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Felds, who live with her.

Some 35 to 40 neighbors and other friends gathered to honor the famed Swedish weaver, who still teaches spinning.

BACK FROM an extended wedding trip to Puerto Rico are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lynn Neely, who will make their home in Columbus, Ohio, where both are affiliated with Ohio State University. The bride is the former Christina Peers, daughter of Lt. Gen. and Mrs. W. R. Peers of Kentfield and of Fort Myer in Arlington, Va. The couple was married June 19 at Fort Myer chapel.

AN OLD fashioned friendship quilt was quilted and presented to Gayle Ubhaus of Mill Valley at a bridal shower given Saturday by Mrs. James Brown and Rose Ann Ashen, both of Mill Valley.

Gayle, who is the daughter of Mrs. Frank Ubhaus, will become the bride of Ronald Newman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newman, all of Mill Valley, on Oct. 9 at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church.

Each guest received a square of fabric with her invitation requesting that she create a quilt patch for the bride-elect. Mrs. Brown assembled the patches before the party, set them into a quilt top and had it on the frame ready for quilting when guests arrived.

Special guests were the mothers of the soon-to-be-married couple. Others were Mrs. Ronald Ubhaus, Kim Chamberlain, Jo-Anne Schendel, Karolyn Wallinsky, Carolyn Floyd, Colleen Swendeman, Carol Anderson, Penny Pohl, Dotty Packham, Sandi Williams, Linda Thaning, Jeanne Brock, Sharron Willerton and Mrs. John Anderson.

ON THE AGENDA

Consumer Consultant Will Prepare AAUW Branch For Study Of Dollar

Sylvia Siegel, consultant to the Association of California Consumers, will prepare members of the Mill Valley Branch of the American Assocation of University Women for their fall study topic, "A Dollar's Worth," at the group's opening luncheon meeting Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. at the Mill Valley Community Church.

Mrs. Siegel, a law student who was for two years executive director of the consumer association which has its headquarters in Sausalito, will be introduced by Mrs. Ralph Mead, chairman of the fall study section on consumer problems.

Future speakers planned in implementation of the study topic will be a lawyer from the California Rural Legal Assistance League and a representative of the Federal Trade Commission.

A Mill Valley resident since 1956, Mrs. Siegel was active in labor relations before turning her attention to consumer problems. She is a graduate of Wayne University in Detroit.

McNEAR PARENT-Teacher Association will have its annual school picnic tomorrow from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the elementary school in Petaluma.

The two sixth grade classes will sponsor a carnival to benefit their outdoor education fund.

Mrs. Vernon Hodapp is chairman.

STRETCH AND sew expert, Pat McCall, will demonstrate methods of sewing with stretch fabrics for members of the Corte Madera Women's Club at a meeting Tuesday at 1 p.m. at the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

She will also offer a preview of new fashion colors and trends. Miss McCall is a former home economics teacher at Tamalpais High School.

SAN MARIN High School Parent-Faculty Club is having its first program of the school year Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the gymnasium of the school in Novato.

Following introduction of the faculty Richard Silver will discuss the school's math program.

MEMBERS OF Mill Valley's Chaparral Chapter 122 of Theta Rho are having a car wash tomorrow at Menzio's Mobile Service Station at East Blithedale Avenue and Camino Alto from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Proceeds will go to the club's funds.

LOCH LOMOND Yacht Club's annual luau is being held Saturday evening at the yacht club in San Rafael.

The party with a Polynesian theme will begin with cocktails at 6:30; dinner will be served at 8 o'clock.

Chairman, Mrs Robert Bohanna of San Rafael, is being assisted by Mmes. Albert Harris of San Rafael and Michael Wedge of Novato.

SPECIAL GROUP

Marin Parents Get Help From 'Contact'

A special self-help group of parents of teen-agers called "Contact" is meeting each Monday night in San Rafael to talk about "whatever is bothering them" or what they are interested in, announced Audry Fatooh, a leader and member of the group.

Contact was started last year by a group of parents whose children had experienced their first contact with the Marin County Probation Department through minor difficulties with the law.

Now it's spreading out from merely parents in a crisis situation to any parent who's worried about the children's behavior and wants to talk, said Mrs. Fatooh. The group is for the single parent as well as husbands and wives.

"IT'S NOT an encounter," stressed Jean Sternberg of the Family Service Agency, who serves as a consultant with the group. "It's supportive and helpful to the parent," she explained.

The talk usually centers around current problems, ways of thinking about changes in society or personalized situations. "Whatever's bothering," she added.

Now sponsored by the YWCA, the Family Service Agency of Marin and the Marin County Probation Department, Contact has resumed weekly meetings after a summer vacation and meets each Monday at 8 p.m. at Jean Sternberg's office, room 205, 1005 A Street, San Rafael.

Agencies, churches, drop-in centers and other groups often refer parents to Contact, but the group is open to any parent who wishes to participate. Sometimes persons from the group have sought professional counseling after their fears of such agencies were allayed, Mrs. Fatooh said.

THE IDEA is for parents who have been in the group a while to become member-leaders for it or other groups, should the numbers of participants increase sufficiently.

Parents who wish to participate in Contact may call the YWCA or Mrs. Fatooh.

Denim Dates To Columbus

NEW YORK (UPI) —Denim, as "now" as say, a moon shot, once in its own way helped to prove that the world was round.

This sturdy fabric, highly popular throughout fall and winter fashions, came to America's shores on the ships Columbus sailed to discover the New World. They were used to make the sails of the explorer's ships, reports the Denim Council of the U.S.A. The term "jeans" is believed to have derived from "gene" used to describe the heavy cotton trousers worn by the sailors of Genoa.

Dungarees also were an import originally. In Dhungaree, India, a cotton cloth was woven coarsely for sailors' trousers and so named "dhungaree".

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Time To Get Smart Dear And Pull Out Of Cheater's Life

DEAR HELEN:

You probably get tired of such things, but I'm another woman in love with a married man. I met him two years ago when he and his wife were separated. Even when they went back together, I still kept on seeing him.

I got pregnant, and he swore he wasn't the father (a vasectomy, he said), and told me if I kept the baby he would never speak to me again, so I gave her away, knowing almost for certain she was his.

Now I hear his wife is expecting. When I faced him with it he shrugged, "So I lied . . . "

He expects me to keep on with him. And, call me a fool, Helen, but I want to because I still love him. Then there are times when I want to sue him for the loss of my baby. — WHICH

DEAR "WHICH?":

Neither!

Get smart (finally) and pull out of this cheater's life. You've drifted long enough. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My brother Kirk is a lazy good-for-nothing and his wife is no better, but they have a year-old baby — so the whole family gives them handouts because we don't want the baby to suffer.

Kirk doesn't work. No excuse except he's tired after being out constantly with his jailbird friends. He's been arrested five times and our parents have had to bail him out, pay lawyers' fees, etc. which they can't afford.

If it weren't for us, he wouldn't even feed the baby, pay the rent or utilities. It's got so now he comes over and helps himself to anything he wants at our houses. Anyone but a relative, we'd call it "breaking and entering." Their apartment is so filthy we won't go there.

When the brothers and sisters decide to get tough, Mom cries and says we're going against our own blood. What can we do about this drunken bum — when he uses his child to keep us "giving"? — LIVING IN A NIGHTMARE

DEAR LIN:

What your family needs is a "get tough" conference which will persuade your protective mother it's time to let go . . . that playing "brother's keeper" is a dangerous and losing game.

If things are as bad as you say, the baby can be legally removed from this man's household. Then: next time he is arrested, let the law take its course. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I get fed up with the "good" people who criticize the "evil" activities of Nevada — mainly gambling, prostitution and quickie divorces.

These people, such as "Disappointed" (she jumped on you for not calling Nevada a Sodom and Gomorrah), have probably never lived in my state. Underworld characters thrive no more here than they do anywhere else. Crime is not rampant. It's a good place to live.

Nevada's only major industry is gambling. If it didn't bring tourists here, the state might face bankruptcy.

As for prostitution, true, Nevada has the only legal houses in the U.S. (and there's a question even here about their legality), but isn't it better to be legal with good health standards than let VD and crime run uncontrolled? The oldest profession will be around, no matter what, so why not out in the open where it's less dangerous? — STAN

MRS. ROBERT BRINTON
Serving second term

A Second Term For Club Leader

Serving a second term as president of the Corte Madera Women's Improvement Club is Mrs. Robert Brinton of Corte Madera, an eight-year-member of the club.

"The club's theme for the year is 'Creative Involvement,' says Ella Brinton. "Members will be encouraged to carry on a definite program of education along lines of moral, social, social welfare and civic interests."

Annual events of the club include a fresh flower hat luncheon and a bazaar, which is the major fund raising event. Proceeds are used for the maintenance of the Corte Madera Recreation Center and sponsorship of Blue Bird and Girl Scout troops. The club also sponsors arts and crafts instruction.

Mrs. Brinton, past chairman of the club's evening section, says membership is open to all women, especially those in the Larkspur-Corte Madera area, willing to support the general aims of the organization.

A native of Galveston County, Tex., the club president attended high school and business college in Santa Barbara. She has lived in Marin for 18 years. Her husband is the office manager of Hunt and Spiller Manufacturing Co., and they have a daughter, Ruth, who attends the University of California at Santa Barbara.

Mrs. Brinton's hobbies are creative stitchery, knitting and reading.

Engagement Of Couple Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Moore of San Rafael have announced the engagement of their daughter Donna Deanne Moore of Woodland Hills, to James Joseph Forgette of Woodland Hills.

Dee, as the bride-elect is known, is the sister of LeAnne Moore and Frederick E. Moore III, both of San Rafael.

She is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and Dominican College and is employed with Thomas Aquinas College in Calabasas.

James is the son of Joseph O. Forgette of Iron Mountain, Mich., and the late Mrs. Forgette.

He is the brother of Robert L. Forgette and Wallace G. Forgette, both of Iron Mountain, and Mrs. Doyne T. Barre of Reseda. He was graduated from Van Nuys High School and attended Pierce College in Woodland Hills. He is employed with Abscoa Industries in Inglewood.

Phone Food Orders Are On Comeback

Food marketing systems designed to save the homemaker time continue to be the trend in the U.S. One example is a return to telephone orders in one large southern city. But there's a new twist. The customer is provided with a list and prices of the same variety of foods found in a typical supermarket. The phoned-in order is delivered within four hours.

Soon to make its debut in America is a new type food store, developed in Europe, that allows the shopper to select items by push button, reports the American Live Stock and Meat Board.

It's similar to an automat cafeteria. Items are automatically retrieved and delivered at receiving door, and an automatic retailing machine collects the money.

ON BEING BLACK

Ghetto Expatriate Pleased With Results Of Busing

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"My first reaction was a flat 'No way!' Here we had scrimped and struggled for years to get out of the ghetto and away from a blatantly substandard school. Now we were faced with sending our child back into the same situation."

She went on, "Now, after a month, my child and I are very surprised and pleased with the situation."

No inconveniences? I questioned.

"Well, yes. We get up an hour earlier in the morning, and when I go to the school — for volunteer work and the P-TA — I have to drive farther. But, like all ghetto expatriates, I know the way," she said and smiled.

What has changed? What had made the difference?

"The difference has been made by the fact that busing is a two-way street. My child's close neighborhood friends are bused with him to the previously all-black school. There he is in class with some of his former school buddies. He's liked making new friends while still maintaining some of his old friendships. They like riding the bus."

Do you see significant changes in the previously all-black school?

"I CERTAINLY do. You'd be amazed at what parental participation and concern can do for a school. Before, I was continually frustrated — one of a few black parents trying to improve the ghetto school. We were told there was no money, no facilities and so on for a variety of needs.

"It was comparable to the drug scene. When drug abuse was primarily a ghetto problem, little could be done to control or eradicate it. But now that the problem has crossed racial and economic lines, suddenly a fantastic amount of time and energy is going into correcting the situation. A similar thing is happening in the previously all-black schools. Substandard education — when it threatens everyone — is suddenly recognized as the scourge that it really is. Collective efforts do effect change."

Do you consider the schools to be the real culprits in the evolution of substandard schools?

"Of course not. The real culprits are housed in the areas of employment and housing — real estate tactics are unbelievably rank. But, busing, though extreme — it takes extreme measures to correct extreme conditions — can be a sound interim solution to substandard schools which have plagued ghetto areas.

"ANOTHER ADVANTAGEOUS practice might be the rotation of teachers. Then all students would have equal access to the best and the worst of school personnel."

How do you view the attitudes of whites who are opposed to busing?

"Oh, I certainly understand their fears. No one is more cognizant of ghetto conditions than ghetto expatriates — we blacks who were raised in the ghetto. When we participate in the busing program, when we sublimate the inclination to salvage only our children and work for the good of all, changes are taking place. Believe me, ghetto expatriates can be 'spooked' quicker than any white."

Then you're taking an idealistic, a humanistic approach to the situation.

"NO, NOT REALLY. Just as the white parents in this neighborhood, I care about my child. It happens that by improving the entire school, I improve my child's educative prospects. They go hand in hand.

"It's like 'save the children' . . . my child is a children."

Birthday Candles Make Ideal Gifts

Newest in a line of candles are wedding candles, an anniversary candle and scented candle balls. The birthday candle, like the anniversary candle, is perfect as a gift. It comes in boy or girl styles.

The girl's candle is meant to burn from first birthday down to the 16th birthday. Use it once a year, you see. The boy's? To the 12th birthday.

According to the candlemakers, reason for the difference between the boy and girl candles is that boys stop going in for birthday parties after 12. And girls, after 16.

A New Locale For Fourth A.M. Series

A new locale — the Veterans Memorial Building at Marin Civic Center — will house the fourth season of the A.M. program, which will open next month.

Sponsored by the Family Service League, the A.M. series will feature musical programs for the first time, as the new theater is suited to concerts.

The season will open Oct. 15 with a talk by Britain's Lord Caradon on "What Hope in the Middle East?" Subsequent programs in the series will be the musical star Patrice Munsel doing "From Grand Opera to Baroque Rock;" humorist Goodman Ace in "The Top of My Head;" concert pianist Leonid Hambro in "Fun with Music;" Dr. John R. Searle speaking on "Our Obsolete Universities;" and finally Richard Rush with an illustrated program on "Antiques and Art for Fun and Profit."

A coffee hour is set at 9:30 a.m. prior to each program, which will begin at 10:30 a.m.

Season tickets are available from Mrs. G. G. Gamlen of San Rafael, Family Service League member, and some Marin bookstores.

Carpet Menu Is Bright One

Patterns, prints — grand and petite — geometric and floral — in colors subtle and surging, delicate and wild, are on the consumer's carpet menu for 1971.

According to one leading manufacturer, the move to patterned carpet began when new technology made kitchen carpet feasible and its acceptance caused pattern on the floor to spread throughout the home.

This year, more manufacturers are offering a varied choice of texture and colors in patterned carpet. Pattern is moving off the walls and settling on the floors as the focal point of the interior.

FAMILY

"Endless Summer" — A beautiful exciting travel film of surfing around the world.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Adios, Sabata" — Italian made western about a Mexican revolt in 1867 and the power hungry people behind it. Yul Brenner plays his role with a tongue-in-cheek approach. (Box-office Magazine).

"Escape from the Planet of Apes" — Through a blend in time a space ship lands on Earth 2,000 years prior to its departure. Suspense, comedy and tragedy makes this the best film of this series. Ending is too sad for young children.

"Love Story" — The personal involvement of a young couple and how they face tragedy is simply told, well acted and photographed. Some tasteless language mars an otherwise lovely film.

"New Leaf" — An aging playboy has squandered his inheritance and decides to marry a wealthy wife rather than get a job. His scheme backfires. Good comedy, excellent performances.

"Ryan's Daughter" — A romantic epic, set in World War I. Beautifully photographed against an Irish landscape metaphoric for loneliness.

"Skullduggery" — An anthropological safari in New Guinea discover the "missing link" half ape, half man. Film points up man's ignorance, bigotry and venality in in an original and witty way.

"Support Your Local Gunfighter" — A large cast of excellent actors do not save film from being mediocre. A ladies' man lands in a small western town and is mistaken for a skilled gunman. Humor is broad and silly.

"They Might Be Giants" — A former Judge who believes he is Sherlock Holmes finds a psychiatrist called Dr. Watson and a chaotic, tragi-comic fantasy is born.

"Walkabout" — An exciting adventure of two English children lost in the wilds of Australia is brilliantly presented. A stunningly photographed nature essay, and a highly moral fable is perfect for discussion groups. A study guide is available. Call the library for address.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Summer of '42" — Three adolescent boys at a summer resort during World War II read a medical book to learn all about sex. They pick up girls and follow instructions. Beautifully filmed, very low key drama.

"Two Lane Black Top" — A depressing existential story about a stock car racing freak. His only real relationship is his car. A difficult film to watch.

"Who Is Harry Kellerman" — A very successful rock song writer approaching middle age doesn't like himself at all. He is terrified by mysterious phone calls. Interesting tragi-comedy is very well acted and photographed. Nudity and cursing.

ADULTS ONLY

"Carnal Knowledge" — The sex lives of two men from college days to middle-age done in a two dimensional, cynical, satirical style does become tiresome. Fine performances from cast, language and sex are explicit.

"The Devils" — Story of a 17th Century priest whose ethics brought him in conflict with the Roman Catholic Church. It is a grizly, grotesque film using erotic fantasies and foul language for shock effect.

"Doctor's Wives" — Marital and extra-martial sex in medical circles, with operating room gore as added attraction.

"Eugenia - The Story of Her Journey Into Perversion" — Is exactly what the title implies. Sexploitation fare heavily laced with explicit sadism and satanism with hearts cut out and blood consumed, etc. (Motion Picture Daily)

"Love Machine" — Adaptation of Susann's bestseller leaves much to be desired. An oversexed TV newscaster becomes president of network by bedding down with everyone. Some of the serious dramatic moments are quite funny.

"McCabe and Mrs. Miller" — A mining town at the turn of the century is victimized by a petty crook who sets up a brothel. Story is tasteless in the name of realism. Much brutality, vulgarity and nudity.

"Nana" — Emile Zola would never recognize this updating of his classic novel as a sex picture. (Boxoffice Magazine)

Corte Madera Man Sentenced For Car Theft

John Norman McMurphy, 18, of Corte Madera, has been sentenced to 60 days in Marin County Jail for car theft.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court also placed him on probation for two years.

McMurphy pleaded guilty in August to stealing a car from Richard A. Campagna of 315 Willow Avenue, Corte Madera. Following his plea, a charge that he burglarized the residence of James Lopaka of 129 Montego Keys, Bel Marin Keys, was dismissed.

He was arrested July 7 by Marin County Sheriff's deputies after a check on the car he was driving on Highway 101 revealed it had been stolen. Deputies said they found property from the Lopaka residence in the car.

Innocent Plea In Check Case

Oscar Mickey Curry, 26, of Marin City, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to two felony counts of fraudulent possession of checks.

A preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 5.

Curry was arrested Wednesday on a warrant charging he stole three checks from the car of San Rafael Police Capt. Lincoln Borba while the car was being washed at a car wash where Curry was employed.

The checks were later returned by Borba's bank, made out to Curry and signed with a forgery of Borba's signature.

How A. Kuchya Lost All His Rubles

MOSCOW (UPI)—Can a nice gold miner from Siberia run afoul of card sharps at the Irkutsk airport in this 54th year of Soviet power? Will they get all his rubles between flights?

He can. They did. But read in this installment how justice avenges the sucker and keeps the bourgeois viliains from finding true happiness.

This is Moscow's latest, hottest crime story, brought to you by Crocodile, the weekly Soviet satire magazine. This time Crocodile is not kidding.

Its current edition reports that a gang of seven card hustlers worked its way east across the Soviet Union from Kaliningrad to Moscow and across the Ural mountains into central Siberia, one jump ahead of the police.

One day, fresh out of the permafrost of the Aldan mines with $3,850 salary in his poke came miner Anatoly Kuchya, flying home to his wife in the Ukraine. He got bored while waiting for a flight at Irkutsk.

"Enter a nice sociable man, of pleasant appearance who quite by accident happened to have a deck of cards," says Crocodile.

"He suggested they kill time by playing a game called 'The Fools Game'. And the gold miner started winning until another stranger appeared, a nice guy wearing a muskrat cap."

The newcomer introduced a game called "The Traveling Goat." A fourth man joined the play. Anatoly kept winning. They let him get seven rubles ahead. Someone urged him to quit while he was lucky: "Don't worry chums," said Anatoly. "When you have big money why not make it bigger?"

"All of a sudden his big money was smaller by $550 all the cash he had," says Crocodile. He began playing against his $3,300 rubles in checks. Other strangers joined until there were seven men in the circle with Anatoly Kuchya.

"Within 25 minutes all that big northern goldfield money had turned to zero," says Crocodile.

The magnificent seven went on to take $16,500 in the airport from gulls like Anatoly. But they were finally caught in action by police Capt. Yuri Shevelyov.

"A court granted the knights of the queen of spades enough time (in prison) to make enough money to repay the victims," the newspaper said.

Camera Equipment Stolen From Car

Deputies said the equipment and car were owned by Ronald D. Bernard of Concord.

Draft Calls On Quarterly Basis Are Scheduled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Army officials hope to end the decades-old practice of monthly draft calls with the new draft announcement expected next week. They expect to switch to quarterly calls.

In the wake of passage of the new draft law Tuesday, Pentagon officials are working up new calls for the rest of the year. Total calls for October, November and December will be no more than 19,500, officials indicated.

Army officials want to switch to a quarterly call system because they feel it is simpler to administer. Their plans, however, must be approved by civilians in the office of the secretary of Defense and by the Selective Service System.

Fowl Thieves Play Chicken

NEW YORK (UPI)—"This is a true to life chicken caper," a Bronx detective said Thursday in describing the theft of a truck from a supermarket lot.

Rocco Mercadante, a deliveryman for Grow Poultry, had parked outside the E & B Supermarket and went inside to find someone to help him unload his cargo of more than 100 cases of frozen chickens and other meats. The truck was gone when Mercadante went outside after being in the grocery only 60 seconds, he told police.

Police believe the thieves knew what was in the truck and had plans to dispose of the food.

Cosmos Launched

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today fired an unmanned sputnik designated Cosmos 440 into an elongated earth orbit, the Tass news agency said.

A Monkey Bite Results In $25,000 Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A pet monkey was the object of a $25,000 damage suit today.

Polly Ann Donnigan, 26, said she was attacked and bitten by the 18-inch tall monkey while walking near her home in November.

Her attorney, who filed the suit Thursday, named as defendants the animal's owner, Marlow Hotchkiss, the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the San Francisco General Hospital.

The animal society was charged with permitting a "wild animal" on the street and the hospital for failure to take an "adequate and true medical history" when Miss Donnigan was admitted for treatment.

Hotchkiss said the monkey escaped from its cage and got outside through an open window.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Marin Dining And Wining

Thoughtful Chef At The Grotto Picks Out Those Little Bones

You'll find it difficult to pick a bone with the chef at the Grotto in San Rafael — or for that matter, even find one.

Before any fish dish leaves the galley, Ursula Valan goes over it with a pair of long-nose pliers (and I think a magnifying glass), deftly removing everything objectionable she can find. This is a blessing for people who enjoy salmon, for instance, but hold off from ordering it because they dislike picking out the bones. I can't swear that Ursula never misses one, but I have never found a case where she did and you may not either.

Of course, if you're still unconvinced you can order the Captain's Plate in which the only thing hard is a clam shell and you'll have no trouble removing that.

NERO'S ROOM at Ignacio was supposed to have opened Tuesday, but didn't because of a fire caused by a short circuit in the newly installed broiler. It's taken a few more days to clean up (no serious damage — mostly by the fire extinguisher) and make sure everything is in order.

But today was definitely supposed to be reopening day. You'll find many things changed here.

This year, Oct. 4 will be the day the Naves celebrate their Columbus Day festival. It is on a Monday night, according to their usual custom. Better make reservations early. Dinner times are 5:30, 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. There will be 35 different Italian dishes, with wine and music. Tab is $3.75 per person.

DORI GREEN
At Blue Rock Inn

DORI GREEN, popular vocalist and pianist, has returned to Marin after almost a year in Santa Barbara. And in addition to teaching she is playing Friday and Saturday nights from 9 p.m. at the Blue Rock Inn in Larkspur.

THE RESTAURANT at the Howard Johnson motel complex in Southern Marin definitely will have a bar. An application has been made to secure the on sale general liquor license formerly held by the Bit o'Bohemia bar in San Anselmo.

I CONTINUE TO RECEIVE inquiries about Gregory Seubert's restaurant location in Fort Bragg. Apparently many people still believe that this is under the name of Gregory's, the same as his former place in Corte Madera — so they can't find it.

In this upstate venture, Gregory has several partners, though he is the general manager. It isn't under his own name but is called Noyo River Inn, and is located on the south side of the Noyo River which is just south of Fort Bragg.

Actually it is on South Harbor Drive, about half way down the hill to the Noyo River Yacht Basin, which it overlooks. South Harbor Drive is off the Fort Bragg-Willits road (Highway 20) about one-quarter of a mile east of its junction with Coast Highway 1. Right now road work is being done to improve and widen the junction, so it's hard to miss.

Noyo River Inn is now running much more smoothly. It is open for both lunches and dinners and is on a seven-day-a-week schedule. However, this may be shortened as the fall season moves along.

You'll find many of the same dishes Gregory had on his menu in Corte Madera like sauerbraten, roast duckling, his famous German enchiladas, and his pepper steak in cognac. There is also a good selection of seafoods. Fort Bragg being a sport fishing town, you can look for local catches like red snapper, ling and rock cod.

These are also on the lunch menu, along with broiled salmon, sole, scallops and Pacific oysters. There are several seafood sandwiches and omelets.

STARTING TONIGHT, Bernard's Executive Lounge in San Rafael will serve on Friday and Saturday nights a complete filet steak dinner with a bottla of champagne at $7.95 for two.

Don Bernard calls this his champagne supper, the idea being that with the bubbly you will feel like dancing in his new addition to the music of the Steve Atken Trio. The trio will play on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

He has also engaged Art Allison for the piano bar Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Art is no stranger to Marinites and he still performs at Black Point Inn on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights. He has been there about five years and his playing and singing is still drawing crowds.

If you have not gotten out to Black Point, this is your chance to hear him.

I am asked this many times. "High" and "low" restaurant prices are comparative and must be judged according to what one is accustomed to pay — so you be your own judge.

Dinners at Caprice are a la carte from $5.75 to $6.75. You can add another $2.50 for trimmings to make this a complete meal. If you are going for chateaubrand, rack of lamb or roast duck, you should figure higher.

Lunches, also a la carte, are from $2.50 to $4.95.

The food is definitely high quality. Dinner menu is mainly European. Lunches feature seafoods, omelets and a few Italian specialties. (No, Kirby Atterbury isn't Italian, but he does appreciate Italian cooking). Well worth a visit.

RUBINI'S in Fairfax has made arrangements to show the landscapes and seascapes of Terry Nichols (who is Mrs. Arthur Nichols of San Rafael) during the month of October.

Terry, a registered nurse, was formerly at Ross Hospital, is a mother of three and an avid golfer. She started painting in Massachusetts in 1954, studying under Leo Brodeaur. She still continues studying, now with Catherine Johnson. Many of her works at Rubini's will be Marin scenes.

TOM FOGARTY, JERRY GARCIA AND MERL SAUNDERS are featured at the Li-on's Share in San Anselmo tonight and tomorrow night, along with Jerry Corbitt, Billy Cox and Charlie Daniels. The latter group is also booked for Sunday.

Two Men Take Cash From Mill Valleyan

A Mill Valley man was robbed of $40 in cash and a $100 watch while walking near the Marin City underpass Sept. 15, Marin County sheriff's office reported yesterday.

Deputies said James E. Schering of 172 Morningsun Avenue told them he was approached by two men who demanded money. When Schwering treated their demand as a joke, one of them indicated he might have a weapon, and they took Schwering's money and watch.

New Sugar Act Wins Panel Nod

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A new U.S. sugar act which increases quota allocations to 74 nations by 125,000 tons over the current act has been approved by a congressional conference committee.

Most of the increase will be distributed among the 28 Latin American and Caribbean sugar exporters.

Eat at Dominic's.
A friend of ours recently spent the evening up on Broadway, instead of driving all the way to San Rafael where we are. It cost him $3.00 for parking, $51.87 for dinner, $48.50 for drinks, tips, and cover charge at a topless night club, and $75,000 plus his lawyer's fee of $3,500 for his subsequent divorce. Dominic's isn't cheap, but considering the atmosphere, superb food, and the possible savings, we're certainly worth a fifteen minute drive.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON GREB

Guess who was born today and became famous.

1. What U.S. astronaut was born in San Francisco 41 years ago today? This Navy test pilot was selected by NASA for several Gemini missions and served as command module pilot on the Apollo 10 mission to the moon in May, 1969: (A) Alan Shepard; (B) John Watts Young; (C) Wally Schirra.

2. Ever learn about an important U.S. Supreme Court decision called "Marbury vs. Madison"? If so it would help you identify the Chief Justice whose decision in this case established the high court's power to overrule certain acts of Congress: (A) John Jay; (B) John Marshall; (C) John Locke.

3. At the London Palladium, who would you expect to be there singing "What Kind of Fool Am I"? This best symbolizes the English recording star who has had his own TV show and acted in more than 16 films, including "Dr. Doolittle" and "The Small World of Sammy Lee": (A) Tom Jones; (B) Englebert Humperdinck; (C) Anthony Newley.

4. Welcome home, American tourists, but did you see this artist's work while you were in Paris? He was the son of a master silversmith who in the 19th Century became a prize-winning sculptor, especially of animals, and is noted for his creation, "Tiger Devouring a Crocodile:" (A) Antoine Barye; (B) Eero Saarinen; (C) Gutzon Borglum.

Sometimes Faith In Your Partner Can Be Overdone — Study Below

Faith in your partner is a deeply touching sight, but it can be overdone. A good partner will try to steer you in the right direction, but you are still entitled to use your eyes and your brains. It is your duty to overrule your partner if you are sure that you are right.

SINGLETON READING

West opened the three of diamonds, and East won with the ace. Reading the lead as a singleton, East returned the ten of diamonds to give his partner a ruff.

The ten showed that East's side strength was in a high side suit, hearts. If East's side strength had been in clubs, the low side suit, he would have returned his lowest diamond to give West a ruff.

Without bothering to do any thinking of his own, West followed his partner's signal by returning a heart.

LIMITS CLUB LOSS

Declarer took the ace of hearts, ruffed a heart, got to dummy with a trump to ruff another heart and got back with another trump to ruff still another heart. South drew the last missing trump and entered dummy with the king of diamonds to discard a club on the established jack of hearts. This limited the club loss to one trick, and South thus made his contract.

SHOULD SEE ACE

West could see the ace of hearts in the dummy and therefore could tell that East had no immediate entry in hearts. If South had two hearts, he would have to lose a heart trick sooner or later no matter what West returned. But if South had only one heart, it was important for West to stop a heart ruffout.

After ruffing the second diamond, West should return a trump. This removes an entry from the dummy before South has started on the hearts. South cannot set up and cash the jack of hearts; and West must eventually get two club tricks.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, vulnerable against nonvulnerable opponents, you hold:

♠ - K J 10 9 8 7 6
♥ - 5
♦ - J 7 6
♣ - K 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

It is dangerous to make a shutout bid of three spades at this vulnerability. It would be reasonable to do so if you were nonvulnerable against vulnerable opponents. If your opponents have no sensible way of doubling a shutout bid for penalties, you have everything to gain and little to lose from an opening bid of three spades.

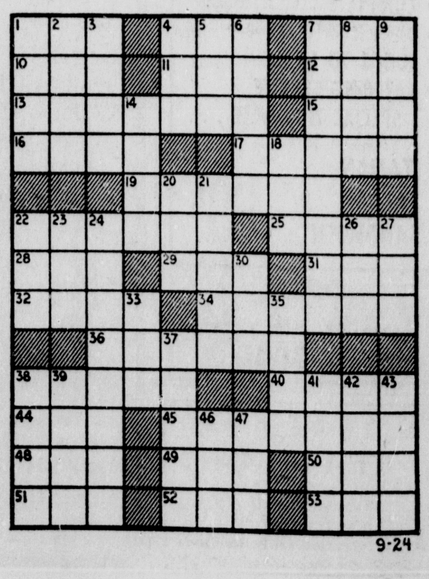
Yesterday's Answer



ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Sept. 24, the 267th day of 1971 with 98 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

On this date in history:

In 1959 President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev met at Camp David, Md.

A thought for the day: President Dwight D. Eisenhower said, "In the final choice, a soldier's pack is not so heavy a burden as a prisoner's chain."

New Sewage Disposal Plant Is Dedicated

Rohnert Park officially dedicated its new sewage disposal plant yeaterday and learned that an environmental research project will be carried out at the facility for nearly two years.

The project, which received 75 per cent federal funding, will be conducted by the Environmental Protection Agency. Dr. William D. Bishop, project officer for the agency, said tests would be run on a new pool sweep method to be used in sedimentation ponds.

He told officials at the ceremony he hoped the project would show how better control can be gained in the treatment of overflows from combined sewers and storm water lines and thus reduce operational costs for Rohnert Park and other cities.

The $400,000 plant will have a capacity of treating 6.5 million gallons per day. Rohnert Park also serves the city of Cotati and the Sonoma State College campus.

Dormant Volcano

WAILUKU, Hawaii (UPI)— Haleakala on the island of Maui is the world's largest dormant volcano. It is 10,023 feet high, covers an area of 33 miles and has a crater seven miles long and two miles wide.

Panel Sets Date For Remapping

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A House committee wants state legislatures to complete reapportionment of congressional districts by Feb. 1, 1972.

By a voice vote, the House Judiciary Committee Wednesday passed a bill that suggests, but does not order, that legislatures take the step.

Federal law requires states to redraw their congressional districts after each federal census. Committee sources said only 16 states have completed the task, working from 1970 census figures.

TELEVISION IN REVIEW

Carson Still King Of Talk Programs

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Johnny Carson next week begins his 10th year as host of NBC-TV's "Tonight" show, and there isn't the slightest doubt in anyone's mind that he is the runaway ratings leader in the late-night video field.

The bad news for the competition is that he has no plans at present to quit. Telephoning from New York Thursday, he said:

"The show is stronger than ever, and I still enjoy doing it. I just take it a day at a time."

Carson's competitors on the major networks are, of course, Dick Cavett on ABC-TV and Merv Griffin on CBS-TV. Recently, Griffin and CBS-TV have indicated their mutual dissatisfaction with each other, a situation that almost unquestionably means they will split as soon as possible. Concerning this situation, Carson said:

"You know, when you're opposite somebody on the air you'd be a hypocrite if you said you hope they do real well — even though it's the nice thing today. But I do think CBS treated him (Griffin) a little shabbily, saying he's not doing the job well and breaking it in the newspapers. But networks are not known for their heart."

It was Oct. 1, 1962, that Carson began as the "Tonight" host. And next Friday will mark the beginning of the 10th year. To note the occasion, the comedian will present highlights of shows from the past nine years, as well as surprise guests.

Asked whether he contemplated any significant changes in his show in the future, Carson said: "There are really only three ways to do this kind of show —standing up, sitting down or lying down. The basic thing is to try to keep things from getting dull."

What kind of guests are the best? said Carson: "Persons not trying to create any kind of facade on the show —not trying to create an image, but are what they are. Among comedians, people like Mel Brooks, Buddy Hackett and Don Rickles —uninhibited. Among actors, someone like Bob Mitchum, who just says it as it is and is not guarded."

Who make the worst guests? Carson said: "I find that most politicians are not the best guests because they're mainly interested in creating an image and advancing their ideologies, and it just sounds like a record that's been played before. I think people in the audience are becoming very astute about these things now."

Carson gets to work about noon each taping day. After preparation all afternoon, the show is taped starting about 5:30 p.m. New York time, and ends at seven o'clock. The comedian says he doesn't usually watch the show when it airs later at night, "except for a new piece of material or to see how something particular went."

Does he watch Cavett or Griffin? "Not very often," said Carson. "We usually know what's on their shows anyway. I do a lot of reading."

As for his own relaxation, Carson had no hesitation in replying when asked where he would head if he were told he could take off tomorrow morning for any place he wanted for a week: "I'd go on a boat. To Nassau, the Bahamas. It's one of the last places you can really be on your own."

Attorney Asks Young Jurors

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)— Attorney Charles Garry has filed suit asking for the inclusion of 18-year-olds in the jury panel that will hear Black Panther Huey P. Newton's manslaughter trial Oct. 12.

Garry said the trial for the cofounder of the Black Panther party should be postponed until younger jurors are included.

The suit said Alameda County Jury Commissioner Edward Schnarr was ignoring names of 18-year-olds whose names were on the registered voters lists from which jurors are chosen.

This will be Newton's third trial on charges of fatally shooting Oakland policeman John Frey on the morning of Oct. 28, 1967. The two previous ended in mistrials.

Watts Critical

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)— Rep. John C. Watts, 69, D-Ky., was in "critical condition" today after suffering an apparent stroke.

'In American discrimination is based on color; in England, it's based on class or culture.'

LITTLE HOPE

Educator Studies Blacks In England — Distressed

By PAT ANGLE

Black Britishers see America as "the worst, most violent country in the world, a place where black people cannot walk the streets without fear of being shot down," according to a black Marin County educator who spent two months in England this summer.

Lanny Berry, special assistant for the Tamalpais High School District, visited the country to study the living conditions of non-whites in Britain under a research grant from the Wennergrenn Foundation in New York.

He found himself "anguished and distressed" by what he saw and learned through talking with scores of black people and officials who had formal responsibility for the problems of nonwhite immigrants.

Berry said he returned with the belief that there is little hope that black Britishers will improve their status and living conditions in the future. Most he met, "still harbor the illusion that they will eventually be able to take their places in society as proper British citizens."

Despite the prevailing view that blacks in England were "far better off" than their American counterparts, Berry said he discovered little evidence to support this view.

Most live in poverty and inadequate housing and have very few opportunities to obtain good jobs or a good education. In fact, he said, nonwhites in England, caught in a rigid class system where higher education is geared to a very few, may have even more difficulties in solving their problems than nonwhites in this country.

While black people in the United States comprise about one-tenth of the population, the ratio of blacks to whites in England is much lower, he noted, about 1.5 million in a total population of 56 million. Consequently, he said, nonwhites in England have almost no political power and what they do have is fragmented.

"I saw very little evidence of political organization among black people, very little evidence that groups of blacks or coalitions of blacks and whites were working for substantive change," he said. He also found "no black elected officials in all of England, though there may be some I did not hear about" and received the impression the interests of black people were not being represented in parliament.

The British higher educational system, which frankly admits to being designed for 5 per cent of the population, was virtually closed to nonwhites, according to Berry, even though advanced education is the chief vehicle for social advancement and decent jobs. In the entire country the educator noted only 495 black youngsters in schools which prepare British youth college.

He did find a few rare blacks who had been knighted or elevated to peerages, but he laughingly said that those individuals had been so honored "because of their superior performance on the cricket field," rather than any other accomplishment.

Berry also discovered in England that oppression has many sides. "The working class in England is mostly white, but often they are oppressed too, in housing, working conditions and education," he added, "Europeans have been oppressing and killing each other for centuries, but this has really had less to do with color than with class, caste or religion."

With education closed to most nonwhites, Berry said the job picture was bleak, perhaps even worse than in the United States. "I found very, very few blacks who qualified for skilled jobs," he said, "definitely fewer than in this country."

Black people face a particular difficulty in assimilating into British life, a problem not so pronounced in America, he said. "The British have very definite ideas of the qualities and social graces a person must possess to be "acceptable,' " he noted. "They expect a person to be quiet, genteel and reserved and have a difficult time with people who are different."

Black people in England, chiefly immigrants from Africa and the Caribbean, tend to be aggressive and outspoken, according to the Marin educator, qualities which do not endear them to the proper British heart.

"In America, black people are separated from whites not so much by cultural differences as by color," Berry said. "In Britain, the situation is reversed."

Most blacks in Great Britain draw much of their information about race relations in this country from newspapers, magazines, radio and television which, he said, tend to focus on racial conflict and confrontation. As a result, "they see Ameican black people as politically disorganized, naive, economically deprived, socially rejected, prone to violence against other, living in terror ina an uncivilized country," he said.

"They have a distorted, ludicrous view of the situation here, probably because they don't have a chance to weigh what they read and hear against a personal knowledge of what is really happening," he added.

There is little input from black American tourists, Berry said, chiefly because there are so few. During their two months in Europe, the Berry family saw no other black families touring and only about 10 individual blacks.

Berry said his family was refused service in a "couple of restaurants" and eyed with disdain in expensive British shops, "until they found out we were American and assumed we had a lot of money."

"Being an American helped," he added, "I am sure we were treated better than British blacks."

Throughout his travels, Berry said he refused to be drawn into discussions of "who's better off than who" because he felt it would serve no purpose and "I didn't travel 7,000 miles to defend America."

"I feel black Americans have a certain potential for development and advancement that black Britishers don't have," he said, "but whether that development will actually be realized is still questionable."

Rather than debating the question of which countries treat black people worse, Berry said he believes black people all over the world would do better "to get together and deal with the problems."

"The results of discrimination are the same, even though the processes that encourage it may be different in different countries," he said. "Everyone is suffering the same fate, regardless of the geography involved."

Warning Issued To Investors

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Better Business Bureau has cautioned prospective investors to investigate before investing in companies making promises of large incomes through sales and recruitment of distributors.

Charles R. Thurber of the bureau cited a recent Federal Trade Commission cease and desist order against Bestline Products Inc., of San Jose.

Bestline is a multi-level marketing program to sell household, commercial and industrial cleaners through franchised distributors-investors.

The complaint alleged that the plan was based on virtually endless recruiting of participants with geometric increases in the number necessary to produce the earnings suggested in literature.

As a result, participants often would not be able to find additional investors in a given community or area by the time they enter the program simply because the recruiting activities of earlier investors have exhausted the prospects.

El Capitan, the peak in Yosemite Valley, Calif., reaches upward 7,630 feet.

Regional Park Push Planned

A group of conservationists which wants to see control over Marin County parks taken out of the hands of the board of supervisors has formed an ad hoc committee to establish a regional park district in Marin.

Robert Young of Terra Linda, chairman of the committee, said that his group believes that "although supervisors did pretty well by parks last year," this isn't always the case.

Furthermore, he said, it is a policy of the county not to acquire any park land west of Fairfax.

Creation of a separate park district, which would have its own directors and taxing powers, would make the administration and acquiring of parks "less political," Young said.

He said he hoped that such a district should have the ability to make long-term park purchases.

Young also said the group would like to see the county parks and recreation staff included as part of any new district organization.

As a model, the committee is looking at the East Bay Regional Park District, which includes most of Alameda and Contra Costa counties, Young said. This is the only such district in the state, he said.

The next meeting of the committee will be Oct. 6, Young said, but a place has not been named.

Noise Pollution Hearing Slated

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A three-day public hearing on noise pollution will open Monday before a hearing board called by the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

The hearing, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day, will be in the Jack Tar Hotel.

The board will consider the effects of noise, noise control and research, legislation and enforcement against noise.

Eight Semifinalists Omitted From List

Eight Terra Linda High School students were omitted from an Independent-Journal article Wednesday naming the semifinalists in the 1971-72 National Merit Scholarship competition.

Holdings Valued At $30 Million

Marin County owned almost $30 million in property and equipment as of June 30, County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell reported today.

He computed the county's total holdings as part of the annual balance sheet, which will be sent to the Marin County Board of Supervisors next Tuesday.

The county's major holdings are:

Civic Center buildings and grounds — $20,029,221; Lucas Valley property (Marin Juvenile Hall) — $1,570,651; parks and open space — $1,711,919; old courthouse in San Rafael — $850,000; Gnoss Field, county airport — $939,669; county library in Novato — $475,042.

Others include the health department building and the county garage on Fourth Street in San Rafael, seven county firehouses, and more than $3.6 million in furniture and buildings under construction.

Among the parks and open space, the biggest holdings are McNears Beach, worth $698,896; Bolinas Lagoon $527,741, and Paradise Park, $220,840.

Business Tax Slice Correction Is Sought

For the second year in a row, the state is short-changing the counties by not reimbursing them fully for the 30 per cent drop in business inventory tax, which the state Legislature ordered.

Marin County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said he has dispatched letters to Sen. Peter H. Behr and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, asking them for legislation to correct the inequity.

Because of the 30 per cent cut in business inventory tax, Marin County will lose $112,316.97 this fiscal year. Mitchell said the state promised to reimburse counties in full, but the actual reimbursement to Marin comes to only $22,694.01.

"Therefore, the shortage to the county of Marin for 1971-72 will be $89,622.96," said Mitchell. "Since many other counties will find themselves in similar situations, it is requested that necessary legislation be introduced to correct this inequity."

Last year's shortage for Marin was $55,837.

Luncheon Kicks Off Bay Area Crusade Campaign

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The United Bay Area Crusade kicked off its annual campaign yesterday with a luncheon aboard the S.S. President Cleveland.

Campaign chairman Lawrence E. Hoyt announced that $4 million already had been raised through several fund-raising drives in the spring.

UBAC, rather than setting a total dollar goal as in past years, this year has introduced what it calls a fair share goal, suggesting that persons earning less than $10,000 per year give an hour's pay per month and those earning more than $10,000, 1 per cent of their salary.

The campaign benefits 200 health, welfare and youth organizations and will this year support New Directions programs in day car, drug abuse and neighborhood services in poverty areas.

A New Quentin Lockup Section

San Quentin Prison officials added a new lockup section of 80 inmates yesterday as security moves continued in the wake of the Aug. 21 escape attempt in which three guards and three inmates were killed.

Information officer Joseph R. O'Brien said the new unit, in the prison's south block, is designed to keep tight reins on militant inmates.

O'Brien said the inmates would remain there, spending most of the time in their cells, "until we're able to get them jobs in areas where we will have better control of them."

As for the rest, the prison is nearly back to normal operations, O'Brien said.

Hearing Set On Burglary Count

Preliminary hearing was set for next Friday.

Quinn was arrested Tuesday when Sausalito police allegedly found him in the house of Alfred S. Wilsey at 89 Cazneau Avenue. Police said another man with Quinn leaped from a second floor window and escaped.

Tools and Power Equipment Taken

Tools and power equipment valued at $932 have been stolen from a garage at 114 Auburn Street in the California Park area outside San Rafael, Marin County sheriff's office reported yesterday.

Deputies said the theft occurred last Friday or Saturday. The equipment is owned by Donald E. Wright of 17 Canyon Road, San Anselmo, who rented the garage.

Traveler's Checks Among Theft Items

A bicycle, $30 in cash and $180 in traveler's checks were stolen yesterday from a car parked at Dominican College, San Rafael police reported today.

The property was stolen from Martin W. Plumb of Bakersfield, who was visiting friends on the campus.

Man Answers Theft Charge

Frederick Neville Henderson, 39, of Novato, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a felony charge of car theft.

Preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

Henderson was arrested after he abandoned a 1971 auto in front of a business at 2060 Redwood Highway in Larkspur Sept. 16. The car had been reported stolen several days before by Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael.

SWEEPING VIEW
Of the Valley, Sausalito & San Francisco. We have an exciting typical Mill Valley home in a best weather area. Altho it has 3 plus bedrooms, 3 baths, a large formal dining room, it's just a bit different. One of the bedrooms and one bath are on the lower level, ideal for a maid, or an in-law or teen-ager. Let us show this $77,500 charmer.

LOVELY IMMACULATE HOME
We have one for sale with an asking price of $44,950. This would be a great rental at $375 per month or a total of $4,500 a year. Buy why rent? We can obtain an 80% loan & the owner will carry back a 10% second, if needed. So with 10% down plus closing costs, this home can be yours to buy instead of to rent. After the down payment is made, & buyer takes title, the monthly payments on the loan & taxes will be approximately $383 a month, almost all of which is tax deductible. 3 bdrms., 2 baths, family room, all in excellent condition.

A MOST CONVENIENT LOCATION

CITY OF FAIRFAX
NOTICE INVITING SEALED PROPOSALS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that sealed bids or proposals will be received by the City of Fairfax at its mailing address, P.O. Box 605, Fairfax, California 94930, or by delivery to its office at the City Hall, 142 Bolinas Road, Fairfax, California, until 10:00 o'clock on Wednesday, October 6, 1971 at which time bids will be publicly opened and read for the following:

One (1) Pickup Truck and
Three (3) Automobiles

Each bid shall be made out on a form to be obtained at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Fairfax, California, and shall be submitted in a sealed envelope marked "AUTOMOTIVE EQUIPMENT", plainly endorsed with bidder's name. Bids must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or bidder's bond for ten (10) per cent of the amount of the bid made payable to the order of the City of Fairfax, Fairfax, California, which shall be forfeited to the City if the successful bidder fails or refuses to enter into a contract awarded him.

Bids will be examined and reported to the City Council of the City of Fairfax at a meeting on October 12, 1971. The City Council reserves the right to reject any and all bids or to waive any irregularities or informalities in any bid or in the bidding procedure. No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of thirty days after the date bids are reported to the City Council.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS INVITING SEALED BIDS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City of Fairfax will receive sealed bids at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Fairfax, Calif., on or before 10:00 A.M. on the first day of October, 1971 for the furnishing of all labor, materials, and services required for the 1971 STREET RESURFACING PROJECT.

Each bid shall be made in accordance with the plans, specifications, and contract documents prepared therefor, now on file at the office of Ben C. Albritton, City Engineer, 35 Mitchell Blvd., San Rafael, where they may be examined, and may be purchased for $10.00 per set (non-refundable).

Bids received by the City Clerk will be opened and read publicly at the time, date and place above specified, and will thereafter be tabulated and submitted to the City Council for consideration.

Bidders are notified that, pursuant to law, the City Council has ascertained the general prevailing rate of wages and rates in the locality in which the work is to be performed, for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to execute the contract, and the prevailing rate so determined is on file at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall, 142 Bolinas Road, Fairfax, California.

The City Council of the City of Fairfax reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

A Full Weekend Of Prep Football

Tonight's slate shows Terra Linda entertaining Harry Ells, 8 o'clock, and San Marin visiting Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park at Petaluma High, also at 8. Novato hosts Petaluma High tomorrow, 1 p.m.

In the three remaining Saturday tilts: Marin Catholic treks to Piner of Santa Rosa, 7:30 p.m.; Drake travels to Vallejo, 8 p.m.; and Montgomery of Santa Rosa invades San Rafael High, 8 p.m.

The six locals involved face stiff opposition, but possibly Terra Linda, San Marin and Novato are in the toughest spots.

Hoping to blunt this type of attack, the Blue and Gold mentor has drilled his defensive troops thoroughly. Regarding this week's workouts, Lucas expressed pleasure with the results — "particularly defensively. We should be hitting harder this week."

This ominous prophesy, bad news for Trojan rivals, will either prompt assault charges, or, more likely, another fruitful football finish in first place.

Regardless, Lucas reported that ailing Jon Loeberg, the starting defensive left tackle, will play, despite reinjuring an index finger against Santa Rosa High last week.

Lucas also welcomed back first club flanker and safety John Buckley, another erstwhile finger problem victim. He replaces Paul Mooney offensively and Pete Corbett in the secondary.

Observers believe that, the lineup alterations notwithstanding, Terra Linda should decision Ells.

However the arm chair experts are not as enthsuiastic over San Marin's chances. The Mustangs, unlike Terra Linda (1-0,)have dropped both outings. The vulnerable Green and Gold defense is expected to be sorely tested by a Steve Wlodarczyk-led passing attack. The portsided flinger has triggered a highly successful aerial assault in a win over Marin Catholic this year, plus a 38-26 triumph over the Mustangs last fall.

However, Coach Bob Martin's marauders didn't have field general Hoaz Wright that year. The sophomore southpaw passed for 234 yards and one touchdown, a 75-yarder to Bob Briot during a 27-6 loss to powerful Encinal of Alameda last Saturday.

In setting the tone, Martin vowed revenge for last year's close contest, adding: "if we get our defense adjusted, we should do pretty well."

To this end, Martin shifted linebacker Steve Fowler to defensive tackle and safety Steve Baldocchi to middle linebacker. Explaining the latter change, Martin pointed out that Baldocchi's aggressiveness "is better suited at linebacker."

While Martin was shuffling bodies, so was his Rancho Cotate counterpart Clyde Brock. The Cougar coach was the only one not listing any player changes but did reveal "our defense will do some stunting."

Despite Brock's reluctance to deviate from his success formula, this seemed to be the week of pigskin promotions for Novato High coach Al Soctt was elevating Rick Reis to starting defesive middle guard for Dean Davis. After last week's heartbreaking 8-7 loss to host Riordan of San Francisco in the final minutes, Scott admitted "there was a little letdown. But we've had good practices since then. We've just got to cut down on penalties" — and breakloose offensively.

The key tool is there in All-League quarterback Marty Moroski, which worries vying coach Howard Cadenhead of Petaluma. "I'm concerned that they will break out and score in clusters, because they're due." Yet, Cadenhead's pride rests with his defense.

"Defense is one of our stronger aspects, but we know they will be more physical this year, based on our scouting reports." To compensate for this, Cadenhead demoted starting tight end

PLAYOFF VISIONS

Giants Roar Into Cincy

HOUSTON (UPI)—The San Francisco Giants came to Houston Tuesday worried about their losing streak, their hitting slump and playing in the confounded (to them) Astrodome.

They left for Cincinnati early today thinking about the pennant and the World Series after taking two out of three from the Houston Astros. They stretched their lead over the fading Los Angeles Dodgers to three games in the National League West and lowered their magic number to clinch the title to four.

Gaylord Perry was even better Thursday night in winning 2-1 than Juan Marichal was Wednesday in winning 3-1. Perry retired the last 14 hitters after John Mayberry hit a home run in the fifth.

It was the first time the big two of the San Francisco staff had won in the Dome since 1965, the year it opened. Perry, (15-12) set the Astros down on three hits, half as many as Marichal had allowed.

"It's been years since I won here," Perry said. "I won one in 1965."

Perry, who is often accused of throwing a spitball, was not questioned about it in this game by plate umpire Chris Pelekoudas, who is one of the umpires who has scrutinized Perry in previous games.

"He had no reason to (check me) tonight," Perry said.

Harry Walker of Houston, probably managing his last game at home, argued with Pelekoudas in the first inning after Bob Watson struck out on a pitch that broke down about a foot.

"Every time I strike somebody out, Walker gets upset," Perry said. "But he's just trying to win. That's what he's supposed to do."

Willie McCovey, the big first baseman with the bad knee and the sore hand, provided the offense with a big bat and a big foot. He hit his 18th homer in the fourth for the first run and drove in the other when he was hit on the foot by a pitch with the bases loaded in the fifth.

I was going to hit him anyway so what's the big deal," McCovey said "If he hadn't hit me, I might have got three of them instead of just one."

The Giants loaded the bases on hits by Perry and Ken Henderson and an error by Denis Menke on Tito Fuentes' grounder. Loser Don Wilson (16-9) got Bobby Bonds to fly to right for the second out, but then hit McCovey on the left foot with a curve ball that broke down too far. The run was unearned.

The back-to-back victories were the first for the Giants since Sept. 3-4. They still have won only five of their last 18 games and seven of their last 28 in the Astrodome, which isn't the Giants' favorite ball park.

Don Carrithers (5-3) will start for the Giants tonight against Ross Grimsley of the Reds.

Cecil Harris Takes Lead; Bolt Second

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—This may be the year Tommy Bolt doesn't win the U. S. National Senior Open.

The $75,000 golf tournament for pros 50 and over got under way Thursday with Cecil Harris, -58-year-old driving range pro from Orange, Calif., grabbing the lead with a six-under-par 65.

However, Bolt, who is seeking his fourth straight Senior title, was one shot back. Harris had nines of 31-24 while Bolt, from Sarasota, Fla., carded 33-33.

Tied at 67 were Hans Merrell, Mt. Vernon, Ohio and Lew Cretlow, Enid, Okla., while Pete Cooper, Lake City, Fla., had a 68.

Deadlocked at 69 were Joe Brown, Des Moines, Iowa; Marty Furgol, Morristown, N. J., and Lou Warotick, Brooksfield, Ohio.

Five-time champion E. J. "Dutch" Harrison shot a 72.

'C' Basketball

A BREWER RUN — Milwaukee's Tom Brooks made it safely home in the second inning of last night's game against the A's in Oakland. He had scored from second base on Darrell Porter's single to rightfield and Reggie Jackson's throw bounced off the chest of catcher Gene Tenace. The A's won, 5-4. (UPI Telephoto)

IN EUREKA

A Rugged Task For Marin Tars

The Tars of Marin will be facing a team which whipped a good Cosumnes River College team of Sacramento last Saturday, 26-17.

Coach Dick Read's Tars will open with Kevin Peak at quarterback, following his impressive, three-touchdown production in a 34-28 loss to Merced College in Marin's opener last Saturday.

"We're going to move the ball," said Read about his offense for this non-conference battle. The Tars will turn to reserve fullback Larry Walker to beef up their attack along with Bob Sutherland, and Mike Locati.

"We didn't pressure the passer that well," commented Read, about his defense which gave up 284 yards in the air and three touchdown passes. Their effort will be hindered by injuries to defensive tackle Ross Gondak, out because of a knee injury, and Steve Dillman, sidelined with a bruised shoulder.

Mike Connolly, a 285-pound giant, will replace Gondak at tackle, while reserve quarterback Bob Daniele, an all-league corner back in his high school days at Terra Linda, will play the left corner in place of Mike Corder. Lynn Merritt, coming off an injury to his knee, will resume his post at right defensive end.

Archer Takes Lead In Robinson Golf

ROBINSON, Ill. (UPI) — George Archer, second place finisher a year ago, and rookie Dwight Nevil carried four-under-par 67s into today's second round of the $100,000 Robinson Open Golf Classic.

One stroke behind the leaders after Thursday's opening round on the par 71 course were Larry Hinson, Labron Harris, Mac McLendon and Jim Ferriell.

Last year's winner over Archer in a four-hole playoff, George Knudson, shot 75. Lee Trevino, saying "I just didn't have my mind on it," finished one over par at 72. He missed a chance to play the course Wednesday because his mother was critically ill in Dallas.

Clustered two strokes behind the frontrunners were ten other players: Tim Colbert, Jack Cupit, Mike Hill, John Lister, Mike Morley, Bert Greene, Earl Fennell, Steve Bogan, Curtis Sifford, and Bob Erickson. Ron Cerrudo of Napa was in a group at 71.

A first or second-place finish for Trevino would boost him to the top money-winning spot this year. The Robinson winner will get $20,000.

Trevino bogeyed three holes on the first nine Thursday and had two birdies on the way back, but predicted he would do better in today's round.

Nevil, 27, of San Antonio, Tex., attended North Texas State University for almost three years on a golf scholarship and polished his game while working as a Dallas fireman on a 24 hours on, 48 off schedule. He is in his first year on the tour, but finished fourth last week at the Quad Cities tournament at Bettendorf, Iowa. He fired four birdies, two each on the front and back nines, for 33-34.

GILMARTIN RESIGNS I-J POST

James J. (Jim) Gilmartin has resigned as sports editor of the Independent-Journal.

Ralph Chatoian has been named acting sports editor. Chatoian has been on the I-J staff since 1960.

Gilmartin reported sports for the I-J for more than 25 years, beginning as a string reporter while still a student at San Rafael high school where he quarterbacked a championship football team.

In submitting his resignation, Gilmartin said he was "too ill to continue."

Oakland's Smallest Crowd Watches Athletics Win

OAKLAND (UPI) —While the Oakland A's were relaxing a bit and experimenting for the American League playoffs, the Milwaukee Brewers played Thursday night as if a league championship depended on the outcome.

With one out and the score tied 4-4 in the bottom of the ninth, Brewer manager Dave Bristol installed a five-infielder defense in an effort to stop the A's from scoring the winning run.

The A's Rick Monday had led off the inning with a double and was sacrificed to third. Ace Milwaukee reliever Ken Sanders then issued two intentional walks to load the bases.

That's when Bristol put in another infielder and used only two outfielders with Joe Rudi at bat.

The unorthodox strategy worked, for the moment, when Rudi struck out, but Sanders then walked Angel Mangual to force in the winning run, giving the A's a 5-4 victory and their 14th win in 15 games with Milwaukee this season.

After the game Bristol said the five-infielder defense "makes sense."

"It's a good play," he said. "It gives the batter something else to think about. We did it three times last year and it worked."

The A's, who have already clinched the A.L. West title, played before the smallest crowd in Oakland history Thursday night. The attendance was only 1,535, smallest in the team's four season's in Oakland. The previous small crowd mark was 1,618 in September of 1969.

Reliever Darold Knowles picked up his seventh win in 11 decisions with a one-hit job over the last two innings.

The Brewers had taken a 3-1 lead off Oakland starter Jim Hunter through five innings on a homer by Dave May and doubles by John Briggs and Ron Theobald. But the A's tied it off Brewer starter Marty Pattin in their fifth on singles by Sal Bando and Larry Brown and Gene Tenace's double.

Plunkett, Manning Again Buck Odds In NFL Games

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Now that most everyone who cares has heard about it, no one is ready yet to believe it.

It is still only a few days since two rambunctious young rookies named Jim Plunkett and Archie Manning pulled the legs out from under the establishment, but the smart money says that the second time around they'll be the ones who lose their balance.

Making their National Football League debuts last week for the two weakest teams of 1970, Plunkett and Manning each engineered a remarkable upset as the New England Patriots stunned Oakland and the New Orleans Saints surprised Los Angeles.

Nevertheless, the oddsmakers have made the Patriots and Saints heavy underdogs in this Sunday's action although both are playing at home against teams that lost their opening games.

Plunkett, the Heisman Trophy winner from Stanford who threw for two touchdowns last week, carries the Patriot attack against Detroit and Manning, who lugged the ball over from the one-yard line on the final play of the game to provide the winning points in his professional bow, leads New Orleans against San Francisco. The Lions are favored by 10 1-2 points and the Forty Niners by 13.

Along with the fortunes of Manning and Plunkett, Sunday can be a pivotal day for their two victims of last week. Oakland, the consensus choice to repeat as Western Division champion in the American Conference, travels to San Diego desperate not to fall two games back in the race, and Los Angeles is in the same position in the Western Division of the National Conference when it hosts the Atlanta Falcons.

The Raiders are slim 2 1-2 point choices over the Chargers, who rallied from two touchdowns back to upset Kansas City last week and the Rams are identical 2 1-2 point favorites over the Falcons, who are fresh from an upset victory over San Francisco.

The Super Bowl champion Baltimore Colts, impressive in a 22-0 shutout of the New York Jets last week, are favored by five points at home against Cleveland, and in other Sunday games the Minnesota Vikings are picked by 13 points at home against Chicago, the Washington Redskins are three over the Giants at New York, the Cincinnati Bengals are picked by four points at Pittsburgh, the Dallas Cowboys are 13 over the Eagles at Philadelphia, Miami is favored by five points at Buffalo, Green Bay is picket by 2½ points at home over Denver and Kansas City is rated 6½ points better than the Oilers at Houston.

In Monday night's nationally televised game, the St. Louis Cardinals are favored by 6 1-2 points on their home field over the Jets. The game between New England and Detroit will be the first ever between the two clubs in regular season competition and the Lions will be growling to redeem themselves after blowing a 13-point lead to Minnesota in last Monday night's television game.

San Francisco also hopes to rebound from a stunner while the Saints can virtually make their season a success with a second straight upset over a West Coast Power. Manning completed 16 of 29 passes for 218 yards against Los Angeles, along with carrying the ball three times for 14 yards.

Forty Niner coach Dick Nolan said of Manning, "He likes to roll out and he has good speed and size. You just have to react when you see him coming."

Stanford, Oregon Open Pacific-8 Slate

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The remaining Pac-8 schools continue inter-conference play with four teams trying to improve the league's intersectional mark against Big Ten teams.

The Indians, with two impressive victories to their credit, will be out to prove that last year's Rose Bowl victory was no fluke against the Ducks, who fell to powerful Nebraska in their season opener but came back to take a 36-29 victory last week over Utah.

The contest will draw an interesting matchup between the Indians' tough defense, which has allowed only a field goal in two starts, and Oregon's potent offense, which is built around speedster Bobby Moore and quarterback Dan Fouts.

The Ducks were ranked No. 1 in the Pac-8 in rushing offense after the first two games while Stanford was rated with having the league's top defensive unit.

The Indians were picked 10-point favorites in the contest, but injuries may hurt Stanford coach John Ralston, who will be without three starters and his regular punter.

Elsewhere, UCLA, which lost to a strong Texas team last week, meets another tough foe when it travels to Ann Arbor Saturday to battle Michigan. The Wolverines are favored to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl this season, and the Bruins, winless in two starts, are a 14-point underdog.

But USC is favored by three points to beat another Big Ten foe, Illinois, in the Los Angeles Coliseum Saturday night. The Trojans, upset by Alabama in their opener, rebounded to defeat Rice last week. USC and the Illini have met six times in the past, with the Trojans winning five games.

Both Oregon State and Washington State are underdogs in their games Saturday with big ten opponents. Oregon State (1-1) travels to Michigan State which is favored by six points, and the Cougars (0-2) face a 14-point underdog role in their game at Minnesota.

Washington (2-0), the Pac-8's only other unbeaten team along with Stanford, will make its third straight home stand Saturday against TOU of the southwest conference while California, which lost an opener to Arkansas but came back last week to upset West Virginia, entertains San Francisco bay area rival San Jose State of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

The Washington-TCU game culd be a battle of quarterbacks — the Huskies' Sonny Sixkiller and the Horned Frogs' Steve Judy. Sixkiller leads the nation in total offense 568 yards with an average of 258 per game. Judy is closing in on the school career marks of "Slingin" Sammy Baugh at TCU.

In other Pacific Coast Athletic Association games Saturday, Fresno State will play at Montana State, University of Pacific and California State — Long Beach will meet in a league game at Long Beach, San Diego State travels to Jackson to play Southern Mississippi and Idaho State hosts California State-Los Angeles.

Hart, Hardman Key To Success

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI)—San Francisco coach Dick Nolan admits New Orleans rookie quarterback Archie Manning may present a problem when the 49ers meet the Saints Sunday, but he thinks he has a dual solution.

Nolan said Thursday as the 49ers prepared for the Saints game that defensive ends Tommy Hart and Cedrick Hardman form the fastest defensive end combination in the league.

Nolan was asked if he could think of a better pair of ends.

"No, I can't think of any," he said, "certainly not offhand."

Hardman, a two-year man, and Hart, a four-year veteran, will have the job of containing Manning, a drop-back quarterback who often moves out of the pocket to run. The former Mississippi star proved that last week when he scored on a one-yard run on the last play of the game to defeat Los Angeles, 24-20.

The 49ers taxi squad quarterback, Joe Reed, who played at Mississippi State while Manning was setting records at Ole Miss, played the role of Manning Tursday in San Francisco's defensive drills.

No Lineup Changes Planned By Madden

OAKLAND (UPI) —Oakland coach John Madden says he plans no changes in the starting lineups from last week's game when the Raiders test a revitalized San Diego Chargers team Sunday.

Madden said Thursday he will again start running backs Pete Banaszak and Marv Hubbard, but will also use Don Highsmith and rookie Clarence Davis, who carried just once for 39 yards last week against the New England Patriots.

Madden said he may use any two of the four in combination.

"What we do depends on a lot of factors you can't foresee now," he said. "The score, the weather, the field—all figure in."

Madden also has some flexibility at wide receiver where Fred Biletnikoff and Rod Sherman are starting with Eldridge Dickey and Drew Buie as backup.

One player will be added to the Raiders active roster this week to replace Carl Weathers, who was cut earlier in the week. It is expected to be rookie linebacker Greg Slough of USC. Slough was hurt in the last pre-season game, but is ready to play now.

Impressive Style In Easy Victory

SAN MATEO, Calif. (UPI)—Impressive Style galloped to an easy six and a half length victory Thursday in the featured $7,000 Ladies Day purse at Bay Meadows.

Impressive Style covered the six furlongs in 1.10 and paid $2.80, $2.10 and $2.10. She's A Roamer returned $2.40 and $2.10 while Blazing Skies paid $2.10.

Washington Offer: Padres Will Listen

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The San Diego Padres reportedly are "ready to listen" to Washington interests who want the National League franchise to replace the American League Senators.

The American League owners voted 10-2 Tuesday to approve a relocation of the Senators in Arlington, Tex., a Dallas suburb, effective Oct. 1.

Thomas H. Kuchel, former U.S. Senator from California, is representing the unnamed Washington interests, according to a report in today's Washington Post.

The Post said San Diego President E.J. "Buzzy" Bavasi said the club had turned down proposals to move to Dallas and Toronto last year to give San Diego one more chance.

The last place Padres, an expansion club formed three years ago, are owned by C. Arnholt Smith, a tuna fisheries tycoon, who has refused to consider moving the franchise.

Attendance at Padres' games has been low, however, expected to hit only 550,000 this season.

The Senators, who were an original franchise in the American League 71 years ago, have averaged about 850,000 in recent years despite consistent low finishes. The Senators have finished in the second division 50 times and have had only one winning record in 18 years.

Washington attendance was at 434,000 with the current season less than half over, but it failed miserably when it became apparent in July that Short was planning to move the club for a $1 million radio-tv contract and a rent-free stadium.

Kodes Upset In Pacific Tennis Play

Smith got by tough Ismael El Shafei of Egypt Thursday night 6-4, 7-6 while in an afternoon match, Lutz defeated John Cooper of Cleveland 6-4, 6-4.

Kodes, who has been making a big splash in recent tournaments, fell before unseeded Roscoe Tanner, a Stanford student from Lookout Mountain, Tenn., 6-4, 6-4.

Another upset was registered by Jim Connors, UCLA's national collegiate champion who ousted fourth-seeded Clark Graebner, the New York veteran, 6-4, 6-3.

Richey beat Jaime Fillol, Chile, 6-4, 6-1, Thursday afternoon, and Alexander beat England's Roger Taylor 7-5, 7-5.

Rossovich Is Back

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Eagles have reactivated middle linebacker Tim Rossovich for Sunday's game against the Dallas Cowboys and placed strong safety Steve Preece on the injured waiver list.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Finally: Success In The Astrodome

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Houston Astrodome, a sort of hell for the San Francisco Giants the past couple of years, became a bit heavenly Thursday night.

The Giants, who had won only six of their last 27 games in the dome, made it two in a row Thursday night and all but ended the Los Angeles Dodgers' title hopes in the National League West. Gaylord Perry pitched a three-hitter and Willie McCovey drove in both runs as the Giants edged the Astros 2-1.

"We're in a real good position now," said Giants' manager Charlie Fox. "I'm happy to get two of three in the dome and two of three the rest of the way will clinch it for us."

Fox's kindest words were saved for McCovey, who hit his 18th homer with the bases empty in the fourth and forced in another run when he was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded in the fifth. McCovey also slid into first base to record a close out for the second straight night, disregarding his injured knee. He put out Cesar Cedeno for the last out of the game.

Perry called the victory, "a big boost for us, especially coming here. It's been years since I won here."

Elsewhere in the major leagues, Pittsburgh blanked St. Louis, 5-0, Philadelphia beat Montreal 6-4, the New York Mets edged the Chicago Cubs 5-4, the Chicago White Sox shut out California 5-0 and Oakland nipped Milwaukee 5-4.

Willie Stargell had a two-run homer — his 46th — and Nelson Briles pitched a six-hitter as the Pirates beat St. Louis and Greg Luzinski's two-run single capped a four-run ninth that carried the Phillies past Montreal.

Bob Aspromonte's two-out, two-run single in the eighth boosted the Mets over the Cubs and gave Nolan Ryan his first victory in seven weeks.

Rookie Lee Richard had a three-run homer and Carlos May added one with the bases empty as the White Sox dumped California and provided Wilbur Wood with his 21st victory. Wood allowed only five hits as he pitched his sixth straight complete game and 21st of the season.

FISH AND GAME

Good Buck Harvest For The Opening

By AL GIDDINGS

A SLIGHTLY better buck harvest than last year's is forecast for the late deer season opening tomorrow, says the Department of Fish and Game.

Field reports from DFG wildlife managers indicate deer are in good condition but scattered and at higher elevations in the most popular hunting areas.

The most successful hunt periods will occur during the opening weekend when pressure will keep the deer moving, and again when the first storms of winter trigger the annual migration of deer from higher elevations. Weather conditions will govern the hunter's chances to see deer in daylight hours, with cooler temperatures being in the hunter's favor.

UNLESS THE WEATHER changes, the fire danger will be high in all areas. Hunters should check at local forest district offices regarding campfire regulations before selecting campsites.

The DFG reminds hunters again this year that all bucks taken in a one-deer district must be tagged with both the "A" and "B" tags, and the "B" tag mail-in portion only is sent in to the DFG.

CALIFORNIA'S 1971-72 waterfowl regulations were to be shipped to all hunting license agents throughout the state during this month for free distribution to hunting license buyers.

The license agents include most sporting goods stores. Regulations also will be available from offices of the DFG.

Available with the regulations will be application forms for reservations on hunting areas and sheets detailing seasons, bag and possession limits and shooting hours for waterfowl.

APPLICATION blanks for the special Rocky Mountain elk hunt, which is scheduled for Nov. 13-Dec. 5 in the rugged Squaw Creek area of Shasta and Siskiyou counties north and east of Shasta Lake, are now available from license agents and Department of Fish and Game offices.

Two hundred permits for animals of either sex will be awarded on the basis of a statewide public drawing to be held Oct. 7.

Applications for permits must reach DFG headquarters in Sacramento by 5 p.m. Oct. 5. Successful applicants will be notified by mail to send $25 for their elk permits.

Last year 21 elk were taken in the steep, brushy country by a total of 100 hunters. The present herd of some 1,000 animals is descended from a band of elk transplanted from Yellowstone Park in 1916.

A RELEASE FROM the Department of Fish and Game, written by Hilton Bergstrom, hunter safety training officer to all hunter-safety instructors, may answer some questions. The newsletter reads:

"WE HAVE now completed three months of hunter safety training under the new law without any major problems. One misunderstanding among a few instructors concerns the hunter safety validation stamp. Also some confusion exists concerning the special adult examination.

"The hunter safety validation stamp is distributed by our Department to license agents. They must be purchased from the agents by license applicants who use a hunter safety certificate of competence when obtaining their first hunting license.

"The special adult examination is used to qualify persons on active military duty for a hunter safety certificate of competence. The examination may not be given to veterans or persons on inactive status, such as military reservists or National Guardsmen. Those persons over the age of 21, provided they have at least three years of experience as an instructor in the use or safe handling of firearms may also qualify for a hunter safety certificate of competence by successfully completing the special adult examination."

ONE HUNTER Safety Instructor, Tom Lewis of Westminster, has informed the Fish and Game Department that some land in the Blythe area is being closed to hunters mainly because they are not picking up their empty shotgun shells. The shells are picked up by the alfalfa harvesting equipment and when the alfalfa is ground for feed, the shells are also ground. The shell particles become lodged in the intestines of the animals being fed with the ground alfalfa causing some deaths to the livestock.

Boat Safety Course Offered

An eight-week course in basic seamanship will be given by Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 14 of San Rafael starting Monday in room LA 103 at San Rafael High School, 7:30 p.m.

The session was originally scheduled to start Sept. 13, but had to be postponed because of room conflicts.

The two-hour long courses, free of charge, will cover topics such as maneuvering, marlin spike, aids to navigation, rules of road, charts and compass, legal requirements, and safe boat operation.

Cycles, Cars In Oakland Show

More than 200 hand-crafted vehicles will be displayed at the California Custom Motorcycle and Car Show opening tonight at 6 o'clock for a three-day run in the Oakland Coliseum.

Show doors will be open from 6 to 10 p.m. tonight and from 1-10 p.m. tomorrow and Sunday in the Coliseum Exhibit Hall.

Among the featured entries are a $11,000 "bubble-topped" three-wheeled motorcycle and the $20,000 "funny car" of San Rafael's Ken Silvestri. San Bruno's Luciano Sarra will show his gold-plated Jaguar.

Seals Defeated For 5th Time

SUDBURY, Ont. (UPI)—The California Golden Seals are having their troubles in the National Hockey League preseason games.

The Seals fell 4-1 Thursday night to the St. Louis Blues for their fifth loss without a win in the exhibition season. California scored first in the opening period on a goal by Gary Croteau, but the Blues got goals in all three periods.

The Seals play another preseason game Saturday night against the Buffalo Sabres at St. Catharines, Ont.

Plenty Of Quail For Opener

Hunters invading the northwestern part of the state for the opening of quail season tomorrow will find large numbers of young birds, the Department of Fish and Game reminded shotgunners today.

This year valley quail will be available in the area a month before the statewide opening Oct. 30. Field reports indicate that because of weather conditions the hatch of most upland game species was delayed from two to three weeks.

Valley, mountain and desert quail all will be legal game in these areas until Jan. 2, 1972. Open counties are Marin, Sonoma, Mendocino, Lake, Humboldt and Del Norte.

Also opening Saturday is the special mountain quail season. Hunters are cautioned to consult the regulations booklet for open areas. Good production has been noted in several areas, notably between 5,000 and 7,000 feet in the Sierra.

On another front, prospects are rated good — on a par with those for last — for the tree squirrel season, also opening tomorrow. The season ends Jan. 30, 1972, except in Butte County where it will close Nov. 28. Bag and possession limits are four per day, four in possession.

SETTING SAIL — Knud Wibroe (left) and crew of daughter, Susanne, and Hal McCormick of Sausalito are shown in action during the recent International Knarr regatta on San Francisco Bay.

KNUD WIBROE

Champ Of The Knarrs

By RALPH CHATOIAN

There is boat racing and there is boat racing, but for Knud Wibroe of Sausalito, newly crowned yachting champ, Knarr class racing's the thing.

Wibroe, a blonde-headed Dane, won the International Knarr championship earlier this month in a series of races on San Francisco Bay. The 44-year-old skipper wrested the title from Niels Johansen of Denmark, winner of last year's international test held in his own country. Johansen was fifth this time.

In the Knarr series, skippers can't use their own boats, but draw boats by lot, a different one each of the six days of competition. It is truly a test of skipper talent, not quality of boat.

"That's the unique aspect of Knarr racing," said Wibroe, "It really tests the man, not the boat, not the machinery."

Wibroe and Richard Griffith, members of the San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere, are the persons largely responsible for making the Knarr test into an international event. It was on a trip to Europe in 1966 when the pair discussed the possibility of an international regatta with the Danes and Norwegians.

"They were really surprised when we told them we had about 30 Knarrs in our San Francisco Bay fleet," said Wibroe.

First of the series was held in 1969, San Francisco Yacht Club hosting it as part of the club's centennial celebration. Dr. Robert M. York of Belvedere, who died in a skiing accident early this year, won that first international test, with Wibroe finishing second. Last year's races were held in Denmark. Johansen winning. Griffith finished third in that one, Wibroe ninth.

KNUD WIBROE
Consistent

Crewing for Wibroe this year were his daughter, Susanne 15, and Hal McCormick of Sausalito.

Wibroe and his wife, Kirsten, also have another daughter, Claire, 11. "Now I'm waiting for Claire to get a little older so I'll able to have them both crew for me," Knud said with a smile.

Wibroe is very proud of the Bay Knarr fleet. "It's probably the most active racing class on the bay," he said. "There's really a great group of people and the international racing of the Knarr has created tremendous interest."

Although he'll be the defending champion when the fourth annual regatta is held next year in Bergen, Norway, he won't get an automatic spot in the 20-boat field. He'll still have to qualify as one of five U.S. representatives. According to Knarr International rules, host club gets 10 places while the other two visiting countries, U.S. and Denmark in this case, get five each.

A native of Denmark, Wibroe came to the United States in 1954. He is president of Vacu-Lift Co., engineers and manufacturers of pneumatic conveying systems, office in San Francisco and plant in Petaluma.

A big year for Wibroe, who has been racing boats since a youngster, was 1966, when he won first place in Knarr racing at the Royal Danish Yacht Club Centenary Regatta at Copenhagen. He ran away with the regatta, with two firsts, one second, a third and a fourth.

His victory earlier this month on San Francisco Bay was by a much narrower margin, just 1.7 points, his 40 points edging Al Blair of Sausalito who was second at 41.7 and Niels Grauballe of Denmark, third at 43.7.

In the International Knarr test this month, points were obtained from the five best finishes of the six races of each contestant. Wibroe won once, had a second, a fifth, seventh and eighth. And that is called consistency.

Hunter Tries A $100 Blast With Shotgun

KERRVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—Creed Blevins rolled up a $100 bill several months ago and stuck it in the barrel of his 12-gauge shotgun for safekeeping until Christmas.

When the dove season opened Sept. 1, Blevins forgot all about the big bill. He took the shotgun out and went dove shooting.

His thoughts returned to his $100 several weeks after the hunt. At first, Blevins' mind would not accept the fate of his money.

"I had to think for a minute whether I really did it," he said. "I decided I wasn't going to tell my wife."

In desperation, he returned to the scene of the hunt and after a lot of searching, started finding fragments of his $100 bill. He found 11 pieces before giving up.

He said Thursday he had taped the pieces together and that a bank had given him a new $100 bill. He also said he told his wife about it.

THE SENATORS

What Do Texans Really Have?

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Far be it from me to toss a solemn note into the celebration or break up all that dancing in the streets of Texas, but now that the people there have the Washington Senators, have they stopped a minute and asked themselves what they've really got?

The answer is not much. Not very much at all.

They've got the Washington Senators, that's what they've got, and there'll be some nights next summer when those who come out to watch their new club in Arlington, Tex., will pine for their old one, the Dallas-Fort Worth Spurs.

For 13 years now he has battled, campaigned and cajoled, hoping to get a major league club, any club, for his area and after the Senators' moved was made official good old Tommy Vandergriff exclaimed:

That sounds exactly like the late Branch Rickey. He'd invariably say something like that when he didn't have much to work with. The Washington Senators or Dallas-Fort Worth Shorthorns don't have a lot to work with.

Ted Williams knows them better than anyone else. He has worked hard with them. He never actually became completely discouraged but there were many times particularly last season and this one when he'd sit there on the bench, see things go wrong, little simple things, and his stomach would turn into knots. Ask his players, they'll tell you. Better yet, ask Ted Williams. He's always bone honest. He'll tell you himself. He'll tell you he never had to chew those aids for a nervous stomach when he played for Boston. He chews them now managing Washington.

When you talk about the Senators' future the first one you mention is Pete Broberg, the rookie right-handed pitcher. He's good and he's going to get better. Maybe he'll be the best in the league one day.

Pete Broberg came to the Senators straight off the Dartmouth campus and when and if he makes it big there could be others to help him, others like Mike Thompson, Larry Biitner, Jeff Burroughs, Bill Fahey and Joe Lovitto with whose names you might not be so familiar.

If you went out and asked the man in the street right now to name you one player with the Washington Senators, he might scratch his head awhile and finally come up with Frank Howard. Most people have forgotten Denny McLain still is with the club. A 10-21 record isn't that hard to forget.

Frank Howard is 35, isn't looking for any new worlds to conquer and says he's sentimentally attached to Washington anyway. So he isn't in the Senators' long range plans.

What it boils down to is that the people of Dallas-Fort Worth aren't getting a much better ball club than the people in Baltimore did when the St. Louis Browns shifted their franchise there in 1954, than the fans in Kansas City did when the A's were transferred from Philadelphia a year later, or than those in Milwaukee did when Seattle moved there last year.

One of the misconceptions arising out of this move by the Senators is that owner Bob Short made money out of it. Not so. Not yet, anyway. All the Texas banks promised was to pay off his loans and then he has to pay the banks back presumably from the TV-radio revenue he'll receive.

That still doesn't do anything for the people of Washington, however. What the major league owners should seriously consider now is having a couple of clubs play some of their games at Kennedy Stadium.

In any event, the eyes of Texas now are on its new ball club and Bob Short. Stories are circulating that he'll sell the club as soon as he gets it to Texas. He can't. Too many financial conditions are involved.

Maybe in two or three years though he might sell to someone like Lamar Hunt. Then maybe Paul Richards could meander over from Waxahachie to run the club too, and that would become what you call a real Texas operation, eh pardner?

TWO IMPORTS FOR 1972

Fantastic gas mileage is claimed for the Subaru 1300B (above) while Buick's Opel 1900 features a host of improvements over last year's models. The Subaru, a Japanese car, is said by its manufacturer to get about 33 miles per gallon. Available in two- and four-door models, the 1300B features a top speed of 100 miles per hour. Cars are at Marin Bay Lincoln Mercury, San Rafael, and Auto Fair, Novato. The Opel line for 1972 features nine models and an optional sun roof. Equipment includes a 1.9-liter cam-in-head engine, new starter, ventless side glass and power brakes with front discs. Cars are on display at Don Collins Buick, San Rafael.

Nixon Remarks Send Wall Street Higher

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock prices responded vigorously today to President Nixon's declaration that the "entire economy" will be included in the next phase of his program to get on an even keel.

With 1,451 issues on the tape, there were 818 advances, 323 declines. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained 0.53 to 98.91.

The response on the American Stock Exchange was equally vigorous, with 466 advances and 201 declines among the 902 issues traded. Topping the active list was Baker Industries, rising 1-8 to 18 on 20,900 shares. Next was McCulloch Oil, up 5-8 to 28 5-8 on 19,500 shares.

Big Board volume after almost two hours was a moderate 5.9 million shares.

The best response to the President's remarks seemed to come from the electronics and glamors, with several issues up a point or more. IBM rose 2 12, Burroughs 1 1-4, Texas Instruments 1, Polaroid 1 5-8 and Xerox 1 1-8. Among those with fractional gains were Honeywell, Motorola, Collins Radio and Memorex.

Autos were firm. The industry's sales for the mid-September period rose from the year-ago figure. General Motors picked up 1-4, Ford and Chrysler 5-8 apiece.

Dupont and Dow were gainers of more than a point in the chemicals. Some bargain hunting appeared in the airlines, with most issues on the plus side. Steels were firm.

Group Of Banks To Participate In New Securities Depository

A new securities depository operated by the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange Clearing Corp. and supported by the Pacific Coast Service Corp. (both Pacific Coast Stock Exchange subsidiaries), which will potentially immobilize billions of dollars in securities, was announced yesterday by exchange president Thomas P. Phelan.

The Pacific Coast depository is the first to fulfill regulatory requirements concerning physical segregation of customer-owned and hypothecated securities used as collateral. It offers immediate reclassification of positions through computerized bookkeeping entries, with fast, more accurate daily settlement of accounts, combined with reduction of interest payments and transfer fees.

Bank of America, Crocker Bank, Security Pacific National Bank, United California Bank and Wells Fargo Bank are now participants in the depository.

PORTSMOUTH SQUARE, INC. directors have elected Gennaro A. Filice Jr. chairman of the board and T. A. de Lusignan president of Portsmouth Equity Corp. Vacancies were created by the resignation of Palmer York Jr. from those offices. Filice is vice president, U.S. marketing, for the Del Monte Corp. and has been a director of Portsmouth Square since May. De Lusignan has been president and chief executive officer of Portsmouth Square, Inc. since last December. The company showed a net loss of $750,442 for the nine months ended March 31. It is a diversified holding company which owns a 67 per cent equity in the 572-room Holiday Inns Chinatown-Financial Center hotel. Subsidiaries include York Securities Corp. and Robo Bay Cities, Inc. Its subsidiary Portsmouth Square Equity Corp. is a retailer of mutual funds and life insurance with 12 offices in Northern California.

JANTZEN, INC., Portland, preliminary figures for the fiscal year ended Aug. 28 show sales of approximately $75.5 million, up about 7 per cent over the prior year. Estimated profit after taxes is $2.25 million, also up 7 per cent. Per share earnings of $1.42 per share would be up 12 per cent. Directors recently declared the regular quarterly dividend of 15 cents.

BOOTH NEWSPAPERS, INC., Ann Arbor, Mich., has made a public offering of 570,800 shares of its common stock and is being underwritten by Goldman, Sachs and Co. The stock is held by several Booth family members and the Cranbrook Foundation of Bloomfield Hills, Mich.

BEATRICE FOOD CO. sales, net earnings and earnings per common share reached all-time highs for both the second quarter and the first half of the current fiscal year ended Aug. 31. Net earnings increased 13 per cent to $18.4 million for the second quarter. Sales were up 13 per cent to $513.7 million, and sales for the first six months passed the billion dollar mark for the first time.

POPE AND TALBOT DEVELOPMENT, INC., previously based in Seattle, has moved south to corporate headquarters in Portland. It has been active in land development throughout the Puget Sound area for the past 60 years.

Engine Production Switched To U.S.

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co., in transferring the manufacture of the four-cylinder Pinto engine from Europe to the United States, will spend millions to expand its Cleveland foundary.

Lee A. Iacocca, Ford president, said Tuesday the expansion will begin by the end of the year and will be completed by the end of 1972. Its precise cost was not announced.

Situations Needed For Land Sale

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Leaders of the National Real Estate Exchange have found that the old idea of simply matching a buyer and seller and you've got a sale just "ain't necessarily so."

As one of the largest handlers of real estate in the nation, the San Francisco-based exchange has to be an authority on what makes a sale. The exchange finds that a valid match of buyer and seller of real property is best accomplished when four situations are completely covered.

The first requisite is that complete information about the property be available.

Second, there must be a clear understanding of the motivation and need of the seller.

The third point is complete knowledge and demand of the buyer.

And finally, full disclosure of the buyer's ability to perform must take place early in the discussion.

Wheat Aid

BRUSSELS (UPI)—The European Common Market earmarked 1 million tons of wheat as food aid for free distribution in poor nations of Africa, Latin America, Asia and the Middle East during 1971.

Maier Named To Kaiser Post

OAKLAND (BW) — Executive Vice President Cornell C. Maier has been appointed general manager of Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp.

As executive vice president and general manager, Maier will assume responsibility for the day-to-day operations of Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp.'s diversified and multinational acitivites.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

What Freeze Does To Stock Dividends

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold two stocks which normally pay extra dividends in the final quarter. How will the freeze affect this — G.B.

A. Although corporate dividends were not specifically included in the freeze, President Nixon did request that companies hold the line on payouts. Prior to the freeze, 6 per cent more companies had raised, resumed or paid extra dividends than in the comparable period of 1970. Since Aug. 15, only a handful of companies have taken dividend action which could be construed as being in violation of the spirit of the freeze.

Additional dividend guidance was issued by the Cost of Living Council on Sept. 14. "A company that has, as an established practice, either declared extra dividends at a particular time of year, or followed a pattern of variation in dividends throughout the year, may increase its dividends according to its past practice." The payout, however, must not exceed that declared in the previous year.

Q. My husband and I, now in our 30s, are in a position to invest for our future. A bank stock and utility have been suggested. What would you recommend? — L.P.

A. The two groups suggested, in my opinion, do not offer the kind of growth which you should be seeking. Schlitz Brewing (NYSE) has an exceptional growth record in an expanding industry and would be my choice. Last year, Schlitz produced one out of every eight barrels of beer consumed or 13 per cent of the domestic market. Shipments for 1971 are expected to exceed 16 barrels, 7 per cent more than in 1970. With the completion, later this year, of its ninth brewery, capacity will surpass the 20-million barrel mark.

PETERSEN — Seaman Robert D. Petersen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Petersen of 5 Willis Lane, Fairfax, has graduated from recruit training at the Naval Training Center in San Diego.

Accused Slayer Watson Said Feigning Insanity

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A psychiatrist who treated Charles "Tex" Watson after he was declared insane and committed to a state mental hospital testified Thursday that the accused Tate-LaBianca slayer was "malingering, playing the perfect fool."

Dr. Alfred Owre, assistant superintendent of Atascadero State Hospital, was called by the prosecution as a rebuttal witness to defense psychiatrists who said Watson was suffering from a psychosis.

Watson was sent to Atascadero after he was extradited to California from McKinney, Texas, where he was arrested. One psychiatrist testified then that he was a "vegetable."

But Owre said Watson was suffering only from depression, not any mental illness. Watson spent 111 days at the hospital and then was pronounced competent to stand trial.

Owre said he brought Watson out of the depression by making him angry to the point where he shouted, "I could kill you ... I could kill now."

From then on, the psychiatrist testified, Watson was a "model patient."

Owre said staff members who observed Watson without him knowing it noted that he closed his usually open mouth and conversed normally with other patients.

Owre said he believed Watson was malingering even during the trial, basing his opinion on a brief conversation with the defendant.

Watson was brought to California after the first Tate trial was underway. After Charles Manson and three others were sentenced to death for the seven killings, Watson was brought to trial. He has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

Agnew Says New Soviet Jet Superior

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, advising that the United States is "drifting" toward less military strength, said Thursday night the Soviet Union is already using in Egypt a jet fighter better than any U.S. aircraft.

Agnew's statement on the MIG23 Foxbat was the first U.S. acknowledgement that the plane was being used against Israel.

It dovetailed with a speech earlier Thursday by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., that as many as 100,000 Soviet-backed troops were massing on Egyptian borders of Israeli-occupied territory.

"Their newest fighter, the Foxbat, is now operational in Egypt and cannot be matched in performance by anything we have in operation," Agnew said at a meeting of the National Security Industrial Association.

The MIG23, generally armed with missiles designed to bring down other aircraft, can fly higher and faster than the U.S. Phantom, which has a speed of 2-4 times faster than sound, or 1,500 miles per hour.

"To say that we are drifting toward imminent peril, to say that our national survival is at stake is no exaggeration," Agnew said. "In this nuclear age, there will be no lead time for leisurely rearmament."

Jackson, in a floor speech, was critical of the administration for following a "naive indecisive" policy in meeting the threat of a possible Egyptian assault across the Suez canal.

Former Bruce Wife In Suit

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Honey Harlow, former wife of the late comedian Lenny Bruce, sued a writer Thursday for $850,000, contending he tricked her into signing a contract while she was a heroin addict.

Miss Harlow said she signed a release for use of her name and facts of her life with Bruce for an initial $200, which she used to buy heroin. Her total payment came to $1,200.

The suit said writer Lawrence Schiller used a tape of a conversation with her to produce the record album "Why Did Lenny Bruce Die?" The record was made in 1966, the suit said, while Miss Harlow was still suffering from the shock of Bruce's death and was on heroin. The couple, divorced at the time, had been married for seven years.

Ribicoff Is Baffled By Drug Story

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., said today the administration has given both a yes and a no answer when asked whether it can identify Southeast Asian officials who are engaged in the international traffic in drugs.

On July 7, Ribicoff said in a Senate speech, Attorney General John N. Mitchell testified that "the fact of the matter is that there has been involvement by government officials in some of these countries" and that the U.S. government had "identified some of them."

But when Ribicoff's Senate subcommittee on executive reorganization asked Mitchell to return for a closed-door session where he would be asked to name those officials, the Justice Department changed its story.

"We do not have any specific evidence which links any high official in the Southeast Asian countries with the narcotic traffic there," Richard G. Kleindienst, deputy attorney general, wrote Ribicoff.

Since then, Ribicoff said, the Justice and Defense Departments and the Central Intelligence Agency have turned down invitations to testify in a closed session of his subcommittee.

A Pentagon official wrote: "This is to advise you that there are no personnel in the Department of Defense qualified to testify in regard to the problem of international drug traffic and we will, therefore, be unable to provide a witness as you have requested."

Ribicoff wants the information because his subcommittee is considering a bill to create a permanent White House office of drug control.

Ribicoff wants the new agency to have jurisdiction over law enforcement policy and issues involving international traffic in drugs. The administration wants those functions assigned to the Justice and Defense Departments.

Portland Recruiting Building Is Bombed

There were no injuries and police said the blast did not cause extensive damage. There was no fire.

Hurricane Ginger Charts New Course

MIAMI (UPI)—Meandering Hurricane Ginger, a massive storm the size of Florida, returned to its birthplace today and aimed its 75-mile an hour winds westward toward the southeastern United States.

Since bloosoming in the Atlantic about 250 miles north of the Bahamas islands September 9th, Ginger has cut a huge figure eight in the central Atlantic Ocean. It reached the point where it started after buffeting the British resort island of Bermuda Thursday with near-hurricane winds.

"Ginger is a large, but not terribly powerful storm," hurricane forecaster Gil Clark said. "Her gale winds cover a 75,000 square mile area, which is about the state of Florida."

After buffeting Bermuda Thursday, Ginger began absorbing most of the circulation of smaller tropical storm, Janice, some 1,500 miles to the south. Then Ginger took off westsouthwestward toward the U.S. mainland.

Already Ginger is rolling huge ocean swells toward the southeast coast in an area from West Palm Beach, Fla., northward to Cape Hatteras, N.C. Small craft warnings were hoisted at dawn along most of this coastal area. Clark said Ginger was kicking up 12 foot seas in the open Atlantic.

At mid-morning, Ginger was centered about 575 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras and was moving toward the westsouthwest at 12 m.p.h. —a track it was expected to maintain for the next 24 hours..

"This means the storm is at least two days away from the mainland if it continues on its present course," Clark said. "Ginger may get somewhat stronger as it moves into warmer waters, but we don't expect any rapid intensification because the storm is so large."

Janice, meanwhile, had been downgraded to a tropical depression. After most of its circulation was absorbed by Ginger, Clark said Janice "has little hope for developing."

At last reports, Janice was about 500 miles east of San Juan, P.R., and was moving toward the northwest at 15 m.p.h. The highest sustained winds were only 35 m.p.h., and forecasters said the depression was expected to move about 150 miles northeast of the Leeward Islands later today.

Thieves Steal Star's Jewelry

WINKFIELD, England (UPI)—Thieves broke into actress Shirley MacLaine's home while she was away filming and stole $24,700 worth of jewelry, police said.

The theft, discovered Thursday, was the second in a year at her home in this village 25 miles west of London, police said.

In September, 1970, thieves made off with $98,400 in jewels, including an $84,000 jade bracelet.

SALT Envoy Is Pleased With Talks

HELSINKI (UPI)—The United States and the Soviet Union today said they had found "certain areas of common ground" and achieved "a clearer understanding" of the problems of curbing nuclear weapons during the fifth round of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT), which ended today.

A joint communique said the next round of SALT will resume in Vienna Nov. 15.

The communique said U.S. Chief Negotiator Gerard C. Smith and his Soviet counterpart, Vladimir S. Semenov, "have engaged in detailed consideration" of a limitation of defensive nuclear systems (ABMS) and "have given consideration" to certain measures with respect to limitation of offensive weapons.

This was the outline agreed on by Washington and Moscow last May 20 in a joint U.S.Soviet announcement.

Observers said this may be a reference to a reported but unconfirmed agreement designed to prevent nuclear war by accident.

No observers had expected anything else. After 22 months of negotiations a comprehensive treaty, covering ABMS and some aspects of offensive weapons, is still in existence only on the drawing board, conference sources said.

Former Israeli Air Boss: Hit Missiles

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Ezer Weizman, the former Israeli air force chief who masterminded the Israeli air victory in the 1967 war, said today Israel should "remove the threat" of the Soviet missiles Egypt has massed along the Suez Canal.

"I think we should remove the threat of the missiles from our forces in the Sinai," he said in an interview with the newspaper Haaretz. "We must enable the air force to fly and protect our forces on the canal. The meaning of all this is that the war of missiles must be eliminated."

Weizman was commenting on last Friday's incident in which Egyptians firing Soviet-made SAM missiles shot down an unarmed Israeli air force transport plane, killing seven men. Egypt has missiles along the entire length of the 102-mile waterway and in recent weeks Israel has reported missile sites less than two miles from the canal.

Weizman, considered a "hawk," resigned from the army high command last year to enter politics. He became a cabinet minister for the right-wing Gahal bloc but quit the government to protest Israel's decision to return last summer to peace talks being conducted by U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring.

He said there was no reason why the Israeli air force could not take out the missile sites.

"Professionally this can be done," he said. "There is nothing our air force cannot do. All the talk that we lack special types of missiles or other weapons is mere talk."

There also was warlike talk in Cairo. Egyptian War Minister Mohammed Ahmed Sadek told a meeting of Egyptian air force generals that Egypt's armed forces are capable of repelling any military adventures the Israelis might undertake.

UPI diplomatic correspondent K.C. Thaler reported in London that British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home would take advantage of his presence at the United Nations to try to persuade Israel, Egypt and Jarring to resume peace talks.

A New Yet Old Idea For Courthouse Square

How about a plaza (the Spanish term) or a common (the New England term) in the heart of downtown San Rafael?

That could be the result of city purchase of Courthouse Square, as proposed by Mayor C. Paul Bettini.

The mayor's proposal, now under discussion at staff level between city and county, is the first new look at the knotty problem of "what to do about Courthouse Square?"

IT IS NOT REALLY a new look. It is a return to an old idea — the idea that a city's heart should be an open square. This is to be found in California cities that still follow the original Spanish plans, such as Sonoma and Napa. It is to be found in some Midwest cities and many cities in the East.

We doubt that any ciry that has such a midtown park would voluntarily surrender any of it to commercial development. Yet that is what all preceding plans have proposed to do with part of Courthouse Square.

We talk about preserving the environment. There were some who felt keenly that the old courthouse itself should be preserved as some sort of historical monument — a choice which was taken away when fire gutted the structure. But the principal esthetic value of the square lay, not in the old building, but in the square's openness.

That openness could be preserved and improved if the city were to buy the block and convert it to recreation-park use and — to a lesser extent — to parking.

What parking is needed could be provided by a lot in the interior of the square which could be screened by trees except for entrance and exit, and would not obtrude onto the park. If later it were found that more parking was necessary, this could be made a double-deck lot — or even triple-deck.

The annex building, which survived the fire, could continue in use for city recreation center — for which part of it is now rented from the county.

MERCHANTS WHO HAVE been crying about the blow to downtown from loss of the courthouse might find that a pleasant midtown square would prove their greatest business attraction.

We commend Mayor Bettini for looking farther ahead than have others with their plans for development of this last open block in the "old town" where San Rafael had its beginnings.

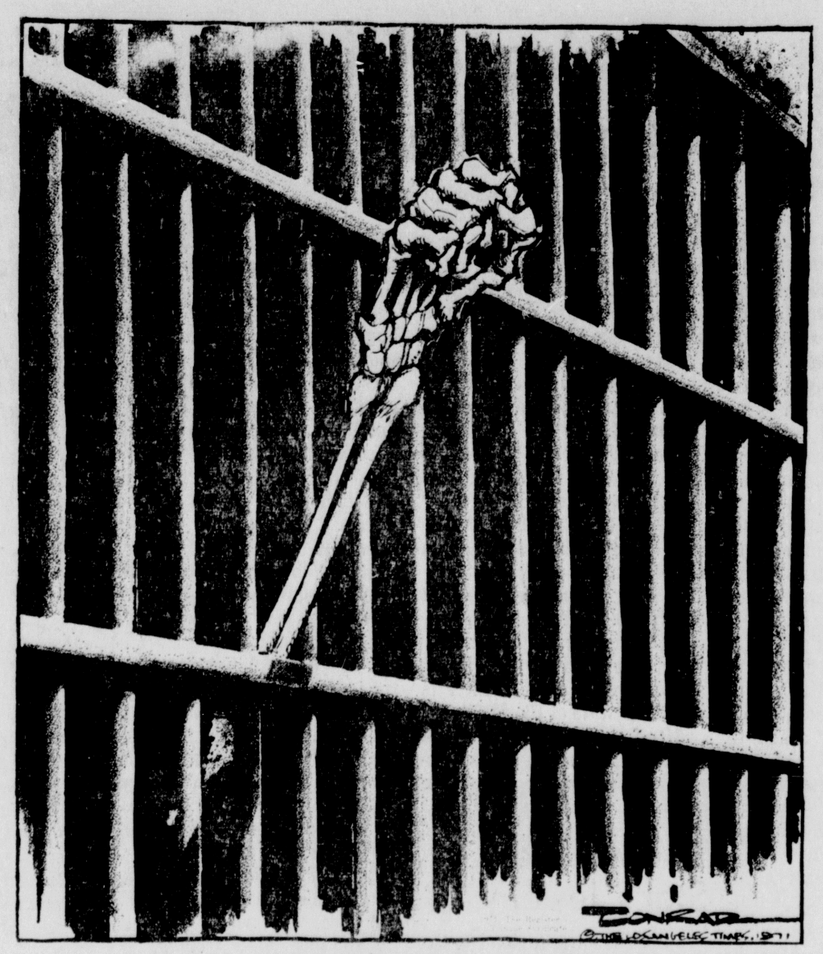
How to arrange the purchase from the county by the city presents some problems. But certainly they should not be insurmountable.

NEGOTIATORS ON BOTH sides would do well to bear this in mind: The courthouse square does not belong to the county government. If the city bought it, it would not belong to the city government.

It belongs to the people of Marin County. And the people of Marin County who paid for it in the first place were mostly in San Rafael. So the change of ownership from county to city would not really be a change in ownership — merely a change in title. The owners would remain the people.

We think the people are entitled to remain the oners. And we think the square should be put to the use of greatest benefit to the people — not of the greatest revenue to county or city.

Mayor Bettini's plan may be the best way to accomplish this.



And the Revolutionaries Cry, "Right On!"

County Park Proposed On Fairfax Site

The Fairfax Marin Town and Country Club with its beautiful trees and swimming pools might soon be converted into a mass of concrete by profit-hungry developers. A county park in this area could preserve this historic site, and would best serve the needs of the Marin citizens. But Marin County, the richest county in California, does not seem to be rich enough to provide a public swimming pool or lake for its people. A society which wastes billions for the destruction of Indochina, but cannot afford swimming facilities at home, is utterly insane. The Fairfax citizens should rezone the Marin Town and Country Club as recreational area, and thus prevent the bulldozing of their only public swimming pool.

Suicide Prevention Not One-Man Show

I wish to commend your paper for the coverages you have given our organization during the past year and for the fine article published Sept. 21 regarding the operation of the center.

It should be clarified, however, that yours truly was not the sole primary motivator towards establishing the center. To start with, Marin Association for Mental Health, our parent organization, has given much of their time and efforts in assisting us in incorporating as a nonprofit organization and has continued throughout lending this support.

In addition, a nucleus of several people formed a steering committee some two and a half years ago with their attitudes directed towards saving lives through a suicide prevention center. I was merely one of these people.

Through the processes of incorporation, that group has now grown to some 150 people, all contributing in some way towards building a solid suicide prevention center. The Independent-Journal as well as other news media have also contributed to the success of the center and its future through constant cognizance of our existence and the on-going training program. It is gratifying to notice the increasing awareness of the general public of our growth and success and I firmly believe their awareness is attributable to publicity.

The grant given to us by the board of supervisors will only carry us through December 1971. Other applications for funding are now being prepared for 1972. In the interim, we encourage financial support from the populace either individually or collectively.

Pay For San Anselmo School Jobs Explained

In reply to Mrs. Sarah Nome's letter (Sept. 21) regarding two teacher assistant positions and a clerk position in the San Anselmo School District, several points need to be clarified:

1. The salary schedule for our district is based on a 12-month, 8-hour working day. The two educationally handicapped assistants therefore receive $2.95 per hour (5.% of $497) or 64 cents less than the $3.59 recommended by the educationally handicapped committee. Since the two people involved were already employed by the district as teacher aides, this was an upgrading due to increased responsbilities . . .

2. The clerk position at Red Hill School is based on the fact that Mrs. Spencer had previously substituted in the district (therefore given priority in hiring) and placed on step 3, range 4 of the salary schedule. Again based on a 6-hour day (6/8 of $497) the actual salary she will receive is $372.75 per month.

3. The San Anselmo chapter of the Classified School Employees Association takes pride in the fact that a great deal of reserach in job comparison within the county is done before negotiations . . .

I feel our members are doing an outstanding job in cutting expenses in our district in performance of duties which command much higher salaries in other districts.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Plenty Of Complications In Reapportionment Task

By MARY K. SHELL

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The political architects are bent over their drawing boards, and the plans they devise can have an effect on your economic and physical well-being for the next 10 years.

Their assignment? Reapportionment to bring legislative representation into line with the state's population, according to the 1970 census.

At first glance, it would appear to be a relatively simple task. The population, by official count, is approximately 19.9 million. Dividing this total into 40 equal parts for the state Senate puts 498,828 in each district, and a division into 80 equal parts puts 249,414 in each Assembly district.

WHY NOT START at the north end of the state and draw a line each time you reach the ideal district population?

There are several barriers to this approach, the first being the existing political sub-divisions, such as cities and counties, and next, the geography involved.

But probably the most significant barrier is the partisan political consideration. The name of this game is gerrymandering, a term first applied to a salamander-shaped district in Massachusetts drawn in 1812 when a man named Gerry was governor. Gerrymandering is the practice of drawing district lines to favor one political party over another.

The party in power at the time the lines are redrawn holds within its hands, to a great extent, the courst of California politics for the next decade.

THE DEMOCRATS recognized this political fact of life in 1951, and launched an offensive to capture enough seats to make them the architects of the 1961 reapportionment. The results were startling, particularly in the Democratic sweep of 1958.

The Republicans came back in the early 1960s with an equal determination, organizing their Cal-Plan attack, which centered concerted effort in selected target districts. Unfortunately for the GOP, however, they tasted victory too soon. In the elections of 1968 they captured control of both houses of the State Legislature, but by the time for reapportionment came along, that edge was back with the Democrats.

One important factor, however, has changed the complexion of reapportionment and that is the Supreme Court guidelines handed down in the mid-1960s. Under these "one man, one vote" dictates, gerrymandering can only go so far.

THE LEGISLATURE can draw the lines, but Governor Reagan holds the trump card. He can veto any plan he considers unfair. The Democrats need six Republicans in the Senate and 12 in the Assembly to override a gubernatorial veto, which seems unlikely. If this sort of impasse develops, the task, according to the state constitution, would go to a five-man commission, composed of the lieutenant governor, the attorney general, the controller, the secretary of state, and the superintendent of public instruction. The GOP would hold a 3-2 edge on such a commission.

In spite of the fact reapportionment is one of the major items to be decided this session, until a few days ago no plan had been introduced and secrecy surrounded plans under consideration. It's no wonder. Somebody's going to be hurt in reapportionment, and it could be a vote needed to get a bill through this session.

AN EDUCATOR'S VIEW

Unification Panacea Proves Bad Medicine For Schools

By JOHN W. GILBAUGH
(Professor of Education, San Jose State College)

School unification propagandists have done irreparable harm to public education. Most of the benefits they claimed for bigness have been outweighed by a multiplicity of disadavantages. The bait used to lure support from parents for large unified school districts contains numerous, well-concealed hooks. One of these is the surrender of local school control for lower costs of improved education. In most instances the promises of reduced costs and better education are never fulfilled. The pattern has been one of soaring taxes and deterioration of education.

The high costs of maintaining administrative staffs in small school districts is generally cited as an unnecessary expenditure which unification eliminates. With unification or district consolidation, it is pointed out, a single staff can administer one large district more efficiently than several administrative staffs can manage several small districts.

WHAT BECOMES of the administrative staffs of small schools when their districts become part of a consolidated district? Most of them are absorbed and given new titles at higher salaries in the unified district. They become assistant superintendents, business managers, curriculum supervisors and counselors in the new administrative apparatus. And, whereas, most of them were available and responsive to their constituents before consolidation, they become the unresponsive unreachables in a bureaucracy remote from school patrons in the large unified district.

A new twist is developing on the large unified district scene. The large district unit has become a patsy for activist judges and a sect of social engineers who have presumed to know more than parents about the welfare of children.

So they have begun the erosion of the foundation on which the free enterprise system operates by busing children, whose parents worked a lifetime to get out of the slums, back to the slums. If foresight were as keen as hindsight, the battle for neighborhood schools would have been settled when proponents for school district unification first disseminated their propaganda decades ago.

SCHOOL DISTRICT unification has decimated the ranks of school board members. With thousands of viable, small districts consolidated into large districts, the opportunity for hundreds of parents to participate in a meaningful way in school affairs has disappeared. Of course, there remain the relatively impotent PTA and often "rigged" study groups appointed by the bureaucracy to parrot preconceived notions advocated by the appointive agency.

Recognizing the futility of improving public education through such activity, increasing numbers of parents seek to send their children to private and parochial schools which more nearly reflect their own values.

Thieu's Non-Contest Election Speeding Nixon's Troop Pull-Out

WASHINGTON — There is growing evidence that President Nixon is preparing to advance the date for ending completely the U.S. combat role in Vietnam.

There is good reason to expect that by early November the President will announce a new stepped-up pace of troop withdrawal.

Four powerful factors contribute to this prospect:

2 — The rapidly deteriorating discipline and morale of the American force remaining in Vietnam.

3 — The increased strength of the South Vietnamese army.

4 — The decline in the fighting.

Getting out is going to come faster than ever. There is no doubt that President Thieu's recent political actions are strengthening the arguments for increasing the speed of withdrawal.

Thieu cannot fail to be aware that his part in bringing about an election in which he would have no opponent alienates U.S. public opinion and reduces the range of flexibility open to Nixon.

This is a consequence Thieu could not fail to foresee and it wasn't long in coming in the sharp criticism by the Democratic Party's strongest supporter of the Vietnamese war, Sen. Henry Jackson D-Wash. President Thieu could hardly have received a more ominous warning than the statement that Senator Jackson "must now reserve his position regarding future U.S. military and economic aid to the South Vietnamese government."

THE FACT THAT THIEU persists in holding an uncontested election in which there is not even a provision on the ballot to vote against the one-candidate ticket certainly justifies American officials in concluding:

That President Thieu, aware that his actions would move U.S. sentiment still more strongly against the war, must believe that faster and earlier withdrawal is acceptable — that South Vietnam can soon manage its own defense.

It is hard to see how Thieu would pursue a course which he knows would turn American opinion more against the war unless he felt that the U.S. combat role can be ended soon.

This appears to be his premise and it seems likely that most American officials, including the President, read Thier's signals to mean exactly that.

Nixon has always geared the pace of troop withdrawal to the ability of the South Vietnamese forces to assume the burden of defending their own country. Nixon has always wanted to get out of Vietnam as soon as yossible. The evidence that the Thieu government has concluded that continued U.S. presence is no longer critical will speed up the process.

AMERICAN COMBAT strength in Vietnam is already at a low level. In another few weeks U.S. combat maneuver battalions will have been cut to less than 20 per cent of their peak. Further reductions will almost certainly be announced by the President in November.

This means that the terminal point of U.S. combat operations in Vietnam is in sight.

Nixon, however, does not propose to end arms and economic assistance in the early future and it seems to me he is right. Thieu has done his people a disservice in arranging a no-contest presidential election, but it is still in the interest of the United States that South Vietnam should be able to defend itself. American arms and economic aid is unquestionably essential to that end.

We should not let Thieu's mistake keep us from acting in our own national interest to provide some of the means to help South Vietnam defend itself. But from the standpoint of U.S. combat, the war in Vietnam is about over.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Black Realists See Truth Of Muskie's Statement

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — The flap over Edmund Muskie's comment on the electability of a black vice presidential candidate is now over, or should be. Now it is instructive to examine the two kinds of reaction to Muskie's remark, and what that remark did and did not do to his presidential prospects.

There were, most loudly, the opportunists who tried to make Muskie's statement seem an outrage, "a libel upon the American people." They were the politicians who are most directly threatened by his campaign for the presidency. Having had their say, they have turned back to their jobs, and it is there that the sincerity of their outcries will be judged best. Watch Mr. Nixon's enforcement of voting rights laws and other measures intended to bring blacks into full political participation, for example.

There also were the realists, who heard Muskie's comment for what it was — the truth. They know that what he said, that no ticket featuring a black man in the No. 2 spot is likely to win a national election, is simple fact. Many of them in response have geared up that much higher to change the fact.

A national caucus of them is planned in Chicago this week end. Its principal aim is to hold the black vote together, in precincts, districts, states and nationwide. Black candidates at each level will be important means toward that end. But for now, if the furtherance of black Americans' welfare is the objective, merely getting black faces on campaign placards will be secondary to supporting a national candidate whose commitment to black progress is firm and long-standing.

Of course there will be oratory at Chicago about an independent black party, and about joining forces with a fourth party movement. There will be day-dreaming and morale boosting and threats. Not all of the invited participants are as zeroed in on elective politics as is Julian Bond, the Georgia legislator, who is the principal organizer of the meeting.

Ralph Abernathy of the SCLC, for example, was invited but had scheduled a speaking trip to Russia. He has been talking about holding hands with the Black Panthers, and also has sent an aide with a letter to Mao Tse-tung, saying he wants to learn all about the Cultural Revolution, development of leaders and mass participation in the Chinese People's Republic.

He could learn a lot more if he hired a hotel room, puffed it full of cigar smoke, and somehow prevailed on one of Dick Daley's ward captains to come up and give him an evening's seminar on getting out the vote.

DESPITE THE ENLARGEMENT of the black voting roles since the Voting Rights Act of 1965, the percentage of registered blacks voting has slumped since then. When the Chicago caucus gets past the mutual admiration oratory, the self-defeating talk about black parties and fourth parties, it is going to have to settle down and discuss how best to swing its weight within the Democratic Party in 1972. And that weight is measured in numbers of blacks registered — and voting.

Julian Bond knows that. So do most of his colleages en route to Chicago. So do most of the potential presidential nominess, including Edmund Muskie.

As of now, he is the politician with whom those black leaders are most likely to be bargaining next summer. In his long career as state legislator, governor and senator, he has been a consistent advocate of civil rights and a supporter of black people's aspirations. There's nothing whatever in his record to suggest that in his comment about the vice presidency, he was speaking from either malice or ignorance.

THAT IS ONE REASON why comparison of Muskie's remark with George Romney's famous slip about being "brainwashed" is inappropriate. Like Muskie, Romney was the front-running candidate of the out party at this point in 1967. But what he said about being brainwashed on Vietnam merely gave a final point to his inability to cope with that subject, which had become clear six months earlier and was never remedied until his eventual withdrawal another six months after his faux pas.

Muskie is not in that awkward posture. The black leaders realize he is not, that in fact he had said the same thing before without creating any sensation. The ones who count most among them also realize that the harder they concentrate at their Chicago caucus and later on organizing voters instead of picking gratuitous fights with their friends, the sooner they will be bargaining realistically with him or someone like him for the vice presidential spot on the national ticket.

$20,000 Administrative Cost Grows To Third Of A Million

It was another hour of delightful Summer Pops on Channel 9 last Sunday evening — the Boston Symphony directed by Arthur Fiedler, with guest artists from the New York Opera Company (a mixed quartet) and a fine large chorus from the New England Conservatory of Music.

The entire program was made up of Rogers and Hammerstein. Nostalgic? You bet! Wonderful to relax in the big easy chair with cherished memories.

Those of you who are going to the opening performance at the Veterans' Memorial Auditorium should also have a wonderful evening. My wish for the event and those to come is for every success.

CONTINUING THE OBVIOUS need for restructuring the operation out at Brasilia: — Fourteen years ago the promoters of an administrator type constantly made the claim that by putting all personnel and purchasing under an administrator, millions would be saved annually and the cost would only be $20,000 a year.

I made a tape recording of a "Sounding Board" program on KTIM, on which the then auditor-controller contradicted that and said it would cost $30,000. Well, the first year's tab was over $50,000. How that brain child has grown!

It will run over a third of a million dollars this year (1971-72). This is an outrage!

THERE ARE THINGS we are entitled to know. First: How many new employees were taken on last year and how many left county employment? Then how many are expected this year? It will be simple to work out the per capita transaction cost. Second: How much in dollars has been purchased and what is expected this year? I think it will be mighty hard to show any profit. As a matter of fact somebody is going to have a heck of a time showing that they have saved anywhere near the cost of operating this administrative setup.

If it can't be proved that it saves more than the third of a million dollars a year it costs to maintain, this board of supervisors had better look alive. This is their Achilles heel and they should realize it and take steps to restructure. There are people around who might not be so adept at board meeting debate but would get the job done in fine style — people who would not abdicate their duty while reaching for more and more extra committee pay.

It should be plain by now that the board goofed when they followed the former administrator's vengeful scheme to turn all health matters plus other unrelated activities over to the coroner. The man is proving early in the performance that he just isn't that good. These recent two boo-boos, so serious that he went on TV to explain, could have serious aftermaths.

(If the gentleman who telephoned me last Saturday evening will get in touch with me, I think he will find that I now have the answer to his question.)

Youths Die In Belfast Explosion

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Five pounds of gelignite exploded in a house in the Roman Catholic Falls Road area of Belfast last night, killing a teen-age boy and girl and virtually demolishing the building, army officials said today.

The deaths brought to 110 the number who have died in two years of civil strike in Northern Ireland and to 78 the number killed this year. So far this year 24 soldiers, 3 policemen and 51 civilians have died.

Officials said the bodies of Rose Curry, 18, and the 17-year-old youth who died with her in the house were badly mutilated by the explosion on Merrion Street. The blast tore off the roof of the house and shattered windows in nearby houses. The area reputedly is a stronghold of the Irish Republican Army (IRA).

The boy was not immediately identified.

Hoffman Abides By Panel's Book Ruling

The panel ruled yesterday that Hoffman should pay $1,000 in cash to Forcade and provide him with 10,000 copies of the book at cost. Forcade will make a profit of $5,000 from the books which are to be sold through an "alternative distribution network" of collectives and communes. Both men said they were satisfied with the decision.

Forcade had asked for $5,000 for his work on the manuscript, another $3,500 for the trouble he had collecting the money and legal fees incurred in a suit which he since has dropped. Hoffman had offered $500, but said he would pay as much as $1,500 for Forcade's troubles.

The book's publisher, Grove Press, must agree to give up the 10,000 copies at cost. If the publisher refuses, the arbitration panel will work out another settlement, one member, author Craig Karpel, said. However, Karpel said Hoffman has talked to Grove Press and reported an accord is likely.

Beside Karpel, the panel included Mayer Vishner of the War Resisters' League and Dr. Howard Levy, a former Army doctor who was imprisoned after refusing to train Special Forces bound for Vietnam.

Innocent Plea To Battery

James Michael Peppard, 28, of Stinson Beach, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a misdemeanor charge of battery.

Pretrial conference was set for Oct. 13.

Peppard was arrested Sept. 7 on suspicion of possession of marijuana and dangerous drugs, as well as battery, but only the misdemeanor charge was filed against him.

The charge stems from a report by a Sausalito woman that Peppard grabbed her while she was walking down Bridgeway with her husband.

Miranda Convicted Of Arizona Robbery

Superior Court Judge Philip Marquardt did not set a date for sentencing for the defendant, who was tried under a fictitious name to avoid publicity.

Miranda was retried on the robbery charge due to the 1969 U.S. District Court decision that overturned his earlier conviction on grounds his confession was "involuntary and illegal."

Miranda's identity was kept from the jury until after the verdict was read because of the publicity he received over a Supreme Court decision regarding unrelated convictions for kidnaping and rape.

The high court's ruling held that criminal suspects must be advised of their constitutional rights before giving a confession. Miranda was retried on the kidnap-rape charges, convicted and sentenced to 20 to 30 years in prison.

Miranda was retried on the robbery charge under the name of "Jose Gomez" although lawyers and witnesses usually referrred to him as "the defendant" to avoid revealing his true identity.

Marquardt told the jurors Miranda was tried under the fictitious name "to protect the interests of the defendant and the public."

Miranda was accused of robbing Mrs. Barbara Sue Johnson of $8 in November, 1962.

Hong Kong Paper Says Ex-Mao Aide Escapes

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A Hong Kong newspaper said today Communist Chinese President Liu Shao-chi, who was ousted during Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung's Cultural Revolution, has escaped from house arrest.

The rightwing newspaper Daily Express said Liu was rescued from detention by Huang Yung-sheng, chief of staff of the Chinese People's Liberation Army.

"Liu Shao-chi is now missing in Communist-China and Huang Yung-sheng might have been arrested by the army of Mao Tse-tung's faction," the newspaper said.

All civil and military air traffic has been halted in an effort to keep Liu from escaping, the Daily Express said.

The newspaper said Huang was a close follower of Liu's in 1966 during the Cultural Revolution.

For day, reports and rumors have circulated that major changes have occurred in Communist China. Some reports have said Mao was ill, but this has been denied by Chinese embassies in world capitals.

The latest such report came from the English language Hong Kong Star which said Mao suffered a heart attack and collapsed at a meeting of the politburo Sept. 9.

China anaylsts in Hong Kong were dubious of the report in the Star, which frequently prints sensational reports on alleged events in China.

The New China News Agency (NCNA) in a report from Peking said today that Chinese Premier Chou En-lai met Thursday with a group of Japanese businessmen but the dispatch made no mention of any unusual developments in China.

Earlier reports from diplomatic sources in Tokyo said Chou had called off some appointments last week. Some of the reports led to speculation that some important changes may be taking place on the Chinese mainland.

Man Denies Hashish Count

Gregory John Golden, 22, of Larkspur, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to misdemeanor charges of possessing hashish and narcotics paraphernalia, being drunk in public and disturbing the peace.

A pretrial conference was set for Monday.

Golden was arrested Sept. 11 at Jones Way and Madrone Avenue in Larkspur after police were told he and another man were yelling and using abusive language.

While searching Golden at Marin County Jail, officers said they found a small amount of hashish and a pipe which could be used for smoking the drug, police said.

Drugs Used In Transplant Cases May Cross Placental Barriers

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ten months after a dying young woman was restored to health with a transplanted kidney she became pregnant. Doctors took a blood sample, from her apparently healthy baby one day after its birth and in the blood found broken chromosomes.

That is the culmination so far of science's growing suspicion that recipients of transplanted organs face more risks than the risk of losing them by "rejection." Another risk may be enhanced susceptibility to cancer. A third may be the reproducing of a faulty offspring.

Chromosomes carry the genes which are the recipe for a new individual. If they're messed up, the new individual will be ineffective in one or many ways and may not even make it through gestation.

To transplant an organ successfully medical scientists must suppress the recipient's defensive chemistry. If unchecked it will attack and kill this "foreign" tissue. That is rejection. One of the most effective suppressing drugs is azathioprine.

In experimental animals it reacts on the unborn, by killing, by stunting growth, by deforming. It could be it is breaking up chromosomes. But understandably, relatively little is known about its effects in human reproduction.

Drs. Daniel E. Leb of the University of Pittsburgh and Bernard Weisskopf and Bob S. Kanovitz of the University of Louisville reported the instance of the young woman to the American Medical Association.

Through her pregnancy she was given azathioprine regularly, to maintain the suppression of her defensive chemistry. When the newborn's blood revealed broken chromosomes the assumption had to be that the drug had crossed the placental barrier, from mother to fetus.

Especially when the mother's blood, in a sample taken a day after the infant was tested, showed broken chromosomes. Yet in both mother and baby, the chromosome abnormalities disappeared with time. The infant still appears both normal and healthy.

This they couldn't explain, the scientists said. In reproduction such surface chromosomes as those of blood cells are not important., they reminded. The controlling ones are in the ovum and sperm which upon union begin a new life. If broken up by a drug, will they right themselves? The scientists didn't know. At present those chromosomes are not open for routine checking.

In recipients of heart transplants it is no problem because in general they are beyond the reproductive years. But many kidney recipients are not, and they are much more numerous because kidney transplanting has been much more successful. A number of women, healthy with kidneys not their own, have had uneventful pregnancies and healthy offspring.

Assembly Nod To Access Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly yesterday agreed to a compromise bill aimed at overcoming a state Supreme Court ruling which gave the public legal access to private land.

On a 54-0 vote, the lower house endorsed a conference committee report which sought to iron out differences between the Assembly and Senate. The Senate still must approve the bill, by Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai.

Backers of the measure say it will discourage the threatened closure of up to 9 million acres in recreational land by private property owners who fear their ownership rights can become clouded by continued public access. Much of the land is mountain and agriculture terrain.

The state Supreme Court has ruled that private land open to public uses for at least five years can become public land.
